A. Beryl Roberts, 79, of Dillon, Montana passed away at Barrett Hospital and Healthcare on March 24, 2019. She was born on December 23, 1939 in Windsor, Ontario Canada. Sheila Kirkpatrick Massar to be Honored at Rodeo Club Banquet

Sheila Kirkpatrick Massar has been a supporter of the cowboy way of life for many years. She began building cowboy hats over 40 years ago and her business, Montana Mad Hatters located in Twin Bridges, Mont., is known for creating fine custom cowboy hats. Massar will be honored at the annual Rodeo Club Banquet on March 29 for her continued support of UMW's rodeo team.

Massar feels as though she has always had an eye for hats. Her father was a rodeo announcer and she would often travel around with him to rodeos. At the age of about 10, Massar started shaping hats on her own.

She gained more experience shaping hats while she worked at a sporting goods store. From there, she went on to work for a custom hatter in Billings, Mont. for a year and a half. Massar later moved to Wisdom, Mont. and opened Kirkpatrick Custom Hatters in 1983.

Massar operated her hat company until the mid 1990's when the duties of the ranch required her to take a step back from hat building. Her hiatus didn't last long because by 1999 she was back to building one of a kind custom hats. She opened Montana Mad Hatters in Twin Bridges, Mont. and operated it successfully for several years. Her daughter, Ericka Kirkpatrick, continues to operate the business today.

Massar, who was inducted into the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame in 1992, has had the opportunity to build hats for a list of reputable people including actors Cheryl Ladd (Kris Munroe on Charlie's Angels) and Tim Scott (Pea Eye on Lonesome Dove), country-western singer Hank Williams Jr and T.V. personality Willard Scott. The state of Montana even commissioned Massar to build a hat for U.S. President George H.W. Bush.

"The cowboy hat is a symbol for the rodeo culture and Sheila makes some of the best hats around," UMW Head Rodeo Coach, Kody Lahaye, stated.

Even though famous people have worn Massar's creations, she holds dear the fact that cowboy hats are a necessary tool for many hard working men and women. Knowing that, Massar reasonably prices her hats so her quality workmanship can be worn and appreciated by all.

"My dad taught me to never forget where you come from. I am most proud of having the honor to make cowboy hats for the cowboys and cowgirls who continue to keep alive our western heritage," Massar stated.

Massar has been a longtime supporter of the Montana Western Rodeo Program, donating hats to their annual banquet nearly every year since the celebration began. Currently, Montana Mad Hatters donates two hats annually to Montana Western, one is auctioned off at the Rodeo Club Banquet, and the other will be up for bid during Montana Western's Annual Colt Sale.

Masser is incredibly humbled to be honored by the UMW Rodeo Team. She attests that she does it for the students saying "I'm very excited to see the kids that come out of the Montana Western Rodeo Program. I really believe in them."

"It is the support of individuals like Sheila that have made the rodeo program into what it is today. The Montana Western Rodeo Team, as well as myself, would like to thank Sheila for her continued support over the years," said Lahaye.

To learn more about the Rodeo Club Banquet or to purchase tickets, please call the UMW Foundation at 683-7306.

Rumor on the Street

By: MJ

Rumor on the street is that the LGBTQ topic has taken on a life in the form of physical aggression. It becomes disturbing when folks in a small town like Dillon, where the majority of people know each other or have friends & relatives that connect them, can't settle confrontations in a civil manner. When hostilities become primitive no one wins.

During the time the City Council and PFLAG representatives worked on an ordinance for Dillon, it appeared like the community was becoming divided in an angry, ugly way. Questions: What happened to sitting down at a table with personnel involved and finding solutions instead of drawing lines in the sand where emotions run high. The year of Montana Centennial I seen a project that would have benefited Dillon financially for many years, be destroyed because resolving problems around the table was not an option for some involved. Note: It does not have to be that way and the Parks Committee is a recent example, the museum and depot project was an example in years gone by…

We have watched the parks committee build an entire park. This took many hours over 2± years with numerous meetings. countless people to come to the table and compromising to find workable plans that involved the city who represents the community, and the parks committee.

Are we seeing the "one rule way" (my way) of doing business in Dillon? When our opinions become the overpowering information, we will perform with cheekiness and anger.

The council and mayor are elected officials. Go to the ballot box to express your desires. Do not attacked the character of a person publicly. Question: Would you want to be attacked publicly? Be careful what you "WANT." Historical, resolutions around the world have shown us we can destroy the fabric of our society by our actions. Untied we will stand and find the strategies needed to solve the problems.

WESTERN BASKETBALL SIGNING

University of Montana Western head women's basketball coach Lindsay Woolley has announced the signing of Box Elder High School star Lilly Gopher to an NAIA National Letter of Intent.

One of the state's top recruits, Gopher has great court vision and is creative offensively. She will add size, speed, and a championship pedigree to an already deep recruiting class.

Gopher, a 5-10 guard from Box Elder, Mont., who has averaged over 16 points a game the past two seasons, has lead the Lady Bears to back-to-back Class C State championships and an impressive 93-9 record. She was named North Central Montana Girl's Basketball player of the Year by the Great Falls Tribune this season and the state's most valuable player as a junior.

"We're excited to bring Lilly to campus next year, Woolley said. "She knows how to win, is extremely skilled with the ball in her hands and has good size for a guard. Lilly will fit great with the rest of this recruiting class."

The two-time all-state selection is the daughter of Jerome and Autumn Gopher. She plans on majoring in health and human performance at Montana Western.
