THE UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA WESTERN FOUNDATION ANNOUNCES PIONEER FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN SCHOLARSHIP HONORING PHYLLIS AND TOM WELCH

Phyllis and Tom Welch.

The University of Montana Western Foundation is pleased to announce the establishment of the Pioneer Federal Savings & Loan (PFS & L) Association Scholarship honoring Phyllis and Tom Welch.

This scholarship will be awarded for the first time for the 2018-2019 academic year. Two scholarships in the amount of $2,500 will be awarded annually. One of the recipients will be a graduate of Beaverhead County High School in Dillon, Mont. and the other recipient will be a graduate of Powell County High School in Deer Lodge, Mont. Tom and Phyllis have dedicated the past 42 years to both of these communities. PFS & L would like to honor their dedication by establishing this scholarship in their honor.

"Pioneer Federal is pleased to honor Tom and Phyllis Welch with these scholarships in their name for a lifetime of dedication to not only Pioneer Federal, but also to the University of Montana Western. The scholarships are even more special as they will help a student from both Beaverhead County and Powell County each year for years to come. It is no secret that Pioneer Federal, the University of Montana Western and the education of our youth are of the utmost importance to Tom and Phyllis and to bring everything together with this scholarship is a wonderful gift to give," said Phil Willett.

Tom Welch was with PFS & L for 42 years and retired on Dec. 31, 2017. Over the course of Tom's tenure with PFS & L, he has spent many years assisting Montana Western with the support of his board of directors.

"Phyllis and I are honored that Pioneer Federal Savings and Loan and the University of Montana Western worked together to make these scholarships become a reality. The success and growth of Pioneer Federal and Montana Western have been important to both Phyllis and I for decades and these scholarships ensure that we will remain tied to both for years to come," said Tom Welch.

When Montana Western needed assistance with recent projects, Tom Welch and PFS & L increased their support in a large way. PFS & L was instrumental in the re-seating of the Beier Auditorium and Legacy Plaza projects completed over the course of the past six years. These projects have greatly added to the campus and to the community and will continue to do so for years to come. Tom and Phyllis have also personally supported Montana Western for many years and often attend events on campus in support of students and teams.

For more information about the scholarship, please contact Roxanne Engellant by email at roxanne.engellant@umwestern.edu, or call 406-683-7305.

Rocky Welcomes Two Top-10 Teams to Fortin Center

Battlin' Bears looking to extend five-game winning streak against Frontier's best

The Rocky Mountain College women's basketball team gets back to Frontier Conference play this week with a pair of home games against top-10 ranked opponents. The Battlin' Bears host No. 7 Lewis-Clark State on Thursday and then welcome No. 10 Montana Western on Saturday.

Both games are scheduled for a 5:30 p.m. tipoff in the Fortin Center.

Rocky starts 2018 at 11-1 overall and riding a five-game winning streak. The Battlin' Bears earned seven points in this week's NAIA Top 25 Coaches' Poll to sit among the other teams receiving votes at tied for 30th. They are 1-1 in Frontier play this season to sit tied for third with Montana Western and Carroll. Rocky is 3-0 at home this season.

Last weekend, the Battlin' Bears picked up two wins at the Hampton Inn/Wells Fargo Green & Gold Classic. They began the event with a 92-55 win over Dickinson State on Friday. They came back on Saturday to down Bethesda 84-41.

The 11-1 start is the best record through 12 games in the 15 years of available records. The current five-game winning streak is only the fifth time a Rocky team has won at least five straight during the past 15 years. The most consecutive wins during that time is six straight set two times, including earlier this season.

Rocky begins the week averaging 76.1 points per game and shooting 45.4 percent from the floor. They lead the Frontier by making 9.1 threes per game and sit second in hitting 36.5 percent from beyond the arc. The team averages 18.0 assists per game with a 1.39 assist-to-turnover ratio. They lead the Frontier at 44.8 rebounds per game.

Defensively is where the Battlin' Bears shine. They currently lead the NAIA in scoring defense at 44.8 points allowed per game and in field goal defense is holding opponents to 30.3 percent shooting. They also lead the nation with a plus-31.3 scoring margin while sitting third is 3-point field goal defense at 22.0 percent.

Mountain snowpack is, in effect, the West's reservoir, Zukiewicz said. It's captured and stored and then used to irrigate crops.

Three miles north of St. Mary on the edge of Glacier National Park, 4 feet of additional snow accumulated, according to the National Weather Service in Great Falls.

It wasn't just in the mountains. A rancher who measures snow for the NRCS reported 15 inches in the valley in the Upper Blackfoot Valley, Zukiewicz said. "Valley snow also is important," he said.

THANK YOU

A HUGE shout-out to everyone that made the Giving Tree a success for Christmas 2017!!! This year we were able to provide gifts for 220 children in 95 families! This is up 43 more kids and 28 more families than last year!

Thank you to Dave and Tracey Roberts @ Rattlesnake Alpacas for hosting the tree. You went above and beyond to make sure the Tree was available for people to come pick tags off. Thank you to all that took tags off of the Tree, bought gifts or gave money. With requests for 460 gifts - this was a huge undertaking! Thank you to my elves- you guys are a Godsend, helping make order out of chaos!! People of Dillon, you rock! Thank you for spreading the blessings of Christmas throughout the community!

MONTANA SNOWFALL STARTS NEW YEAR WITH GOOD WATER PERCENTS

According to the Natural Resources Conservation Service Montana went out of 2017 with the best snowpack in the West starting off the new water year,

That assessment is based on the amount of water that's contained in that newly fallen snow, said Lucas Zukiewicz, a water supply specialist with the NRCS, a division of U.S. Department of Agriculture, which monitors mountain snowfall and the water in it.

"It's been the most consistent snowfall across the western United States," Zukiewicz said of Montana snow.

In the wake of the new snow, automated sites that collect snow information picked up an additional 2 to 7 inches of snow water equivalent over the past 10 days, Zukiewicz said.

"That's a pretty substantial storm for this time of year," he said.

Prior to the stormy end of the year, snowpack on the Rocky Mountain Front was 68 percent of normal.

Now snowpack is 115 percent of normal on the Front.

Snowpack in some areas of southwestern and southcentral Montana are now as high as 147 and 159 percent of normal.

The Lincoln area received some of the heaviest snowfall amounts which have significantly improved snow water amounts in Montana's snowpack.

The late-year flurry of snow flurries illustrate how a storm or two can quickly take below-normal snowpack and put it at above normal, Zukiewicz said.

It's a good start to the water year, Zukiewicz said, but he points out it is early in the season. The biggest snow months are still to come: March, April and May.

And the NRCS won't know until April 1 what water availability will be, Zukiewicz said.

"Really, in terms of our water supply for the whole year, it's really going to come down to the next couple months, Zukiewicz said.

Eastern Oregon and the panhandle of Idaho also have great snowpack but Montana's snow is the best based on the amount of water compared to normal, Zukiewicz said.

"It's always nice to say we have the best snow," he said.

By comparison, the rest of the West is dry, he said.
