Robert Norman Simonsen

Dec. 11, 1968 - Feb. 1, 2018

Robert was born in Dillon, Montana on Dec. 11, 1968 to Norman Kenneth Simonsen and Ann Passmore Simonsen. He grew up in the Ruby Valley until his senior year, at which point he graduated from Mount Hood High School, Mount Hood, Oregon. He went on to the Oregon Institute of Technology in Klamath Falls, Oregon.

He returned to Montana and worked various jobs. He married Kim Gage and eventually moved to Enid, Oklahoma. He and Kim have resided in Enid for the past 16 years.

Robert is survived by his wife, Kim Gage Simonsen; mother, Ann Passmore Simonsen; father, Norman; sister, Julie Simonsen; and nephew, Chase Simonsen and family.

Are Your Old Photos a Ticking Time Bomb?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

For most of my adult life, I kicked myself because I had carried a one-of-a-kind childhood photo (featuring me, my brother and our cousins) in my wallet until the snapshot disintegrated.

Thankfully, I recently discovered that my mother possesses a different photo from that same family picnic; but the close call still lit a fire under me to stop procrastinating about using my flatbed scanner to digitize the treasure trove of photographs and newspaper clippings that my mother has been digging out of trunks, boxes, albums and dresser drawers.

Millions of people have joined the preservation movement (I am especially grateful to my wife's younger sister for untold hours of work), but much scanning remains to be done worldwide.

Technology offers undreamed-of opportunities for preservation (check out those photo-montage picture frames and the heartwarming slide shows at funerals); but ATTITUDES remain an obstacle. Technophobes refuse to touch computers. Millennials accustomed to the ephemeral nature of Snapchat may not see the value of extending the shelf life of dusty old photographs. Overly optimistic folks may assure themselves "There's always tomorrow to do the scanning."

But every day, precious keepsakes (not just photos but also letters, award certificates and report cards) succumb to fire, theft, water damage, silverfish and the death or failing memories of those who know the significance of the scenes.

People need to persevere in scanning (or digitally photographing with their smartphones) the pictures. They need to be conscientious about backing them up on multiple devices/media. Cloud storage is one facet of a good strategy, unless you're afraid the Russians will hack and Photoshop the files. ("Honey, this photo says it's Great-aunt Matilda presenting her famous tater salad to Joseph Stalin!")

I know some of you may be squeamish about giving these photos an expanded circulation beyond what the participants expected. But payback trumps privacy. ("Hey, Dad, you didn't place much value on privacy when my CAR WINDOWS were all steamed up. Now the picture of you with the floppy toupee is going viral!")

We are truly blessed in that we can give pictures long file names, recording for posterity the full names, relationships and exact location of the people in the photos (as well as spoiler warnings such as, "Hey, the hottie in the bikini is your grandmother, perv!")

Youngsters can be TOLD about long-departed neighbors, your first car or your favorite teenage hangouts; but the addition of non-brittle IMAGES can make those anecdotes less abstract and more relevant.("Hey, your uncles look pretty cool, one with a zoot suit and one with a Purple Heart. Did they play Grand Theft Auto? No? Yawn ZZZZZZZ...")

It's bittersweet to look at long-ago photos of fresh-faced Cub Scouts or cheerleaders. Bittersweet because with 20/20 hindsight one can well imagine the youths giggling, "The heck with baking-soda-and-vinegar volcanoes. I'll bet it would be neat to experiment with the effect of 50 years of alcohol, tobacco, sun exposure and cheeseburgers!"

Looking at portraits from 75 or 100 years ago, one wonders what the subjects would have thought about their shot at cyberspace immortality. ("Shucks, I don't want immortality. I just wanna be able to hurl lightning bolts at revenooers, like Zeus!")

Get to work scanning those scenes of baby's first steps or military unit reunions or horse-and-buggy excursions. But be careful out there.

"Just ...one...more...fold...and I can...scan Grandpa's... humongous...Publishers Clearinghouse...check! Owwwwwww!"

Burning Away the Past

by Joe Barnhart

A U.S. Food and Drug Administration report warns getting an improperly done tattoo poses serious health risks. They're also warning consumers to avoid imported fish labeled as monkfish -- you have to take these people seriously.

But a tattoo? Are you crazy?! I passed out during my marriage license blood test. But I realize tattoos are quite the rage in spite of what we old farts think. Just make sure it's performed professionally and not in a sleazy bar where, "Louie the Stud," is serving warm beer in fly-infested plastic glasses.

Louie's a maverick, experimenting with unconventional techniques like iron-on tattoos whereas reputable shops use an electric tattoo machine. It inserts pigment under the skin via a group of needles. These sharp projectiles, used for hazing in many fraternities, are repeatedly driven into the skin (now get this) from 80 to 150 times a second. Just a minute, I'm feeling dizzy.

Should you decide to take the tattoo plunge, get ready. According to the American Society for Aesthetic Plastic Surgery (ASAPS), tattoo removal is on the rise and people are paying top dollar to clean up their skin. This commonly occurs when folks ultimately come to their senses and decide the once artistic, symbolic symbol of rebellion and freedom is basically, for lack of a better word, STUPID.

I'm not using the term "stupid" lightly. A product of the "free love" 60s," I've had my share of decisions made by what appeared to be a moldy zucchini. For example, my hairstyle back then made me looked a Mr. Potato Head wearing a steel wool wig and black-rimmed glasses.

But Tattoo Regret isn't a four letter word. Take Laura Hathaway in Atlanta who, at 21, thought the tattoo on her lower back was cool. But now at 31, it isn't the statement she wants to make as the mother of a 2-year-old talking son (he can also sit and rollover). The kid's in the sandbox filling his diaper while bragging, "My Mom has the AC/DC band tattooed on her butt." You have to be thinking, "How is she ever going to potty train this kid?"

Giving up on tattoo vanishing creams, Laura decided to go ahead and have a dermatologist, using an industrial-grade laser similar to the one in Luke's Starfighter, shatter the ink. The procedure feels like a swarm of stinging bees who are really pissed off (pardon my vulgarity). I suggest trying aluminum foil, smashed Gummy Bears, and strike-anywhere matches – but, hey, I'm no doctor.

Caught in the wave of tattoo frenzy that's engulfed almost 50% of Americans between the ages of 18 – 35, don't worry -- it's not like you sold your soul to the devil. Big deal if a Bart Simpson tattoo might put the skids on that high-paying job. You can always change your mind. I'm all for altering appearances for the better. Hopefully, this Rogaine will grow back some of that steel wool.

Looking ahead, Youth Sing is on Friday, March 2nd. Science fair is also on the horizon. Seventh grade science fair is Wednesday, March 7th, and eighth grade science fair is Thursday, March 8th. Academic Olympians will compete in Bozeman March 13th.

The Beaverhead County ACEs Task Force reminds parents no matter how much they love their children, they can't always prevent things from going wrong for them. What parents and caring adults CAN do is help children build strengths. When things go wrong, children are more resilient and successful in facing setbacks and challenges. Strong families build strong communities.

THE ROTARY CLUB OF DILLON

Rayanne Sutton and Wendy Alveraz will be the featured speakers at the noon Rotary meeting scheduled for Wednesday, February 21, 2018. Sutton and Alveraz will present information on the Jaycee Park Renovation Project and new splash pad.

The Rotary Club will meet at the Guild Hall of St. James Episcopal Church located at 203 East Glendale St. in Dillon. Visitors are welcome to join Rotarians for lunch. The presentation is scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m. For more information, email Deb Hedeen at deborahhedeen@gmail.com or Roxanne Engellant at engellantr@gmail.com.
