BROKEN WATER MAINLINE

The City has a broken water mainline on Reeder Street between Wyoming and Nelson Streets. We ask that anyone traveling in that area use extreme caution. There is a lot of water on the streets and sidewalks in that area and with our cold temperatures it is causing very slick conditions.

The city will be sanding that area heavily the next couple of days. If you have any questions please call Todd Hazelbaker at 406 683-4245.

UMW Alumnus Receives Education Award

Chris Fisk, a 1992 graduate of Montana Western, was recognized as the Butte Elevated 2018 Educator of the Year.

This award recognizes an individual who has performed above and beyond in the education sector of Butte, developed innovative educational programs to motivate students beyond the classroom, or made a positive impact on a student's life that inspired them to excel.

Originally from Dillon, Mont., Fisk chose Montana Western because he knew it had a top-rated education department. After graduating with a degree in Social Science Broad-field, he went on to obtain his Master's Degree in Special Education from Montana State University-Billings.

Fisk notes that the instructors at UMW were vested in his success and when he acquired his first job teaching in Lincoln, Mont. Fisk felt prepared to teach. He now resides in Butte, Mont. where he has taught Social Studies at Butte High School for the last 25 years.

Fisk's hands on approach to history education has offered students at Butte High School an in depth understanding of Butte and Montana history. Every year he organizes the "cabbage patch experience."

The cabbage patch was a collection of shacks where Butte's extreme poor resided around the turn of the 20th century. Fisk takes students there to challenge them to survive the night like Butte's homeless once did. He gives his students a piece of cardboard and a tarp, making their experience more immersive.

Fisk also offers students the opportunity to learn how to harvest a game animal from start to finish using traditional tools, including obsidian knives. Students are expected to process the

In another example, during the spring Fisk takes his students to a local ranch where they help brand calves. Students get to wrestle calves, administer vaccines, and learn about agriculture.

"You can read anything you want out of books but when you put it into a hands on type of learning, it gives it relevance and the kids take ownership of their education," Fisk explained.

Fisk wants his students to understand that history is not just a story out of a book, but rather an experience. He feels very humbled by the award.

"This award doesn't just go to me. It goes to the community of Butte, it goes to Montana Western who educated me, and it goes to Dillon who raised me," said Fisk.

Letter to the Editor

[This morning, the 14th of January, I hand-delivered the following letter to each of our city council members and the mayor. On the 16th the council will again, and maybe decisively, consider the proposal for a non-discrimination ordinance.]

January 14, 2019

Unfortunately, legalistic and sometimes fear-based arguments have dominated discussions of the proposed non-discrimination ordinance. The main ethical concerns of those who brought the proposal forward, meanwhile, have been swept aside.

These concerns might best be expressed in three questions. (1) Should a landlord in Dillon be allowed to evict or refuse to rent to a gay person because of his/her sexual orientation? (2) Should an employer in Dillon be allowed to fire or refuse to hire a person because of his/her sexual orientation? (3) Should a business in Dillon which is open to the general public be allowed to refuse service to a person because of his/her sexual orientation?

As a councilman, you have the responsibility to answer these questions with either a "yes" or a "no." If your answer is "yes" to any or all of them, you are endorsing the idea that homosexuals are not entitled to all of the rights enjoyed by heterosexual people. If you answer "no" to these questions, you are accepting the idea that homosexuals and heterosexuals should have equal rights.

There is no morally defensible middle ground. If you don't think homosexuals deserve full equal rights, then your vote against the proposed ordinance is consistent though (in my opinion) shameful. On the other hand, you can't in good conscience be in favor of gay rights but, when faced with an opportunity to do something to protect them, refuse to do so because your friends don't think homosexuals need protecting or because you're afraid of being sued by some homophobic organization or individual.

The Dillon city attorney has suggested that a non-discrimination ordinance might be written so that it resembles Helena's NDO, which manages to avoid potential problems having to do with preemption and legal jeopardy. I suggest that the City Council postpone further discussion of the proposal in its various forms until a new one can be drafted.

Such an ordinance would affirm the City of Dillon's commitment to equal rights and rejection of bigotry. It would announce that Dillon welcomes everyone.
