Speed Chase Press Release

On October 21, 2018 at approximately 3 AM, Dillon City Officers responded to Barrett Memorial Hospital on the report to a domestic situation. Officers were informed that a female privately reported being held against her will by the male accompanying her. I personally was impressed by the professionalism and quick action of Barrett Hospital staff.

Upon arriving to the hospital, officers attempted to speak with both the alleged suspect and victim who were at this point in a vehicle in the Barrett Memorial parking lot. The male driver tried to recklessly leave the scene ignoring the officers' commands to stop. As he reversed the car, he nearly struck one of the responding officers and then sped forward almost striking another officer. The suspect then fled the scene at a high rate of speed through Dillon and in to Madison counties as Dillon City Officers pursued.

The Madison County Sheriff's Office and the Montana Highway Patrol were able to set spike strips in Madison County in an attempt to stop the vehicle but the suspect continued on its rims. Eventually, the suspect vehicle wrecked near Alder and a felony stop was performed by officers from the three agencies. The suspect, 36 year-old Dan Eugene Hastings of Billings was arrested at the scene. The female was transported to Sheridan by ambulance for medical treatment. Hastings is being held on a warrant from probation and parole, and Beaverhead County Attorney Jed Fitch is reviewing the case for charges.

The Dillon Police Department would like to thank both the Montana Highway Patrol, and the Madison County Sheriff's Department, specifically Undersheriff Fortner for the immediate assistance from both deputies and dispatch. The Dillon community should be commended for passing the bond issue which allowed officers to respond to this dangerous situation with back up or this situation could have been much worse. Once again, thank you to the Dillon community for their continued support.

Safe Hunting in Bear Country

Example of how to store food or carcasses

Hunters are, by design, good at sneaking up on bears unobserved. They also provide bears with an attractive food source in the form of gut piles and carcasses. Follow a few precautions to minimize bear interactions and increase safety while hunting this season.

1. Be aware of your surroundings at all times. Watch for bear sign or signs of carcasses that would attract bears such as scavenging birds or foul odors. Be on alert in areas of low visibility and by streams which mask noises.

2. Bear spray works! Bear spray produces a large cloud that targets a bear's nose and eyes - its most sensitive areas. It has proven 98% effective at preventing human injury in actual encounters. Remember that bears have thick hides and that they move faster than most pistol shooters can properly aim.

3. Calling for elk and deer/elk scents are attractive to bears. Bears have approached and injured hunters while calling. Always hunt with a partner and keep your bear spray readily accessible if calling for elk. Include a coagulant like quick clot in your first aid kit. Keep a clean camp. Bears are very smart, have a great memory and if they receive a food reward in one camp, they may become aggressive as they continue to raid camp. Make sure all attractants are placed in a hard-sided vehicle, locked in a bear-resistant container, or hung 10 feet up and four feet out from any supporting branches. Anything that has a smell or has once had a smell needs to be put away.

4. Regular coolers are not bear-resistant and must be appropriately stored, even when empty. Check with a local ranger station about obtaining bear-resistant containers through the loaner program, free of charge.
5. If you are fortunate enough to harvest an animal this year, Move the gut pile as far away as possible from the animal carcass, carry a tarp, put the guts on the tarp and drag at least 300m from the animal. Cover the gut pile with the tarp to minimize birds attracting bears to the site.
6. Locate an observation point at least 200 yards away from the animal carcass with a clear line of sight. Before leaving, walk to the observation site and memorize the site.
7. When returning, approach the carcass carefully, yell repeatedly and with binoculars scan the area for your carcass and any movement.
8. If a bear is at the site and refuses to leave or the meat has been moved and/or covered by debris – the meat is not salvageable. Do not try and scare a bear off of a carcass. Report the incident to FWP (1-800-TIP-MONT). Hunters who have lost an animal to a grizzly may be eligible for another license.
9. Never bring a carcass into your camp! If you need to leave a carcass on the forest, hang it (10' up, 4' out) 100 yards or farther from a sleeping area or trail. If you must leave it on the ground make sure it is at least a half mile from any sleeping area and 200 yards from a trail. Leave your kill in a place where you can view it from at least 200 yards away as you return.

If you do encounter a bear, it is important to leave the area quietly as soon as possible without running or turning your back. Avoid making eye contact with the bear and immediately take out your bear spray and be ready to use it. Report any encounter to your local Forest Service Office.

Also, use motorized vehicles only on designated routes, and bring certified weed-free hay and straw. For information about local regulations or bears, go to the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest website at www.fs.usda.gov/bdnf, or read about Hunting Safely in Grizzly Country: <http://fwp.mt.gov/fwpDoc.html?id=35117>, or, stop by a local Forest Service office.

Private Inholdings in Montana to Become Public Land

The Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation acquired 1,120 acres of prime elk habitat in western Montana that are now both permanently protected and open to public access. The parcels, previously private inholdings, were conveyed to and now managed by the Lolo National Forest (LNF).

"We are grateful that Stimson Lumber Company recognized the wildlife values of this land and reached out to us to help conserve it," said Kyle Weaver, RMEF president and CEO.

Located about 15 miles west of Missoula, the property lies within the Ninemile Ranger District on the LNF. It is just a few miles from previous RMEF projects that conserved more than 1,000 acres of wildlife habitat.

"This new Edith Peak project is especially important because the surrounding land is part of a wildlife movement corridor connecting the Ninemile Divide with the Northern Continental Divide Ecosystem to the north and the Fish Creek area and the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness to the south," said Blake Henning, RMEF chief conservation officer.

The surrounding area features spring, summer and fall range and supports more than 500 elk. It also includes key habitat for deer, moose, bear and other bird and animal life, plus it includes springs that provide important riparian habitat.

"The addition of these two inholdings through the Land and Water Conservation Fund will allow the Forest to seamlessly manage the National Forest in this area to improve the condition of the forest while also enhancing recreation opportunities," noted Joe Alexander, Lolo National Forest acting forest supervisor.

Alexander also mentioned his sincere appreciation to the RMEF for its contributions and support to the Forest Service in securing these lands.

Additionally, the project permanently secures public access to the U.S. Forest Service Edith Peak trail that will be uninterrupted as it traverses across the property.

Dig In! Potato Supper tonight at Saint James

From 5:30 to 7 pm at the Guild Hall of Saint James Episcopal Church, 203 East Glendale, fresh baked potatoes with all the trimmings will be served, and everyone is invited. There is no cost for admission, but freewill donations will be accepted for the church Building Fund. The Building Fund is dedicated to the care of the historic buildings and grounds at Saint James. The goal is to update these facilities to make them safe and welcoming, while preserving their historic character. It is a perpetual project.

The church was built in 1882 on a lot next to the Methodist church on Bannack Street, and moved to its current location at the corner of Washington and Glendale Streets in 1889. In recent years, with help from the Building Fund, some major work has been done on the church, from basement to bell tower. While a few things remain to be done in the church, the focus of the Building Fund is about to shift to the adjacent Guild Hall.

The Guild Hall was built in 1911. As one of the largest buildings in Dillon it has served as a community center, hosting dances, movies, roller skating, bowling, meetings, and parties. The Saint James Guild was a women's auxiliary organization, beginning in the days before women had the right to vote. The church ladies were focused on good works and community service, and they saw a need for a community hall in Dillon. Guild members, in particular Mrs. Ellen Lovell, had the means to make this happen. Never underestimate church ladies! After 107 years, there is plenty of historic charm in the Guild Hall. It is still serving its intended purpose as a community hall, but updates are necessary to help meet the needs of today and tomorrow. Improvements in basic systems such as wiring, plumbing, and the gutters are essential, to make the building safe and functional by modern standards. Then the kitchen and interior spaces can be renovated, and an elevator can be added. The Guild Hall can once again be one of our first best places to gather in downtown Dillon.

So, let's dig in! Come to the Potato Supper and help care for these historic buildings.
