Thanks for Informative Letter

By: MJ

Thank you, Mr. Pfister for that encouraging list of events and goings-on in Dillon in 2018 and continuing into 2019 you published January 4, 2019...

It takes many hands, volunteers giving many hours of their time to complete the projects that you listed. Each and every one of those events brought outside dollars into Dillon. Every dollar that is spend by an outsider is new dollars to the community and will circulate throughout the town, touching many in one form or another. A thanks goes to the work and time put into getting grants that have help the organizations with the expenses that go along with hosting events.

Dillon is like many of the small rural towns across Montana. It has its own uniqueness and with that its own problems to be worked with. One of the problems is the accessibility to an airport with commercial flights. It is often required by companies that the employees working off-site travel to and from home offices. People living in this area must add to their travel time 1-2 hours. I have several friends that base out of Seattle and they are fortunate to be able to go back and forth in one day but still have to allow for the extra travel time.

Mr. Pfister spoke of The Beaverhead Development doing a web site that will be on-line in 2019. Technology is the way of communicating in today's world. I look forward to that site as it will be another way for Dillon to connect with others.

I was living in Dillon and we owned several businesses during the years that it was at its peak. The main highway went through town, we had Stoltz Land and Lumber that employed two shifts, paid a comfortable median wage, Barrett Minerals, a Penny's along with 4 other clothing store, shoe stores, AT&T office, Sears store, government establishments...

Those days have gone and now the challenges begin to work toward a new future. Transition and changes do take time and are hard. Somehow the people need to figure out how the town can build on the existing assets and attract new tax paying industries that are a fit for this area. All of the improvements and enhancements that have been made and continue to be done are face lifts that are a substantial part of moving Dillon into the future. Remember: Governments only resource for money is collecting taxes from citizens and the business that pay a larger portion of the tax collected.

Local Artist Donates Artwork to Montana Western

Dillon, Mont. based artist Nolan Salix recently donated an original piece of artwork to Montana Western. The two-dimensional work, titled "November 28th," commemorates the fateful day in 2016 when thousands of snow geese died after landing on the water in the Berkley Pit.

The Berkley Pit, located in Butte, Mont., is a 700-acre body of water that is laden with toxic metals and sulfuric acid. The Pit is a by-product of the open pit mining that was used to extract copper from the area once known as the "richest hill on earth."

A snowstorm on Nov. 28, 2016 forced a large flock of migrating snow geese to land in The Pit and an estimated 3-4,000 birds perished after coming in contact with the toxic water. Twenty-one years earlier, in 1995, a similar weather pattern occurred. In the wake of that storm, 342 birds had died after landing on the water in the Berkeley Pit.

Salix, an industrial landscape painter, has spent that last 20 years of his career interested in the way humans create landscapes. He specifically examines the line between wilderness and people. When Salix found out about the geese that died at the Berkley Pit, he was compelled to create.

"This work was way more immediate and emotionally charged," Salix explained.

The artwork is made of 81 sheets of recycled copper that are mounted on plywood. Salix used oil paints to depict the geese and a mixture of natural and chemical patina were incorporated into the work as well.

"The irony of this piece is the fact that the copper used in it could have originally been mined from the Berkeley Pit," said Salix.

Salix depicted a true event through his painting and he hopes it serves as a medium to connect people to their surroundings and encourage them to look deeper into the environment they live in.

Salix worked with Montana Western Professors Rob Thomas and Jack Kirkley as well as Foundation Director Roxanne Engellant to bring this piece to campus, which now hangs on the south end of Block Hall. The UMW Foundation donated the cost of installing the artwork in the building. Montana Western's Environmental Sciences Department in housed in Block Hall, making it a natural home for the artwork.

Spanky's Garage

Is closing its doors forever!

After 18 years of service to the Dillon and surrounding communities we have decided to close the doors for good. It's been a wonderful experience and journey and I'd like to say "Thank You" for entrusting your vehicles to our care and service over the years. It is now time to begin a new chapter and focus our attention on Mad Dog Towing, as well as enjoying some downtime with friends and family. We are no longer taking appointments but will happily point you in the right direction for all your automotive repair needs, just give us a call.

Please be on the lookout in the coming days for an announcement of a Celebration we'd like to host at the shop, so everyone to stop by one last time and say "Good Bye".

Sincerely,
Brad Reis
