Montana Law Enforcement Academy Graduates 55 New Officers
 At a ceremony this morning, the Montana Law Enforcement Academy (MLEA) graduated 55 new officers who will serve various agencies across the state. The Academy is operated by the Montana Department of Justice; it provides basic and advanced training for state, county, city and tribal law enforcement officers throughout the state.
 The ceremony took place at the Civic Center in Helena, and included remarks from Bryan Lockerby, Administrator of the Montana Department of Justice's Division of Criminal Investigation, MLEA Administrator Glen Stinar, MLEA Training Officer Jeff Wilson, and class representative Jake Barzen of Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks. Montana Supreme Court Justice James Rice administered the oath of office.
 In addressing the class, Bryan Lockerby, whose own law enforcement career spans 36 years, highlighted advancements in training and equipment available to today's graduates. "You enter the law enforcement world with higher levels of education, more intensive police academy training, and resources at your fingertips we could never have imagined just a few decades ago," Lockerby said. "You are entering a complicated world that is expecting much of you, and I commend your willingness to do something so extraordinary," Lockerby added.
 Several of the graduates received awards for their performance during training:
 Jake Barzen received the Don Williams Award, which is given to the officer elected by the class as Class Representative. The award is given in memory of Thompson Falls Police Chief Don Williams, who was killed in the line of duty in 1974.
 Jake Barzen also received the Health and Physical Fitness Award, which is given to the officer who participates and excels in the Hard Rock Challenge and achieves the class's best score in the Montana Physical Abilities Test.
 Jake Barzen also received the Paul Williams Award, which is given to the officer who provided inspiration to the staff and students through a display of unwavering dedication and determination. The award is given in memory of the late Chouteau County Sheriff Paul Williams.
 Christopher Duke received the Jack Wiseman Award, which is given to the officer selected by his/her peers as the most outstanding officer. The officers of each class select the recipient by considering two questions:
 1) If you were a law enforcement agency administrator, who would you most want to hire?
 2) If it were 2:00 a.m. and things were going bad quickly, who would you most want to know was coming to help you?
