Senator Jeff Welborn (R) Update 36th District Montana

This past week in our Natural Resource and Transportation budget sub committee, we voted in favor of funding for Dept. of Natural Resources (DNRC), to add additional professional foresters to their workforce. In addition to keeping up with workload created by implementing the Forest In Focus Initiative, a collaboration between States like Montana and Federal agencies like BLM and the Forest Service, on timber harvest and land management projects, this will also help expedite timber projects on Montana owned School Trust lands, while creating an additional windfall for public education funding in Montana.

Also known as The Good Neighbor Authority Act, this new way of managing timberlands, was created by the 2013 Farm Bill, and recently re-authorized in the 2018 Farm Bill, and allows States like Montana to use its authority and workforce on federal forestry and restoration projects.

Among the bill's provisions, projects in the designated areas may be expedited via reduced environmental analysis, less red tape, and more efficient roll out due to utilizing State based land management practices.

This measure has already kept Montanans working in federal forests and generated well in excess of 50 million board feet of timber. This keeps our lands better managed, while keeping more Montanans employed in our mills and the supporting industries, with good paying jobs. At least 18 other states have already entered into Good Neighbor Agreements with the U.S. Forest Service.

We're not proposing to cut 5 million additional acres; we're simply looking to do better on projects that are currently ready to roll, one's that put logs on trucks, and get our lands back in shape.

The Good Neighbor Authority is important, as an example for the rest of the country, as Montana has already done good work under this act, and with more forest professionals on the ground, we can do even better.

Bark beetles nor fire don't adhere to property lines, or jurisdictional boundaries, so being able to use Good Neighbor Authority, we can do more, while using less people, and less resources. By utilizing the efficiency of local control, we as a State can also think bigger and get more analysis done more quickly.

The week wrapped up with a big hearing on SB 71. This is a bill that was requested by the Insurance Commissioner, and will lower prescription drug prices. A lot of great witnesses and Montana citizens drove to Helena to testify, despite some pressure from pharmaceutical lobbyists, to defeat the bill. Senate Republicans are working to get the bill through committee, and to the floor for a final vote. Lowering healthcare costs, including prescription drugs, is a priority for a good many of us during this session.

COWBOY POETRY

By: Bryce Angell

We are introducing a new weekly feature that we are very excited about and hope you enjoy as well, Cowboy Poetry. A little bit about Bryce Angell

The outdoors has always been a large part of my life. My father was an Outfitter and Guide for 35 years and I was there to shoe and care for the horses and help him do the cooking. We took many great trips in to the Yellowstone area.

Even now that I'm older, we still ride into the Tetons, Yellowstone, and surrounding areas.

My poems are mostly of personal experience. I've been doing this for about three years and have put out a weekly poem to seven newspapers. I'm now an RN at a local hospital and am looking forward, soon, to retirement when I can do more riding and writing.

Our Veterans

I've listened to my father talk 'bout days of World War II. And how he proudly served with pride. He wore the Navy Blue.

He waited danged near thirty years to speak about the war. Some visions still unspeakable of sights he'd seen on shore.

But, he shows respect and proves it when he stands up for the flag. He says he stands for men who came back just a lone dog tag.

He said he can't forget when they were sailing back to shore. The sailors saw the Golden Gate, knew they were home for sure.

Old Glory was then lowered. Sailors walked down off the ship. He watched the roughest sea men covering up a quivering lip.

Last year my wife and I flew back to Washington DC. We viewed the War Memorials. A sight for all to see.

Each structure is a tribute to the ones who served and died. The Vietnam Memorial is where we stood and cried.

I wonder how my father feels when athletes take a knee. Especially when he risked his life, so they'd have liberty.

I heard an older veteran say, "It darned near makes me gag when a spoiled and overpaid athlete can disrespect our flag!"

My grandson asked me how I feel when athletes take a knee. I said, "It shows audacity. For that I disagree."

Tonight, when kneeling at my bed, I'll thank the Lord up there for those who served our country fending off the evil snare.

And when I pull the covers down, jump in and hit the sack, I know we'll all be safe cuz sure enough they had our back.

So, to every veteran, young and old, we'd like to say to you. "We country boys respect you. It's a thank you overdue."

WEEKLY LEGISLATIVE UPDATE BY REP TOM WELCH

Greetings from a cold and wintery Helena. Things have heated up at Montana's 66th Legislative Session as Bills on a wide variety of subjects are now actively moving through the Legislative process. Over 580 Bills have been introduced to-date which is 80 more than at this time last session. The House dealt with 60 Bills on 2nd reading this week alone which all involved some degree of debate. In addition, Legislators heard addresses from both Governor Steve Bullock and U.S. Senator Steve Daines.

Several interesting tax proposals are making their way through the Montana House. One proposal would require a super majority vote (2/3s of the entire Legislature) to increase or create any tax or fee. Another proposal currently drafted as a Constitutional initiative would limit the number of types of broad tax classifications that can be levied to just two. The first of these Bills, the super majority vote requirement, has a rather serious side effect. By making it more difficult to adjust our tax system, we are virtually guaranteeing that any and all inequities in our tax current code will remain frozen in place and that these inequities will remain unaddressed by any future legislature. This Legislation would appear to have the unintended consequence of picking winners and losers whereas existing tax credits would persist in perpetuity--virtually unassailable behind the wall of a 2/3rds vote requirement.

Unsurprisingly, the initiative also has a darker side. At present, property taxes are consumed by local government (both cities and counties) as well as our public school system. Montanans with the ever-increasing costs of these services and passage of the initiative would permanently preclude shifting a portion of the current property tax burden onto some other taxing mechanism. In an ironic twist of fate, supporters of this initiative are actually advocating for boundless property tax increases.

The moral of this story, if there is one, is simply this—"Be careful what you wish for, after all, you might just get your wish."

I had four Bill hearings last week which resulted with three of the four involved Bills passing out of the House

Business and Labor Committee via 19-0 votes on Friday and now moving onto the House floor for 2nd reading and action. Two of these Bills dealt with Banking matters and the 3rd with Mortician education requirements. My 4th Hearing was in Senate Public Health, Welfare and Safety where my HB 79 dealing with clean up language within the DPHHS's Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) program was heard. This Bill had earlier passed the House with strong votes and is now entering the Senate side of the Legislature for consideration. Senate committee action is expected this week.

Both Senator Welborn and I had the opportunity this week to meet briefly with a large delegation of leaders and students involved with the PIMA veterinary technician program housed on the UMWestern campus. These folks were in Helena to testify in support of a Bill dealing with licensing of Veterinary Technicians in Montana. What a truly impressive group!

Thank you for allowing me to represent you. I continue to work hard to do so. Stay warm, be safe and have a great week!
