She was born in St. Francis New Brunswick Canada to Nora and Leo Michaud, she was the oldest of 14 children. On August 8th, 1950 she married Hermel Pelletier, they were married for 50 years, until Mel's death on July of 2001,

Rella loved to entertain friends and family the more the merrier!!

Rella and Mel moved to Dillon 22 years ago to take care of Sarah. And fell in love with Dillon and being around their family.

Keep the Pipes Working!

By: Henry "The Hamster" Joe Barnhart

Quite frankly, too many Americans don't have a clue they're suffering from constipation. This is not an aliment affecting hamsters. We hamsters eat right and quite efficiently emit cute poopettes that neither smell nor are distasteful to touch. No surprise here; hamsters have been the envy of humans for generations. We don't even need toilet paper!

But human constipation is alarming and must be dealt with in a discrete and professional manner. The next time you're in a crowded room, flail your arms and scream: "How many bowel movements do you have a day?" Expect a rousing discussion to ensue with humorous anecdotes and uncontrollable flatulence. A group hug is wildly popular (Hamsters just touch noses).

Experts at the Donald Trump Bowel Movement Research Institute (Motto: Crap flows daily) indicate at least two daily bowel movements are healthy. If not, you're heading down the clogged pipe to trouble. Unlike fun-loving hamsters, these folks live and breathe copious movements, spending countless hours of tremendous mental anguish studying the finer details of feces. Here's what they have to say:

"Blah, blah, blah … two to three bowel movements per day… Elimination should be complete, fast and easy. Blah, blah, blah … should be light brown in color, long and … in a neighbor's toilet, "fluffy" in texture … of the water."

Fluffy is the key word here but, unlike a blown-dried hamster, more like candied yams. In contrast, if you produce little "turds" that sink like lead weights only on special occasions, like when Lars catches the greased hamster (despicable), you may be in for serious health issues. We're talking colon cancer, parasites, color blindness, bad breath, hemorrhoids, scurvy, and, in rare cases, tooth decay.

The rule of bum (a.k.a. buttocks) is, "If the stuff isn't coming out - it's staying in and clinging to various crevices in your colon." I know the rule is long but I didn't write it. A hamster would have written it like this, "What goes in, must come out." We're very concise little critters.

The obvious questions is: "Do prunes work to free the plumbing?" As a charming little rodent, I have no idea. But all the plumbers I know highly recommend these delightful dried plums in quantities of 4 -5 a day with a healthy dose of water. They also mention loose fitting pants but hamsters don't wear any. We don't like to block the discharge. Simplicity is beautiful.

MONTANA WESTERN AND STOCKMAN BANK HOST "NIGHT OF STARS" HONORING EXCELLENCE IN EDUCATION

The University of Montana Western's Education Department and Alumni Office in partnership with Stockman Bank present the Seventh Annual Night of Stars, to be held on Saturday, April 21, 2018 on the Montana Western campus.

The schedule of events includes a preview of the "Chair"ity auction in the Dennis and Phyllis Washington Model Classroom for Education at 5:00 pm, the Education Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony at 6:00 pm in the Beier Auditorium, and a social and silent auction, drinks and hors d'ourves in the Lewis and Clark room in Mathews Hall at 8:00 pm. Proceeds benefit Montana Western's Education Department and students.

This year's Night of Stars will induct six Montana Western alumni into the Education Hall of Fame in recognition of their exceptional contributions to education and will honor five current education students as Outstanding Teacher Candidates. In addition to celebrating this year's inductees, the retirement of two long standing UMW educators, Marlene Stonelake and Delena Norris-Tull, will be acknowledged.

Roxanne Engellant, Director of the University of Montana Western Foundation, said "I think everyone can name one teacher who made a difference for them and we want to acknowledge and celebrate those educators who spend a lifetime making a difference for their students."

Montana Western has also partnered with Stockman Bank to award a Take Stock in Education Scholarship for a current third-year student and a Stock your Classroom Award for one of the outstanding teacher candidates.

The 2018 Education Hall of Fame Inductees include Carey Swanberg, Harold Tusler, Rebecca Rappold, Mike and Becky Telling, and Ann Burk. The 2018 Night of Stars

Carey Swanberg

Carey (Corum) Swanberg attended the University of Montana Western from 1972-1976. She graduated with a bachelor of science and was hired by the Ronan School District in the same year. She remained at the school for forty years before retiring in 2016. During her tenure as an educator, she was an integral member of the Lake County community.

Her achievements include building a joint school and community garden, winning a Gold Star Award in Recognition of Excellence for the 2005-06 school year, and creating a Home Reading Incentive Program that is still in operation today.

She spent five years as head volleyball coach at Ronan High School and was part of a committee that brought women's volleyball to Montana in 1979.

Even after her retirement, Swanberg continues to educate her community about physical health. She has been a FoodCorps site supervisor, a national non-profit that works to create healthier schools by placing service members in public schools to teach hands-on lessons about food and nutrition. She is also a member of the SciNation advisory committee to encourage Native American involvement in the STEM fields while promoting and respecting tribal cultural values.

Swanberg's favorite memories at Montana Western revolve around the intramural sports program. Her athletic activities included softball, flag football, racquetball, and tennis.

Harold Tusler

Harold Tusler graduated from the University of Montana Western with a bachelor of science degree in 1969. He met his wife Evelyn Taber at Montana Western, and the pair joined School District Six of Columbia Falls, Montana in 1970.

Tusler taught language arts at Columbia Falls High School for 25 years. For a portion of his tenure there, he coached freshman basketball along with boys and girls track.

He also started the Columbia Falls High School forensics (speech and debate) program in the early 70s. He would go on to lead the team to two class A state championships before being inducted into the Montana Forensics Hall of Fame in 1995.

After retiring from teaching in Montana, Tusler signed a contract to teach in the Las Vegas School District in 1996.

He created another forensics program at Moapa Valley High School that he developed into a competitive force over a period of thirteen years.

From 2006-2011, his team won six consecutive championships in the AAA class. He was inducted into the Southern Nevada Forensics Educator's Hall of Fame in 2008.

He is now enjoying his retirement in Mesquite, Nevada but spends his summers in Dayton, Montana where he and his wife purchased a cherry orchard in 1980. The orchard provides summer work for his grand-nieces and nephews and a nearly endless supply of cherries for the family.

Rebecca Rappold

Rebecca (Becky) Rappold earned a bachelor of science in elementary education from the University of Montana Western in 1999. She began working as a supervising teacher for Dupuyer School District #2 in 2002 while working towards her master's degree in educational leadership at the University of Montana.

As supervising teacher, she secured funds to upgrade facility conditions, implemented a fine arts program where none existed before, and authored a five-year comprehensive education plan, among several other successful endeavors.

She then worked for Choteau Public Schools as an elementary and special education teacher. While there she continued to excel in a leadership role, initiating Individualized Education Plans for special needs students.

Rappold is currently an adjunct instructor at the University of Montana Western, utilizing her vast experience in education to help mold a new generation of teachers.

Mike and Becky Telling

Mike Telling graduated from the University of Montana Western in 1993, two years after his wife, Becky Telling, who graduated in 1991 after completing her degree in just three-and-a-half years.

Mike first utilized his bachelor of science degree to work for a private company creating technology to remedy acidic mine water. He returned to Montana Western and received his secondary education degree in 1997.

He went on to teach in Butte and Boulder before beginning his current teaching position at Beaverhead County High School 13 years ago. Mike Telling said of Montana Western: "It was the place where I rediscovered my joy for learning, and gained confidence in my academic ability."

Becky Telling first applied her degree in elementary education to teaching grades K-8 in Polaris, Montana. Her next position was teaching 4th-8th grade at the Wise River School. She worked there for seven years before going on sabbatical after the birth of her second child.

She soon returned to teaching in both Butte and Boulder

On teaching, Becky Telling said, "I have the privilege of glimpsing little snapshots of the inner growth and development of inspiring minds. I get to spend my day with amazing people and search for better ways of doing the thing that I love--teaching!"

Ann Burk

Ann (Cameron) Burk earned her Bachelor's degree from the University of Montana Western in 1993. While in attendance, she was the recipient of the Jim Short Scholarship along with a scholarship for music.

The same year she graduated, she began her teaching career, working with first-graders in Colstrip, Mont. After two years, she transitioned into a position as a second grade instructor in Montana City where she has earned numerous accolades.

Burk spent one year as the president of the Montana City Education Association and six years as a member of an Interest-Based Bargaining Team which teaches people how to gain the best possible outcome in negotiations.

She was Montana City School's PTA Outstanding Educator for the 2007-2008 school year, and the Helena Education Foundation named her as their Distinguished Educator of 2014.

She has now worked at Montana City School for over two decades, and in addition to her full-time job, she also finds time to teach English to Chinese students through an online program.
