Attorney General Fox Reaches $13.5 Million Settlement with Pharmaceutical Company

Attorney General Tim Fox announced today a $13.5 million settlement with Boehringer Ingelheim Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (BIPI). This settlement is in regard to BIPI's alleged off-label marketing and deceptive and misleading representations made in its promotion of four of its prescription drugs: Micardis®, Aggrenox®, Atrovent®, and Combivent®.

The settlement, reached between the attorneys general of 49 states and the District of Columbia and BIPI, resolves allegations that BIPI misrepresented four of its prescription drugs. It claimed the drugs had sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, quantities, or qualities when in fact, they did not. Specifically, the States allege BIPI falsely claimed: (1) its antiplatelet drug, Aggrenox®, was effective for many conditions "below the neck", such as heart attacks and congestive heart failure, and was superior to Plavix® without evidence to substantiate that claim; (2) Micardis® protected patients from early morning strokes and heart attacks and treated metabolic syndrome; (3) Combivent® could be used as a first-line treatment for bronchospasms associated with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD); and (4) that Atrovent® and Combivent® doses could exceed the maximum dosage recommendation in the product labeling and were essential for treatment of COPD.

"When consumers and their doctors don't know the specific benefits and risks of their prescription medicines, it can cause severe health problems," Attorney General Tim Fox said. "With such potentially devastating consequences, it's imperative that pharmaceutical companies refrain from misrepresenting the appropriate uses, doses, and risks of their drugs. I'm pleased Montana joined with all other states and the District of Columbia to send a clear message that deceptive business practices by pharmaceutical companies like BIPI will not be tolerated."

The states allege that these misrepresentations were unfair and deceptive and that the pharmaceutical company's actions violated state consumer protection laws, including Montana

Code Annotated 30-14-103. The Consent Judgment filed in the First Judicial District Court requires BIPI to ensure that its marketing and promotional practices do not unlawfully promote these prescription drug products. Specifically, BIPI will:

- Limit product sampling of the four drugs to health care providers whose clinical practice is consistent with the product labeling;
- Refrain from offering financial incentives for sales that may indicate off-label use of any of the four drugs;
- Ensure clinically relevant information is provided in an unbiased manner that is distinct from promotional materials; and
- Provide that requests for off-label information regarding any of the four drugs are referred to BIPI's Medical Division.

BIPI also agreed to pay the participating attorneys general a total of $13.5 million, of which Montana's share is $138,718. Montana's settlement money will go to its Office of Consumer Protection.

All 50 states and the District of Columbia are participating in the settlement, which was led by Arizona, the District of Columbia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Nevada, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Texas.

The Beaverhead County Museum Closure

The Beaverhead County Museum will be closed on the 21st and 22nd of December and opened again on December 26th until the end of the year. January closing is for the changing of the displays, then open again in February. Thank you for all your support, Donna Jones Trustee Chairman.

A Christmas Dream Inspired by Irving & Bing

By Tom Purcell

I dream of "White Christmas" this year.

I speak of the Irving Berlin classic made famous by Bing Crosby - a sweet, wistful song that holds more power over me with each passing year.

According to CBS News, many speculate that Berlin was inspired to write the song in the late 1930s, while working on a movie in Beverly Hills and feeling homesick for his family in New York.

The holiday season was especially challenging for him. His three-week-old son had died on Christmas 1928. Berlin visited his grave every Christmas, and the sadness of his son's death also influenced the song.

Berlin had set the half-finished song aside for a few years before finishing it during the Christmas season of 1940 or 1941.

Only 54 words, it would become a quintessentially American song - one that, to me, celebrates the American civility, prosperity and opportunity that Berlin was blessed to experience.

According to PBS.org , Berlin's family fled to America from Russia when he was 5 to escape persecution of Jews.

His family "arrived in New York in 1893, settling in Manhattan's Lower East Side. Compelled by poverty to work rather than attending school, Berlin made money by singing on streetcorners and later secured a job as a singing waiter at the Pelham Cafe. During this time, he also began writing songs of his own ... ."

Berlin would go on to produce "an outpouring of ballads, dance numbers, novelty tunes and love songs that defined American popular song for much of the (20th) century," says the Songwriters Hall of Fame.

"Irving Berlin has no place in American music - he is American music," said composer Jerome Kern.

In any event, "White Christmas" offers a blend of melancholy and hopefulness, expressing a longing for snow-blanketed Christmases when "treetops glisten and children listen to hear sleigh bells in the snow" and hope that our days will be "merry and bright."

The song premiered on Crosby's radio show in December 1941, just 18 days after the attack on Pearl Harbor, a highly emotional time for America. Eight months later, Crosby was featured singing the song in the movie "Holiday Inn."

However, critics "didn't take much notice" of the song at first, according to Jody Rosen, author of "White Christmas: the Story of an American Song."

She told CBS News that it wasn't until Armed Forces Radio began to play the song that it struck a chord.

"It was 1942, the first winter that American troops had spent overseas," she said. "So, these images of ... snowy American, New Englandy Christmas really spoke to the longing, nostalgia and homesickness of the troops for their homeland and for the sweethearts and wives and mothers and fathers they'd left behind."

And it spoke to a common longing for the civility, unity, sacrifice and hopefulness that all Americans were experiencing at that time.

Well, "White Christmas" is just as relevant now as it ever was - maybe more so.

Its sweet, wistful melody and lyrics make me long for renewed civility, unity, sacrifice and hopefulness - the same things, I believe, all Americans are longing for.

"We are not enemies, but friends," said President Abraham Lincoln in his first inaugural address, whose message still resonates in 2017.

"We must not be enemies," Lincoln said. "Though passion may have strained it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

Civility, unity, sacrifice and hopefulness - a great coming together. That's what I dream of for Christmas this year.

Did The Pentagon Act Alone In Employing UFO Hunters?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

When I was in sixth grade, my impassioned 4-H speech about the possibility of extraterrestrial visitors didn't even merit an Honorable Mention (my fifth-grade speech about our thumb-sucking cat had taken me all the way to the county level!); so I can empathize with those military intelligence officials who are being ridiculed for the existence of the Advanced Aerospace Threat Identification program.

Surely, you've heard about the New York Times investigation of the Pentagon's secret UFO research program, a classified operation which SUPPOSEDLY ended in 2012.

I can't really blame the Department of Defense for having wanted to explore unexplained aerial phenomena, whether the mysterious aircraft ultimately turned out to be little green men, Russian test pilots or quirky atmospheric conditions. The Pentagon was trying to be proactive and avoid wails of "Why didn't you warn us?" if disaster struck.

But they were realistic enough to cut their losses BEFORE they were faced with having to justify $800 military toilet seats in a universe in which SOME races teleport their waste products straight from their digestive organs into the heart of the sun. ("Zorg, you have a booger hanging from your - Ha ha! Guess it's halfway to a black hole by now.")

Considering the potential for enhanced national security and quantum leaps in technology, I wonder if other cabinet-level departments and government agencies have their own clandestine UFO operations?

Don't assume that the press or congressional watchdogs would have already told us about these operations if they actually existed. Deep within the bowels of our bloated federal bureaucracy, you would probably find undying organizations such as The Committee For Harassing Those Redcoat Rapscallions, or The Board of Regulating Wagers On Where President Lincoln Will Spend His Retirement.

I have it on good advice that the Department of Transportation would love to find out the effect of near-light speed on fuzzy dice and pine tree air fresheners, as well as the psychological effects of hearing "Are we there yet?" all the way from Alpha Centauri.

If pressured enough, the Department of Veteran Affairs might admit, "Yes, we scooped up the Roswell crash victims in 1947 - and hope to perform their alien autopsies any day now!"

The National Park Service probably has a shadowy deal with the Ad Council to disseminate the message "Remember: only you can prevent death rays."

Right this minute, the Federal Emergency Management Agency might be asking the Martians, "How can you possibly call yourselves civilized without FLOOD PLAINS to keep re-building on?"

The Library of Congress wouldn't care about the military applications of silently hovering flying saucers; they would see a high-tech way to shush those mouthy hooligans in the archives!

The Department of Labor would get its giggles just hearing aliens demand, "Take me to your union leader."

Don't think it's all at the national level. Your local Department of Motor Vehicles has probably been dealing with outer space aliens for years. Admit it: most of those driver's license photos could be used to get a bug-eyed monster a job, an assault rifle or a six-pack.

I hope this column hasn't upset any aliens who may be counting on continued hush-hush dealings with our government. I would hate to get a visit in the middle of the night from - Awwwww...they're a race of big thumb-sucking cats! Hey, let's go buzz the 4-H headquarters!

Letter to the Editor.....LaVon D. Brillhart

Tis the season to be jolly! Tis the season to give! President Trump just gave the super rich a big tax break. Just what they needed. The middle class and the working poor will get trickle down crumbs. Just what you need for Christmas is a trickle down.

President Trump likes you so much he gave the taxpayers a bill for $73 million dollars for playing golf 83 times since he has been President. Mr. Trump has spent 25% of his days in office playing golf. What a nice present.

Mr. Trump likes the environment also. He just trimmed the Bears Ears National Monument by 85%. He is also reviewing 27 other National Parks. He does enjoy trimming for others but not for himself.

President Trump has a soft spot for children. He has cut funds for health care for children. He has cut funds for health care for children and adults with a disability. A great present.

Donald Trump is cutting funds from education. Who needs education when we have such a smart President with compassion.

President Trump is such a caring person. He is supporting a man for the Senate who has been classified as a child molester.

There are so many things this jolly man has done to "Make America Great Again." Santa and Donald Trump have something in common. Are they real or are they fake? Santa is going Ho Ho Ho and Donald trump is going He He He.

Santa has a sleigh and Donald Trump is slaying us. May the jolly one come down your chimney with presents and good tidings.
