Montana's REAL ID Public Information Campaign Receives Award

The Montana Department of Justice's Motor Vehicle Division (MVD) received a Public Engagement Excellence Award for its REAL ID public information campaign and new website, mtrealid.gov.

The award was presented by Brian Zimmer, president of The Coalition for a Secure Driver's License, for "MVD's significant public outreach through 'The Real Me' REAL ID website and creative information campaign." MVD Administrator Sarah Garcia accepted the award during a ceremony at the Attorney General's Office.

"The Real Me" campaign is a collaboration between MVD and Montana State University Billings (MSU-Billings) staff and students, also received an award from The Coalition for a Secure Driver's License for their significant contributions.

"Our Motor Vehicle Division continually seeks new ways to assist the public with navigating complex information and services, including REAL ID," Attorney General Tim Fox said. "MVD's commitment to finding engaging ways to serve the public by leveraging technology, creativity, and partnerships is an integral part of its customer focus, and I'm delighted with the recognition the MVD team received today."

"Our collaboration with MSU-Billings offered us a unique opportunity and fresh perspective on how to best reach out to Montanans about REAL ID and the choices that are available to citizens soon," MVD Administrator Sarah Garcia said. "We're really excited our public information campaign was honored by The Coalition for a Secure Driver's License."

MSU-Billings students researched the campaign's market and theme, which features Meriwether Lewis and William Clark as they attempt to navigate Montana without REAL IDs. Students working on the public information campaign developed scripts for TV and radio public service announcements, social media posts, online ads, and print materials. MSU-Billings Chancellor Dan Edelman said, "I am proud of this collaborative learning opportunity that gave our students real-world experience resulting in a creative campaign that is positively impacting the MVD's REAL ID efforts. The perspectives students brought to the table along with the expertise of our talented faculty truly enhanced the campaign's effectiveness in this distinct partnership."

DILLON POLICE DEPARTMENT

I would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a Happy Thanksgiving and keep you updated on our progress.

I have been extremely pleased with our new officers as they continue their training. Officer Eric Pedersen will begin attending the Montana Law Enforcement Academy (MLEA) in January and will return to Dillon in April. Officer Jace Maroney may attend this session as well, but it has not been confirmed. It is very difficult to reserve openings at the MLEA as every law enforcement department in Montana is competing for limited occupancy. Our officers continue to perform community oriented patrols and can often be found in schools or on foot. Officers are really enjoying the interaction with the community on a different level than they are used to. Our relationship with the community we serve is our top priority. I am very proud of how the officers have embraced community policing. I observed several pictures of officers posing with children over Halloween. It appeared the Officers were enjoying the holiday as much, if not more than the kids.

I am pleased to announce that we were able to purchase a used 2013 federal law enforcement Chevy Tahoe from the Bureau of Land Management. The police department was able to purchase the vehicle with assistance and cooperation from the local BLM. The city administration and police department worked diligently to find cost savings as we will continue to sensibly apply your generous police levy funds. I estimate a $15,000 savings from the original plan.

Please stay safe over the holidays and please take care of one another as we celebrate.

Don Guiberson
Chief of Police

Letter to the Editor

Hooray! Election day is finally over. No more offensive nasty commercials. No more name calling.

Congratulations to all the winners. Many thanks for all who ran for an office.

Now with the new Senate and the new House of Representatives lets hope that it will bring some civility and respect to Washington D.C. and the United States.

When you watch the news nightly it is embarrassing to see and hear the lack of respect for each other.

Again. Congratulations to all the winners locally, state and nationally. We are all looking forward to a new beginning!

Montana Western and TRIO Celebrate First-Generation College Student Day

On Nov. 8, 2018, the Council for Opportunity in Education is asking universities around the country to celebrate the second annual First-Generation College Student Celebration. The date marks the 53rd anniversary of the Higher Education Act of 1965 which increased funding for universities, scholarships and student loans.

"First-generation" refers to students whose parents haven't obtained a four-year college degree; the TRIO program provides them with a support system to help them navigate the landscape of higher education.

The day recognizes first-generation college students; to celebrate the accomplishments they have made, and the barriers they have broken. Montana Western and the TRIO Student Support Services staff continue to work hard to make a college degree attainable for everyone.

Deb Hedeon

Deb Hedeon, Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic and Student Affairs at Montana Western, was the first member of her family to attend college. She knew in high school that it would take a college degree to fulfill her career goals, but it wasn't until she was attending college that she realized she wanted to become a professor, starting her on the path to obtain a Ph.D. in Special Education.

"I knew college would make a difference in my life," Hedeon states.

She is very excited about the work the TRIO Office is doing to help make college a success for the students it mentors and wishes a similar program would have been available when she was starting her first degree.

Leigha Minnick

Montana Western senior, Leigha Minnick. First-generation UMW student Leigha Minnick of Livingston, Mont., is not only a first-generation college student, but also the first in her family to graduate from high school. As a double major in Elementary Education and Secondary Music Education K-12, Minnick loves that Montana Western's Experience One program provides her the opportunity to gain valuable first-hand teaching experiences.

"I've pushed myself past a point I never thought I could reach," she said.

Minnick is very grateful for the help and guidance the TRIO office and staff have offered throughout her college experience. She notes that having a TRIO advisor has really helped to keep her focused on her goals while at Montana Western.

Harley Barnett

Harley Barnett, a junior at Montana Western. UMW Junior, Harley Barnett from Townsend, Mont., also agrees that the TRIO office has proven an invaluable tool to help her through college.

"They do an awesome job pointing me in the right direction to resources. I appreciate them so much," said Barnett who is a double major in Health and Human Performance and Psychology with a minor in coaching. Her future goal is to become a physical therapist.

As a first-generation college student, Barnett has found the professors at UMW to be very accommodating. Montana Western's unique block scheduling system, Experience One, has allowed Barnett to be able to work at a local business while still focusing on her studies.

Colton McCall

First-generation Montana Western college student, Colton McCall.

Colton McCall, originally from Louisiana, came from a family of military tradesmen. With a desire to learn more about protecting the environment, McCall was intrigued by Montana Western's block scheduling and their nationally ranked Environmental Sciences program. Excited about the opportunity, he and his family headed to Dillon.

"I feel like this university is really connected to the town. I like how they bring the close-knit community feeling into the classroom," McCall said.

Being a first-generation college student with a family did present its challenges, but the TRIO office was right there to help McCall and his family successfully transition to the community of Dillon.

Reagan Turcotte

Sophomore Reagan Turcotte, a Secondary History Education major from Townsend, Mont., feels very supported at Montana Western and appreciates that the TRIO office offers computers and printer access for TRIO students. He acknowledges that it may seem like a small detail but having immediate access to technology in the TRIO office has been extremely helpful during his college career.

"They're awesome and always willing to help," Turcotte said about the staff at the TRIO office.

Katrina Kennett

Katrina Kennett, Montana Western Assistant Professor of Education. Montana Western Assistant Professor of Education, Katrina Kennett, Ph.D., was a first-generation college student originally from Concord, New Hampshire. After completing her degrees at universities across the country, Kennett explains that not having family nearby while going to college was sometimes challenging, which is why she appreciates that students at Montana Western have access to the TRIO office and staff. As an instructor, Kennett often consults with TRIO advisors to gain perspective on the best way to help students be successful.

It can, at times, seem difficult to traverse a fast-paced college setting but Kennett recommends that all current and prospective college students stay open to new ideas.

"College is an important opportunity to figure out who you want to be," Kennett said.

Montana Western will be celebrating First-Generation College Student Day with a variety of activities:

The display bookshelves in the UMW library will feature first-generation authors November 5-9.

A TRIO booth will be open in the UMW library from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on November 8.

At the booth, there will be badges for current and past First-Generation students, faculty and staff.

Currently enrolled first-generation students can enter a drawing for a chance to win a $100 scholarship donated by the Montana Western Foundation.

The Center for First-Generation Student Success encourages all first-generation students to share their stories on social media using the hashtag #celebratefirstgen. The Center hopes the presence on social media will spark a national conversation, celebrating first-generation students across the country.

For more information about the University of Montana Western TRIO Student Support Services office and provided services, please visit their website.
