Forest Service Offers Tips to Hunters

Good luck to all hunters looking for that trophy bull elk or other game animal in the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest. The Forest Service hopes you have a good hunt and offers some tips for making your hunt even more enjoyable.

Get a Map

Stop in at a Forest Service office to get the latest visitor maps and information. You'll find Forest Service offices in Dillon, Butte, Wisdom, Sheridan, Ennis, and Philipsburg.

The Forest has three maps: northern, central, and southern, and each map is $14. The maps show the latest travel rules. Beaverhead-Deerlodge Forest Visitor/Travel maps showing lake, road, and trail locations are available for purchase from any Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest office. Or, you can order forest maps through the USDA Forest Service's National Forest Store at www.nationalforestmapstore.com

NEW! - PDF Maps Mobile App, developed by Avenza Systems Inc., is available as a free download from iTunes and the Android Play Store. The app provides access to Forest Service maps, such as motor-vehicle-use maps, which are free while pages from national forest atlases are 99 cents and forest visitor maps are $4.99.

Rules for Vehicles

The Forest Service has many roads and trails open to motorized travel, but some roads and trails are closed this time of year. All vehicles must stay on designated routes and not drive cross-country on the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest.

In most areas of the Forest you may drive up to 300 feet off a road or trail to reach a temporary camping spot, but special rules in the Gravelly and Snowcrest ranges in Madison County allow driving off roads only at designated locations to reach a signed camping spot. Ask at the ranger stations in Sheridan or Ennis for information on where those designated camping spots are located.

For all other activities, including for firewood cutting, your vehicle must remain within a vehicle-length of the road, officials said.

Throughout the national forest, fullsize vehicles are also prohibited on roads or trails that are narrower than the vehicle (50"). So an ATV doesn't belong on a single-track trail, for example.

The Forest Service also reminds drivers not to drive around barricades, gates, or snow drifts. Doing so creates ruts and in the case of man-made barriers, defeats the purpose they were intended for.

The mix of closed and open roads and trails are designed to provide a variety of hunting experiences and offers secure areas for game. You can help protect that experience by cooperating with the travel rules in effect for the area you hunt in.

The Forest Service takes enforcement of these closures seriously, with many violations resulting in serious fines. So, check the maps for the travel rules in the areas that interest you and help ensure good hunting this year--and in years to come.

Remember, too, that state law requires drivers and vehicles to be licensed and "street legal" when on numbered Forest Service roads. ATV's and motorcycles on Forest Service trails don't have to be licensed or street legal, but must have a valid Montana "OHV permit." Nonresidents using their OHVs in Montana must purchase a Nonresident Temporary Use Permit, which is valid for the calendar year (January 1 - December 31). Residents of Idaho and North Dakota are exempt. The Non-resident Temporary Use Permit allows OHV use on trails only. OHVs must be street legal to be ridden on roads.

Use a Dump Station

Don't empty your sewage and waste water tanks in the national forest. Dump your waste down a proper drain, not on the ground.

Travel Light on the Land

Use "Leave No Trace" camping practices to protect your national forests by following these guidelines:

- Pack it in, pack it out--dispose of trash and garbage properly at approved garbage dumps, not in the national forest. Be extra clean in bear country.

- Properly dispose of what you can't pack out--bury human waste in a "cat-hole" or latrine at least six inches deep and 200 feet from water. Avoid contaminating water sources when washing.

• Leave what you find--maintain naturalness by minimizing site alterations when camping. Avoid damage to trees and plants. Leave natural objects and cultural artifacts where you find them.

• Minimize the use and effect of fire--use only dead and down wood for fuel. In high-use areas, use existing fire rings. In remote areas, use fire pans or other "Leave No Trace" fire techniques.

• Minimize the effects from your horses--don't tie horses to trees for long periods of time (longer than one-half hour). Horses can damage trees by rubbing, and by pawing and trampling roots. Use an electric fence, highline, hobbles, or picket pin to hold horses in areas with durable surfaces such as rocky ground or dry meadows. Scatter manure and leftover feed when breaking camp.

For more information on the Leave No Trace skill and ethics program, go to <http://www.lnt.org/>.

WEEDS!

Remember, only certified, weed-free hay, straw, seed, and feed can be brought into the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest. You can help preserve wildlife habitat and stop the spread of noxious weeds by making sure your feed is clean. To qualify, your hay bales must be tagged. Letters from growers won't be accepted.

Noxious weeds, like spotted knapweed, have the potential to destroy the habitat that makes Southwest Montana's hunting among the country's finest. Report patches of weeds you find on public lands to the nearest Forest Service office.

Save Wildlife Habitat: Wash Your Rig

You can also help stop weeds in another important way. Wash your vehicles thoroughly before you head off on your hunting trip. Weed seeds can lodge under ATV's, and in pickup beds and wheel wells.

Outfitters

In Montana, outfitters and guides must be licensed to operate on federal, state, as well as private lands unless it's their own. Licensed outfitters must meet requirements to ensure they provide service to their clients and meet the standards of the industry. Be sure your guide or outfitter is licensed. It's illegal to hire an unlicensed guide or outfitter.

Call the state Board of Outfitters at (406) 444-3738 or the nearest office of the Forest Service, Bureau of Land Management, or Montana Department of Natural Resources & Conservation for more information.

Ghost Walk 2018

Everybody loves a good ghost story, and Montana has plenty. This Halloween season, treat the whole family to some wholesome scares in Montana's first territorial capital, now known as Bannack State Park. The Bannack Ghost Walk is a family-friendly event, sure to entertain and educate anyone interested in the spooks and legends of Montana's early history. There are two shows each night, at 7pm and 9pm. Bring a good flashlight and warm clothing. Because of the family-oriented nature of the walk, alcoholic beverages are not allowed past the gate.

Families are encouraged to leave pets and children under six with a sitter—while the stagecraft of the ghost walk isn't over the top, it could cause some unpleasant after-effects for those not mature enough to understand the topic.

Admission to the Bannack Ghost Walk is $10 for adults and $5 for kids under 12. They accommodate 100 people per show and tickets go fast.

For reservations or more information, call 406-834-3413 or visit bannack.org.

When: Friday, Oct. 26th and Saturday Oct. 27th, 2018
Times: 7 pm and 9 pm.

Note: Reservations are required for this event.

Bible Truth...Preparing for death (Part 1)

-----We believe the following: (1) the Bible was given by the inspiration of God, 2 Timothy 3:16-17; (2) all statements made in this and any ensuing articles will be based on what the Bible says; (3) the Bible only is the reliable source of spiritual & doctrinal truth; (4) all beliefs in conflict with the Bible are false.

I recently read the following 6 recommendations one should follow in making preparations for death. I'm sure almost everyone has seen dozens of advertisements encouraging people to prepare for death. These recommendations and ads all revolve around the need for us to do certain things to make it easier for our loved ones after we have passed on.

Note the following recommendations to follow in preparing for death:

1. Write Your Last Will and Testament.
2. Outline the Funeral or Memorial Service.
3. Designate a Power of Attorney.
4. Prepare a Living Will and Designate a Medical Power of Attorney.
5. Secure Your Digital Life (and Pass the Keys onto Someone You Trust)
6. Set Up a Master File of Everything.

These are good recommendations, but the most important aspect of preparing for death is not included. That is the spiritual aspect and pertains not to loved ones still living, but to the well-being of the individual who dies.

The death of our bodies brings our existence on this earth to an end. It does not, however, bring our eternal existence to an end. Our spirit leaves its earthly body at the point of death and we begin another era in our eternal spirit. God makes this clear in Hebrews 9:27 where He informs us that, "...it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment: So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and to them that look for him he shall appear the second time without sin unto salvation."

A common non-biblical misconception regarding death is that we don't need to fear death if we have lived a good life. That philosophy, however, is eliminated in Isaiah 64:6 where it states that "all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags..."

Preparing for death spiritually is "by grace...through faith...Not of works, lest any man should boast, Ephesians 2:8-9."
