"Sip and Paint"

There is a remarkable phenomenon that is seeping into even small towns across America. Recognizing that people want to express themselves and have fun doing so, workshops with names like "Sip and Paint" or "Painting with a Twist" are springing up everywhere. Dillon, Montana, is no exception. February 27th at 6:30 Colleen Howe Cheney will host the second Sip and Paint event at Tendoy Fine Art, 120 N. Montana St. in the ArtSpace room.

Cheney is a professional artist with works exhibited throughout the West. She loves to teach and has an ongoing class in oil painting on Wednesday mornings at ArtSpace. She is also a veteran teacher of this kind of event where artists gather in the evening with a beverage of choice and do an art project. While the result may not be masterpiece art, the benefits are answering a need for activities that bring people together for fun and creative expression. The art project is usually directed by an artist and registration includes all supplies. Most Sip and Paint experiences target adults, but some are even designed for children. Sip and Paint is an opportunity to get together with friends or to meet new people. Cheney emphasizes that no artistic experience is necessary, but everyone should leave having had a great time.

Registration for the Sip and Paint event can be done by calling Cheney at 406-925-9434 or the Tendoy Fine Art gallery at 406-660-3007. Cost for the event is $27.00.

Montana Western Fine Arts Department to Perform Trifles

The University of Montana Western's Fine Arts Department presents its first production of the spring semester, titled "Trifles," as part of the Bank of Commerce Performing Arts Series. "Trifles" will be performed on Feb. 28, March 1, and March 2 on the University of Montana Western campus.

Susan Glaspell's "Trifles" originally debuted in 1916 and is considered an early illustration of feminist drama. The play, packed with mystery and comedy, portrays the murder of John Wright. While the male characters in the play try to pin the murder on Mrs. Wright, two female characters work in the shadows to solve the murder. The men view the women as delicate beings who are only attentive to the trifles of women's work. Unbeknownst to investigators, these trifles play a key role in solving the murder.

"I invite you to join us as we unravel the purpose of justice and morality through this play," explains director Cassandra Punohu, Montana Western student and Hawaiian native.

Punohu has been involved in a plethora of Montana Western's

UMW Senior Gains Experience as a Teaching Assistant

Augustina Wofford, senior at Montana Western, was a teaching assistant for the class "Intro to Psychology" taught during third block by Psychology Professor Mark Krank.

Wofford aided in group work, provided tutoring help on Tuesdays and Thursdays each week, and created her own lesson and unit plan which she taught the second to last day of the block.

Her lesson plan focused specifically on social psychology because it is a topic Wofford is passionate about. "I think it is fascinating how situations can make people do what they do," Wofford stated.

Wofford's lesson was based on social psychology, a topic she is very passionate about.

She taught about Asch Conformity Experiments, the Stanford Prison Experiment, and the Milgram Experiment all of which focus on social influences, beliefs, opinions, and how and why people react the way they do.

"I think the nature of the topic social psychology drew them in and it was interesting to them. The students were all very respectful," said Wofford about her experience as a teaching assistant.

Wofford spent hours prepping for her teaching lesson, and learned just how much time and care goes into being an educator. For her lesson, Wofford wrote a literature review and offered engaging activities that kept students discussing and brainstorming during the entire class.

"After you've been through just a portion of what they go through, you see how much teachers care about their students. They have done everything just to help you succeed and do the best you can," she said.

At Montana Western, classes are taught using Experience One. Students take classes on a block schedule, one at a time for 18 days. Wofford initially felt intimidated teaching on the block system, but as a student, she is aware of the benefits associated with this immersive approach to education.

Wofford plans to pursue her education further and eventually, obtain a Ph.D. She aspires to use both her art and psychology degrees to focus on marketing research in art.

Wofford believes this opportunity has helped prepare her for graduate school and she feels more confident to apply because of her experience as a teaching assistant.

For more information about Montana Western's block scheduling, please visit the Experience One website.

Bible Truth...What God requires of man [Part 2]

[Statement of belief: the Bible only is the source of truth and all beliefs in conflict with the Bible are false.]

In part 1 of what God requires of man our focus was on the fact that God has shown man what is good [right] by His standards. When there is conflict between what men consider good and the Bible standard of good regarding any subject, man will always be wrong. The Biblical record reveals that man's goodness won't meet God's requirements for going to heaven (Romans 3:23; Jeremiah 17:9; Romans 6:23a).

In spite of the clarity of truth regarding man's sin and subsequent condemnation without repentance toward God and faith Jesus Christ as their Savior, millions have made a "deal with the devil" regarding their future eternity when they pass from this life into the next. A huge factor in this "deal" is the rejection of God's truth regarding the creation and acceptance of the UNPROVEN THEORY OF EVOLUTION as a fact, thus leading man to believe that he is not accountable to God for his sin.

It's interesting that God knew men would take this course of action and warns of the futility of doing so in Isaiah 28:15-18: "Because you have said, we have made a covenant with death, and with hell we are in agreement; when the overflowing scourge [judgment of overwhelming chastisement and calamity] shall pass through, it shall not come to us: for we have made lies or refuge, and under falsehood we have hid ourselves (verse 15): Therefore thus says the Lord God, Behold (verse 16a)..., Judgment I will also lay to the line [measure], and righteousness to the plummet [level or plumb line]: and the hail shall sweep away the refuge of lies, and the waters shall overflow your hiding place (verse 17). And your covenant with death shall be disannulled, and your agreement with hell shall not stand [will not endure]; when the overflowing scourge shall pass through, then you shall be trodden down [trampled] by it (verse 18)."

"He that believes on the Son has everlasting life: and he that believes not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abides on him," John 3:36.
