Thursday is Vietnam War Veterans Day*

While we honor our war dead on Memorial Day and our living veterans on Veterans Day, this is a time when we give a special tribute to those who served during the Vietnam War. For many, it's the recognition they deserved when they returned to America.

They defended our flag with honor. They supported democracy. They fought in brutal conditions.

Yet when many Vietnam War veterans returned to America, they were unwelcomed. While we cannot change the actions of the past, we can show our support and gratitude today -- something that should have happened 50 years ago.

Across the nation, ceremonies will honor Vietnam War veterans this Thursday. Of course, the Vietnam Wall will play a special role in honoring and remembering those who made the ultimate sacrifice. Throughout the United States, nearly every state is planning to host commemoration events.

We should not allow this special day of recognition to fade when the calendar turns over. Join me in thanking Vietnam veterans for their service not just this Thursday, but every day.

Welcome Home! Please join me in using that phrase with Vietnam veterans you know. It is something that we always like to hear.

Plastic Packaging: Is This the Beginning of the End?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

"There's a great future in plastics. Think about it? Will you think about it?"

That advice, delivered to Dustin Hoffman's character in the 1967 movie "The Graduate," enjoyed a good five-decade run. But it may be nearing the end of its shelf life.

According to the Washington Post, the Ekoplaza organic supermarket chain in the Netherlands has opened a pilot store (in Amsterdam) with an unprecedented aisle dedicated to 700-plus products that use absolutely no plastic packaging.

We're not talking about a return to the days of country store pickle barrels and cracker barrels, but Ekoplaza's special aisle does boast products enclosed in glass, metal and cardboard - as well as a plant-based biofilm that will break down within 12 weeks in a home composter, instead of clogging a landfill for centuries.

In conjunction with the British environmental group A Plastic Planet, Ekoplaza hopes to make it easy to identify and promote "green" products that don't rely on petrochemical packaging.

Like the dieting mantra "A moment on the lips, a lifetime on the hips," Ekoplaza wants to show the shortsightedness of inhaling a candy bar and casually leaving the wrapper for your great-great-great-great grandchildren to deal with.

Across the globe, people use more than one million plastic bottles each minute (mostly for water), according to Ekoplaza's website. Fewer than nine percent get recycled.

(Ironically, progressivism is an obstacle to further growth in recycling. Increasing the recycling rate involves begging, "Pretty please, with sugar on top." But that is seen as a microaggression against ugly people, a capitulation to Big Sweetener and a veiled assertion that the "pretty please" is subordinate to the sugar.)

In my day job, I see a mind-numbing amount of shrink-wrap and other plastic packaging. It doesn't get much better when I'm off the clock. Doesn't it help you sleep better at night knowing that a serial killer can hacksaw through prison bars quicker than you can unpackage a new cellphone to call 9-1-1?

Look under "wretched excess" in the dictionary, and you'll see a picture of packaging designers -

assuming you can get the dictionary out of the wrapper!

The Ekoplaza initiative has intrigued consumers in the European Union and Great Britain, but expect pushback in the good ol' United States.

Hipsters - as well as ordinary folks disgusted with plastic garbage killing fish and other wildlife -- will embrace the movement; but ornery traditionalists will double down. ("The Founding Fathers secured my right to keep and bear plastic jugs of milk! And the store won't put my groceries in a plastic bag? Fine. I'll just stand here and block traffic until they start laminating the 'Enquirer' and the 'Star' in the checkout lane.")

Unless they switch gears and get in on the ground floor of biofilm and other wrappings, we can expect a protracted battle with the plastics industry. ("I'm all for sustainability - like sustaining my corner office and my bonus!")

Encourage American manufacturers, retailers and legislators to investigate new options. We could enter a golden era of choice, innovation and socially responsible behavior.

Just don't oversell the composting aspect. Composting fanatics can see it as a magic bullet for every problem. Alas, they forget the fate of the dinosaur who saw an asteroid hurtling toward earth and shouted to his friend, "Quick! Fetch me a wheelbarrow and mulch! I think we can fix this!"

Jaycee Park Donations

Here is a great alternative that won't break the bank! If we can get 1000 people to pledge $10 a month over 2 years ($240), we will have raised all the money to complete all the park renovation phases! That's like one lunch out a month! Super affordable for everyone, AND you can do a pledge over 2 years, instead of a lump sum all at once. CAN YOU HELP?

Stop by Womack's Printing today to sign a pledge form designed to work in your budget. We can get you set up and keep record of it for you, stop in and so how!

BCHS SENIOR CLASS PARTY RAFFLE

The Drawing for the 16 prizes on the Senior Class Party Raffle will by April 20th. If you have not gotten a ticket stop by Womack's Printing or KDBM or contact a senior parent for that $10 ticket to support the kids.

Beaverhead Sno-Riders Raffle tickets

Prizes: Ortovox Avy Pack, $500 one day Bobcat Rental, 25 yards of gravel, Fly Snowmobile helmet. $5 per ticket or 5 for $20. Ticket available from: Womack's Printing (we did get more), White Powersports, 3-D Store or Beaverhead Motors.

REMEMBER TO ROUND UP

If you would like, Van's IGA is rounding up your purchase, and donating the funds to the JC Park Renovation Project. The committee would like to thank Van's IGA for being willing to help us out and you the customers for making this a wonderful contribution to the park.

Montana families of babies that need assistance with funeral expenses

The Ramsey Keller Memorial is a non-profit that provides funding for Montana families of babies that need assistance with funeral expenses. Brundage does not charge for our services for babies but there are other expenses such as caskets, clothing, books, etc. Ramsey Keller is starting their biggest fundraiser called RUN for Heaven. This is an exceptional organization that has helped many people in our area. To contribute please send to RKM: 4382 Laredo Place, Billings, MT 59106.
