Montana's Dimple Knees Sex Scandal Book Signing

Award winning journalist and author, John Kuglin will be signing copies of his book "Montana's Dimple Knees Sex Scandal" on Saturday, June 23rd at The Bookstore. Beverly Snodgrass made a lot of poor choices. Once a prostitute in the old mining town of Butte, she later became a madam running two of the most popular brothels. She fell deeply in love with a crooked politician, whom she nicknamed "Dimple Knees." When corrupt cops in uniform came to her businesses, it usually wasn't to serve and protect but rather to collect payoffs. Butte is sometimes described as a town that "drinks her liquor straight," but things never were the same after Beverly told her story to a newspaper reporter. That reporter, John Kuglin, recounts the scandal that rocked The Richest Hill on Earth and for a time made Dimple Knees the most famous name in Montana.

The foreword is written by former longtime Montana Congressman Pat Williams, who grew up in Butte, and all royalties from the book will go to Butte Citizens for Preservation and Revitalization, which is working to save Butte's amazing old buildings. When Kuglin was a Great Falls Tribune reporter, he interviewed Butte Madam Beverly Snodgrass, who told him she had been brutally beaten and run out of business when she stopped paying bribes to local officials and the police. The news story would take on a life of its own and become a major issue in the 1968 governor's race between Tim Babcock and Forrest Anderson. The series would result in a credible threat against Kuglin's life and trigger Kuglin's series about Butte vice that ran for eight days. The Tribune had to hire another truck to haul an extra 4,500 extra copies to Butte during the series. The book describes the torrid love affair between Snodgrass and a prominent Butte official she fondly called Dimple Knees, who stole her heart and then her money. After she stopped payoffs, her house on Mercury Street was torched – twice. A few years earlier, an attempt was made to dynamite her first bordello. John Kuglin received a BA in history from the Colorado College. Beginning as a reporter for the Colorado Springs Free Press and later with the rival Gazette-Telegraph, Kuglin took the job of copy editor and reporter for the Missoulian and Independent Record in 1965. He went on to statehouse reporter for the Great Falls Tribune and spent thirty-one years with the Associated Press in Spokane, Cheyenne and Helena. He retired in 2005 as AP's bureau chief for Montana and Wyoming. He covered the 1972 Montana Constitutional Convention and helped launch the Montana Freedom of Information Hotline. He was the first recipient of the Montana Free Press Award and has also won the Jeannette Rankin Civil Liberties award. He lives in Helena with his wife, Gale.

Masculinity in America

Feminism as a movement has elevated the status of women in our culture, and that is a good thing. The path to that achievement has, however, been destructive of manhood in the culture. As with so many things, the way to empowering one group is found in the denigration or belittling of another. In this case, in order to prove that women are equal the feminist culture has been systematically and effectively attacking the value of men. Today it is common, in fact almost universal, to see men in media portrayed as bumbling, incompetent, weak, distant, ineffective, and the list goes on. Where there are exceptions men are portrayed as evil, destructive, violent, dishonest or depraved. There are very few images of men in our media that portray them as successful, equal, honest, capable, leaders.

Every area of culture has been reworked in the feminist era to reflect the power of women and the failure of men. Even todays politics reflect this new reality. So often the debate over Roe v. Wade continues along the narrowly defined paths of either religious morality or secular concepts of individual rights. Seldom do you find anyone willing to address the broader gender and cultural implications of the law. The "right" to terminate a pregnancy that we now hold as absolute in the woman is fraught with cultural dangers to both men and women. No women ever got pregnant alone, but we have decided that she alone must bear the responsibility for determining the fate of the fetus. In this one way we have separated men in our culture from their responsibilities for the child created and decreased the cultural ties between fathers and children.

Critics will immediately say that "dead beat dads" are part of the reason why women need this right and should be able to make the decision on their own. I respectfully suggest that making the women the sole decision maker in this process increases the likelihood that men will take no responsibility for the children they father. After all, it was not the women's decision to have a child, yet the women usually has to make the decision on her own and she must now bear the consequences alone. While this goes against everything I believe, it is the outcome of the policies we now hold sacred.

I don't expect my view on this to be well received. How I could possibly be right in this when my logic flies in the face of all the modern and especially feminist ideas of individual rights and gender equality. But as you sit down to attack my idea, ask yourself this question. How will we create men who matter in the future if we continue to build a culture that denies their responsibility and accountability in the most basic areas of human existence?

There is so much more to this that I believe we should be discussing, we should be attacking the culture of unrestrained violence in the media. We should be tearing down the incredibly destructive false current premise of multiculturalism that leave us with no core values upon which to base our moral decision making. We should be working together to wrest our core institutions from the grip of intellectual liberalism that continues to diminish the capacity and the will of our young people to produce and create success for themselves. We should be attacking the culture of "self" and working to rebuild the culture of "us."

Statement on Internet Sales Tax Decision

Attorney General Tim Fox issued the following statement Thursday on the South Dakota v. Wayfair Supreme Court Decision:

"Today, the Supreme Court upended decades of well-established legal precedent by allowing states to levy internet sales taxes on consumers and force small businesses across the country to collect those taxes. Not only is this decision bad for Montanans purchasing products online from other states, it's also bad for Montana small business selling products online outside of Montana.

"I fought to keep Montana sales tax free, and I'm disappointed with the Court's decision."

In April, Attorney General Fox was one of only two state attorneys general to file an amicus brief with Supreme Court, opposing internet sales taxes.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA WESTERN COMMUNITY INVITED TO RETIREMENT RECEPTION FOR SUSAN BRIGGS

The University of Montana Western invites the community to attend a retirement reception celebrating the career of Susan Briggs, Vice Chancellor of Administration and Finance. The celebration will be held on Monday, June 25, 2018 from 4-7 p.m. in the Model Classroom in Main Hall on the Montana Western campus. Briggs, a Dillon, Mont. Native, is retiring at the end of June after 20 years of dedicated and excellent service to the University of Montana Western, and before that, she served in Missoula for 13 years at the University of Montana. While at UM, Briggs worked in several areas of fiscal affairs and became the UM Affiliation liaison on the Banner Finance software system project before returning to her hometown. Briggs has served as the Vice Chancellor of Administration, Finance and Student Affairs and has been instrumental in securing funding for several construction and renovation projects at UMW as well as her involvement in bringing the Montana Youth Challenge Academy to campus.

She worked closely with architects and contractors in a series of projects including the construction of the Swysgood Technology Center, the addition of elevators in the Business and Technology Building, and the extraordinary 10-year renovation of Main Hall. She also guided the implementation of several green projects during her career at Montana Western. This included the addition of solar panels on campus, the university's wood-fired boiler as part of the "Fuels for Schools" grant, and the relocation of the ceramics and glass facilities to a state-of-the-art facility in the Emerick Art Studio.

A passionate gardener, Briggs also oversees the planting and maintenance of UMW's Ed Cebull Memorial Garden, located in front of the Student Union Building. Ed Cebull, an English professor at the time the SUB was built, originally started the garden which adds a pop of color and beautiful accent to the campus. Briggs's family have been passionate supporters of Montana Western for many years. In fact, her father, Carl Davis, was a major supporter of Montana Western and spent many years on the Executive Board. Bob Briggs, Susan's husband, worked at Western States Equipment in Missoula, Mont. before coming to Dillon a few months after Susan became the Vice Chancellor of Administration and Finance at UMW in 1998. Bob would later work for the Montana State Highway Department out of Dillon. "It was such an honor to be a steward of Montana Western for a short time in its long history. Working here has been a joy for twenty years," expressed Briggs. She has been a member of multiple Montana University System Board of Regents Task Forces and has been recognized many times for her outstanding leadership.

She received the "Regents Award for Excellence" in 2012 for her work on the MUS Employee Benefit Plan Committee and the State of Montana's 2008 "Excellence in Leadership Award" for her work in the public sector. This award honors exemplary leadership by women in the workplace and was sponsored by the Interagency Committee for Change by Women. In addition to her role in enriching the campus, Briggs has also been a part of several innovative initiatives. "One of the most exciting changes at Montana Western I was involved in was the implementation of the Experience One program," said Briggs. "It takes everyone joining together to make things happen."

Please join us in the celebration of Susan Briggs on Monday, June 25, 2018. The event is free, and refreshments will be served.

For more information, please contact Hillary Lowell by email at hillary.lowell@umwestern.edu or call 406-683-7151.

Bible Truth...Four kinds of faith (part 2) (#84)

----We believe the following: (1) the Bible was given by the inspiration of God, 2 Timothy 3:16-17; (2) all statements made in this and any ensuing articles will be based on what the Bible says; (3) the Bible only is the reliable source of spiritual & doctrinal truth; (4) all beliefs in conflict with the Bible are false.

Three types of faith we have studied in this series are: historical faith, trusting faith, and working faith. The fourth kind of faith referred to in the Bible is the system of faith.

The system of faith refers to the doctrines given in the scriptures that churches are commanded to obey. Because many false teachers had infiltrated the church, Jude wrote to them saying, "...it was needful for me to write to you, and exhort you that you should earnestly contend for the faith that was once delivered to the saints," Jude vs. 3. "The faith" refers to the church and the teachings (doctrines) that are to be practiced by sound, scriptural churches.

Before the apostle Paul turned to God and became a member of the Jerusalem church (Acts 9:26-29), he persecuted the church there (Acts 9:13). Acts 8:1-3 speaks of the "great persecution against the church which was at Jerusalem" and that Saul (Paul) "made havoc of the church." In relating his actions to the church at Galatia, he stated that the churches in Judea had heard "That he (Paul) which persecuted us in times past now preaches the faith which once he destroyed." (Galatians 1:23)

From these scriptures it is clear that the faith refers to the churches that preached the gospel of Christ and the specific way of worship and service taught in the scriptures.

Another phrase used in the same way the faith is used to designate a system of worship and service is "this way" as seen in Acts 9:2.

1 Timothy 4:1 states that many would, "depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils."

Doctrines such as the virgin birth, the trinity, the deity of Christ, salvation by faith & not works, baptism by immersion, Biblical morality and others are all a part of the New Testament Church system of worship and service called the faith.
