Attorney General Fox Sues Maker of Prescription Opioid OxyContin

Lawsuit targets Purdue Pharma for deceptive marketing that resulted in death

At a press conference Monday, Montana Attorney General Tim Fox announced his office filed a consumer protection lawsuit in Montana District Court against Purdue Pharma LLC., for ongoing deceptive marketing practices involving its prescription opioids, including OxyContin.

"Pharmaceutical companies that knowingly and deceptively harm consumers must be held accountable," said Attorney General Fox. "As our investigation revealed and our complaint alleges, for years, Purdue knew the damage caused by OxyContin, and rather than scale back or eliminate distribution of the drug, it ramped-up deceptive marketing tactics to present the drug as 'safe.' Purdue manipulates doctors, lies to consumers, and its actions contributed to thousands of deaths across the country."

The violations committed by Purdue for which Attorney General Fox's office claims in the suit include:

- Misrepresenting the likelihood that long-term use of its drug would lead to addiction;
- Falsely claiming that use of OxyContin would improve overall health quality, and failing to disclose the harmful side effects caused by long-term opioid use;
- Falsely claiming long-term opioid use is safe and effective pain treatment, even though Purdue had no evidence to prove it;
- Telling prescribers that OxyContin works for 12 hours, even though Purdue knew that it did not for many patients, requiring frequent increases in dosage, thus increasing the likelihood of addiction;
- Claiming that its new generation of abuse-deterrence opioids were safer and would prevent abuse and diversion, when Purdue knew that the drugs were still readily abused;
- And falsely claiming that opioids are safer than alternative, non-narcotic treatment.

Since the year 2000, more than 700 people in Montana died from opioid overdose. Between 2011 and 2013, more than 7,000 Montanans went to the emergency room as a result of prescription drug overdose. During that same two-year time period, prescription drugs were responsible for at least 369 deaths.

Through the lawsuit, Attorney General Fox is seeking:

1. Injunctive relief to stop Purdue's deceptive marketing practices;
2. Damages for, and abatement of, the public health epidemic that Purdue has created;
3. Three times the amount of damages sustained by the state in paying for opioids for first-line treatment of chronic pain and treating the adverse effects of opioid use through Montana Medicaid Program and the Montana Healthcare Plan;
4. Damages, including punitive damages, for money spent by the state as a result of Purdue's conduct;
5. Disgorgement of Purdue's unjustified profit; and
6. The maximum civil penalties allowed for each violation of the law, along with any other injunctive and equitable relief within the court's powers to redress and halt Purdue's unlawful practices.

The lawsuit filed by Attorney General Fox is a civil enforcement action taken against Purdue for ongoing violation of multiple Montana consumer protection laws. It is not a class action suit on behalf of individual plaintiffs affected by Purdue's product.

Inquiry Class

"Sin" is the topic for this month's Inquiry Class in Dillon on Wed. 12/13 with Fr. Russell Radoicich of Holy Trinity Christian Orthodox Church in Butte. A guest speaker will actually lead the discussion this month, Fr. Damascene, a Monk Abbot of St. Herman of Alaska Monastery in Platina, CA. Room 150 in Main Hall on the UMW campus is the meeting site, at 5:30 pm.

Everyone is welcome to come to the informal discussions held every month here in Dillon to explain the Christian Orthodox perspective of various aspects of life, death and eternity. The Orthodox Church was founded by Christ and his Apostles more than 2,000 years ago and continues to flourish in all countries of the world. All are invited to come, to hear, to listen...and to join in with your questions.
