Remember Nursing Home Patients At Christmas

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

At this festive time of year, it is good to remember those who will probably never again personally experience "city sidewalks, busy sidewalks, dressed in holiday style."

Individuals who are fortunate enough not to have close relatives in nursing homes may feel that they have "dodged a bullet" and can unashamedly concentrate on "me me me"; but visiting my mother-in-law at the nursing home over the last two years has humbled me and opened my eyes to opportunities for compassion.

Even if you don't have blood relatives or in-laws who are shut-ins, you owe it to yourself to check out the patient directory at the nearest facility. You may find the sixth-grade teacher who helped you choose your mission in life, the kindly neighbor who gave you shelter those times you accidentally locked yourself out of your house, the coach who taught you the value of persistence, the beloved aunt of your childhood sweetheart...

I realize that nursing homes are outside the comfort zone of many of us ("The smells! The moaning! The bodies that would no longer make the cover of 'GQ' or 'Sports Illustrated!'"); but most of those patients went outside their own comfort zones many times leaving familiar surroundings to find a good job, traveling halfway around the world to fight for freedom, raising stepchildren who clung to memories of their "real" father/mother, marching for civil rights, etc.

The Christ child we celebrate at Christmas certainly came outside his comfort zone. He left the right hand of God, endured the aches and sorrows of the Human Condition and was mocked and crucified. He set a high standard for us.

We cheat ourselves when we let our hectic schedules push nursing home visits way down our priority list. We rush home to watch a History Channel documentary when we COULD learn about the Great Depression or the Korean War or the Apollo program from someone who was there. We make a mad dash to the bookstore to grab the latest romance novel instead of listening to a real live senior citizen reminisce about the person who was the light of their life for 50 years.

Opportunities abound. True, some patients are staying for only six weeks of therapy after a knee replacement; but words of encouragement can speed their healing. Some patients are in the latter stages of dementia, but a smile or a kind word does not go unnoticed by our Father in heaven. Nurses and other staffers can always use a heartfelt "thank you."

Certainly, the patients who suffer from glaucoma or osteoporosis or confinement to a wheelchair but who remain mentally alert are in need of reassurance, to handle the monotony, loneliness and challenges to their dignity. Even patients who have doting relatives will appreciate an extra visit.

Giving the gift of time to someone who can't repay you in material things can be so much more rewarding than the obligatory ritual of handing a $20 Taco Bell gift card to the co-worker whom you know will reciprocate with a $20 Olive Garden gift card.

Nothing about this column is intended to limit your kindness to the holiday season. Trees and ornaments may be packed away, but the emotional needs remain.

I hope the holidays start you on a year-round program of tending to the vulnerable. It is a two-way gift that keeps on giving.

The Thirteen Holidays of Christmas

La Von D. Brillhart

*Oh my God it's the first of the year
Only 358 days until Christmas cheer
Tis the season when prices are a good deal
Just a few days early to start your Christmas meal*

*Valentines Day with your Christmas hearts
St. Valentine is St. Christmas counterpart
On this valentine Day won't you be my Christmas love
On February the 14th my turtle dove*

*Tis the day of honor of the president
The day of great shopping and merriment
Tis not the day of impeachment or treason
Tis the day to celebrate the Christmas season*

*Now St. Patrick always wears green
He was born in the land of Nazarene
Tis the day to dance and drink green beer
Just another day to celebrate the Christmas cheer*

*Tis the first of April, Oh my fool
The day you decorate your favorite toad stool
Tis the season when Santa come by day
The season we all lift our heads in dismay*

*Tis the first Sunday in the Month of May
The day you bring your Mother a Christmas bouquet
The day you honor your Mother dear

Christmas thoughts in May making you neurotic
The day of flowers, flags and parade*

Marching with your credit card and not being afraid

June 14th, a day of special proclamation

The day Santa reserved for his transportation

The proclamation throughout the world was read

All reservations taken, Santa had to settle for a sled

The third Sunday in June

Your tree will be decorated very soon

Presents under the tree for Father's Day

Oh, wait, I think I hear bells from a sleigh

Tis now the 4th of July

The season we all can identify

Blowing up presents to celebrate

Please bring more for me to annihilate

The first Monday in September

A day of Christmas Labor to remember

The day to honor the elves for their job

For all their work making you a thingamabob

Halloween and time for the old witch

But beware for now she has a new pitch

The displays are up in every aisle

The merchants now have a Christmas smile

Now it's November with a great big feast

Look in the sky, see the turkey in the East

The day of Pilgrims, Elves, and their reindeer

Off to the mall for the best shopping of the year

Now there's a green tree in the house with lights

Wreaths, decorations, presents making wonderful sights

Today tis the 25th of December

I know a holiday, which one, I can't remember.

Bible Truth... About the birth of Jesus Christ

---We believe the following: (1) the Bible was given by the inspiration of God, 2 Timothy 3:16-17; (2) all statements made in this and any ensuing articles will be based on what the Bible says; (3) the Bible only is the reliable source of spiritual & doctrinal truth; (4) all beliefs in conflict with Bible are false.---

We know from both sacred and secular history that the birth of Jesus Christ was not on December 25. Nor did His birth mark the beginning of the Christmas celebration.

There was no Christmas celebration observed by any of the numerous churches spoken of in the scriptures. His birth was announced and recorded in Matthew and Luke, but nothing is said about the time of His birth.

The churches and writers of the New Testament praised God that Jesus Christ had come in the flesh. Their emphasis, however, is on not on the birth, but on His sacrifice for sin, that He will save those who put their trust in Him, that He rose again, ascended to heaven, and will return to resurrect the bodies of all those that have accepted Him as their Savior.

The wreaths, trees, mistletoe, Santa Claus, candles and many other symbols originate in wicked, pagan religions. These symbols were slowly adopted by various churches over the centuries until almost all fell into step with the traditions of Christmas.

Christmas was not observed in America until several founding members of the New York Historical Society started it in early 1800's.

Though the Christmas celebration is of ungodly origin of, the birth of Christ was a miraculous event that is worthy of honor. As Paul states in 1 Corinthians 9:15, "Thanks be to God for his unspeakable (indescribable) gift."

Let us not become so entangled with a celebration of dubious ancient origin that we forget the purpose for which Jesus came. Any true celebration of Jesus Christ should not be considered a birthday party, but a celebration of Jesus Christ from His eternity, birth, life, ministry, founding of His church, love of the people, submission to brutality and crucifixion, burial, resurrection and ascension back to His place beside His Father.
