Work to Start on Thompson Park Railroad Trestle

The Butte Ranger District and volunteers from AmeriCorps St. Louis will be working to install running planks on the Milwaukee Railroad trestle over the weekend and early next week.

The Milwaukee Railroad trestle is located in Thompson Park and is part of a 25-mile non-motorized trail system managed by the Forest Service and City-County of Butte-Silver Bow. Crews will be installing running planks on a portion of the trestle to provide a smoother running and biking surface for trail users. The planks were funded through a Recreation Trails Program grant administered by the Montana State Trails Program which receives its funding from the Federal Highway Trust Fund.

During the installation of the running planks full-size vehicles will use the Milwaukee Railroad to access the trestle from Sagebrush Flats and park near the trestle beginning Friday, August 3 and continuing through early next week. Trails users should be aware of the vehicles and workers on the Milwaukee Railroad trail in the morning and late afternoon. The trestle will remain open to the public during this time.

For more information contact the Butte Ranger District at (406) 494-2147.

Elk B License Requires Clarification in Some Western Montana Hunting Districts

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks (FWP) wants western Montana elk hunters to know about a clarification in the regulations relative to the Elk B license (002-00) for Upper Clark Fork districts 210, 211, 212, 215 and 216.

The wording in the printed 2018 Montana Hunting Regulations has led to confusion about whether the Elk B license can be used on public lands during the archery-only season. Mike Thompson, FWP Region 2 Wildlife Manager, clarified that the license cannot be used on public lands during archery-only season. It is valid only on private lands.

"Unfortunately, the wording is confusing in our regulations that are already printed, but we will make a clarification in the online regulations and are working to get the word out to hunters ahead of the season," Thompson said.

The clarified regulations will be available online soon at fwp.mt.gov, under "Hunting" and then "Regulations." They say that in HDs 210, 211, 212, 215 and 216, the Elk B License is valid for antlerless elk on private lands only (excluding Weyerhaeuser, Stimson and The Nature Conservancy) from Aug. 15 through Oct. 19.

Then, from Oct. 20 through Feb. 15, the license is valid on those same private lands and on public DNRC lands that are located outside National Forest boundaries and FWP Wildlife Management Areas. The license is also valid on the Montana State Prison Ranch in HD 212 from Oct. 20 through Feb. 15, in compliance with Prison Ranch access regulations.

"The bottom line and most important clarification is that the 002-00 Elk B License is never valid for hunting on public lands during the archery-only elk season," Thompson said.

The 002-00 B License is an unlimited license and will be available for purchase over-the-counter at any license provider or online at fwp.mt.gov from August 6 through October 19.

Beaverhead WIC celebrates World Breastfeeding Week

The Beaverhead WIC Program is celebrating Montana Breastfeeding Awareness Month in August and World Breastfeeding Week, Aug. 1-7. This year's theme focuses on "Breastfeeding: Foundation of Life."

The American Academy of Pediatrics and other health organizations endorse breastfeeding as the best way of feeding infants, and recommend breastfeeding for at least one year or longer. Breast milk is custom-made by each mother, and contains the perfect combination of protein, carbohydrate, fat, vitamins and minerals, and is packed with disease-fighting substances that help protect the baby from illness. Babies who are not breastfed are more likely to develop common childhood illnesses like ear infections and diarrhea as well as chronic conditions such as type 2 diabetes, asthma and childhood obesity. Breastfeeding improves the survival, health, and development of all children, saves women's lives and contributes to human capital development across populations. Breastfeeding is not only the cornerstone of a child's healthy growth and development; it is the foundation of a country's development. A healthy child ensures a nation's sustained development.

"Breastfeeding helps children get off to a healthy start," said Sue Hansen, Beaverhead WIC Director, "It's the foundation of life."

Breastfeeding is important for mothers, too. Women who breastfeed have a reduced risk of breast cancer, ovarian cancer and osteoporosis. Increasing exclusive breastfeeding rates is one of the goals to improve health and reduce health disparities across the state.

29% of Beaverhead WIC moms are fully breastfeeding at 3 months compared to Montana's 20.4%. At 6 months, it drops to 20.5% for Beaverhead and 15.5% for Montana and at 12 months, it drops even more to 14.5% compared to Montana's 7.2%. Societal challenges women face to meet their breastfeeding goals include lack of maternity leave, formula advertising, no workplace support, and attitudes, peer pressure, and bottle-feeding imagery.

That's changing in Montana. Thanks to the efforts by leadership within many organizations and WIC, growing numbers of health care, childcare, employers and health departments are working to address the barriers and make breastfeeding easier for new mothers. Beaverhead County Public Health supports breastfeeding by offering breastfeeding education and counseling for all WIC mothers through the public health nurse who is a Certified Lactation Consultant (CLC) and our new Breastfeeding Peer Counselor. A Breastfeeding Peer Counselor is a woman who is or has been on WIC and is or has breastfed. She provides support and help to breastfeeding mothers and refers to the CLC when necessary. Even though these services are specifically for WIC mothers, Barrett Hospital and the clinic has CLCs that non-WIC moms can contact for help. Beaverhead WIC also has FREE nursing bras provided through Leading Lady who advocates for breastfeeding as a life-changing, life-saving act of love and nourishment.

Bible Truth... Doctrinal changes noted in modern translations

---We believe the following: (1) the Bible was given by the inspiration of God, 2 Timothy 3:16-17; (2) all statements made in this and any ensuing articles will be based on what the Bible says; (3) the Bible only is the reliable source of spiritual & doctrinal truth; (4) all beliefs in conflict with the Bible are false.

The inspired, preserved word of God in the KJV teaches that man has eternal life only if he believes in Jesus Christ, who shed His blood and died on Calvary's cross to pay for our sins.

Note the following comparisons between the KJV and the New American Standard Version.

John 3:36

KJV: "He that believeth on the Son has everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him."

NASV: "He who believes in the Son has eternal life; but he who does not obey the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abides on him."

At best the NASV causes confusion. The first phrase states it is belief on the Son that brings eternal life, but the second phrase says one must obey the Son or not see life. It leaves the impression that after we believe on Jesus Christ for salvation we must obey in order to retain eternal life.

John 6:47

KJV: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life."

NASV: "Truly, truly, I say to you, he who believes has eternal life."

Believes in what for eternal life? Baptism? Moral living? Church membership? Keeping various rituals required by some churches? While all of these actions on man's part are good, they do not contribute to eternal life. Jesus pointed this out in John 14:6 where He said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man comes to the Father, but by me."

Colossians 1:14 (Speaking of Christ)

KJV: "In whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins."

NASV: "In whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins."

Since we are redeemed, "...with the precious blood of Christ..." [1 Peter 1:19], removing the blood removes man's method of redemption.

How I think about the word "Right".

If the "Right" to Justice, Media (speech), Information, Health, Education, Law and survival are all reserved behind a market wall regulated by those without the impediment of that wall, how much does the "Right" to Freedom cost? Is it not inevitable that in a system where freedom is bought, that only those who can afford its market value will apportion that freedom solely to sustain the freedom of their own possession? If freedom is a commodity, how can there be a "Right" in deprivation of it?

If the word "Right" could be associated with a specific market strategy, would freedom as a commodity naturally recede away from those (Wrong) unable to afford its (ideological) price? Would it be natural for those with more commodity "freedom" to feel as if their freedom were threatened through its systemic "acquisition", by those without it? And thus guarantee they work to seclude the commodity of freedom to themselves? Is it "Right" that ones freedom depend on another's restriction of it? Hence deprivation as a tool of sustained market control (freedom for those already free). What if freedom from deprivation were required to be bought only from those who already possess it? If freedom can be possessed, what better way than to commodify the means of survival? Scarcity in survival would imply a lack of liberty, yet scarcity profits in a market of survival, and makes a market for abuses justified in the escape from it. If freedom from struggle for survival must be bought, who is most likely to be unable to afford their freedom? Those needing it most. Would their struggle for it inevitably be seen as an impediment to, or advantage for, those already in possession of it? Would centralized control by those inevitable few be the object of the "right" game? The other's "right" may be a game for those in whom survival is already guaranteed, especially if the pieces of that game (people) may both guarantee it and imply its threat by their very struggle to "acquire" it. In the many's desire to possess "freedom" like the few, lies an implied loss to those few. Thus to commodify the "right" of freedom behind a wall of possession sustains the possessed simply as a profitable (wall) security against the dispossessed. Deprivation demands more sacrifice of the un-free than the "free". In that disparity is the root of need for control in the possessed, to contain the strategically dispossessed. Thus systemically guaranteeing deprivation of both freedom and survival in those without it already, and maintaining the "right" of an Established Monopoly to "possess" freedom against the self-created implication of liberty's deprivation in its empowerment of those without it. Divide and conquer...

The idea of possession as a means to freedom only works in a system where survival can be commodified. If a man's (Magna Carta) castle is a buffer against both the State and the struggle for survival, what happens when inevitably the majority cannot afford that buffer, or its acquisition only enables another's "freedom", and not his own? If freedom can be possessed, does lack of possession in the many imply their lack of Freedom, or the "Right" of the possessor to raise the price of their need? Systemic deprivation demands possession as a hedge against itself. What use is deprivation in a time of plenty? 'Possession' of Freedom implies fear of its loss, and if loss of possession can be construed as a loss of freedom, the hedge against deprivation (more) has no limit. Even another's freedom. Making any reduction or increase of possession imply an increase or loss of Freedom, "right"?

If that word "Right" were associated with one particular economic ideology, either through repetition or association over time, what would prevent it from being enforced against all other "Rights" as a means of market control? Tribalized by inherited doctrine, fear, faith or disparity, what structure would it take in today's "market freedom"? How would it be expressed in a Democratic State? Would security through exclusion, possession, and control of the other, be more likely than security through warmth, welcome, and a passionate accommodation? Which would enable freedom more? A struggle to afford ones "Right" against a market bought by those "free" enough to see other's (your) "freedom" as a threat, or the knowledge that in another's freedom from... is a true beginning for one's own? In a market to possess freedom, what is "left" but the enemy? Is that "right"? 7/28/18 Calvin
