Weed Pull @ Poindexter Slough
Friday, April 26th from 1:00-3:00 pm

Have you ever spent an afternoon fishing or hunting or walking around Poindexter Slough, returned to the parking lot, and found that your furry friend has acquired a few (maybe more than a few) hitchhikers? Join the Beaverhead Watershed Committee and the Beaverhead County Weed District to remove houndstongue seed heads to help alleviate this problem! Bring warm clothes and gloves, we'll provide the garbage sacks. The more we bag up, the less seed for next year.

Poindexter Seed Head Removal

•Here's what's happening: Removing and bagging up houndstongue seed heads

•Here's when it starts and ends: 1:00-3:00 pm Friday, April 26th

Jumper Recounts Yellowstone Quake Rescue

By Bob Nicol (Missoula '52)

On Aug. 17, 1959, the most powerful earthquake in Montana's recorded history battered the Madison River Canyon near the town of West Yellowstone. The quake, measuring 7.8 on the Richter scale, triggered the largest landslide ever recorded in North America. An estimated 80 million tons of earth and rock fell from the side of a mountain into the Madison River, forming a dam and creating what is now known as Quake Lake. It's estimated that 28 people were killed.

The initial large shock occurred near midnight, sending waves surging down Hebgen Lake and over the top of Hebgen Dam. A 20-foot wall of water, sloshing as if it were in a giant dishpan, swept down the narrow Madison Canyon. From the dam to the mouth of the canyon, a distance of seven miles, there were three Forest Service campgrounds and a couple of dude ranches. Those facilities were packed with campers, most of who were in bed. About the time the surge reached the canyon mouth, half of a 7600-foot mountain crashed into the river.

Forty years later, on Aug. 18, 1999, the Gallatin National Forest hosted a memorial at the site of the disaster where many of the survivors, their families and other participants gathered to remember. Eight smokejumpers from the Missoula base, including Al Hammond (MSO-46)1 and I, were among the many involved in the rescue effort who attended the memorial event.

I was called out to the Aerial Fire Depot in the early morning of that day 40 years ago, assuming it was going to be for a fire mission, but the base was gearing up for a rescue. The plan was to load the airplane with emergency medical technicians, but since most jumpers were out on fires, all available overhead were suited up, and the remainder of the load was filled from the jump list

. In the meantime, we were hearing rumors about an earthquake, a landslide, a flood and a dam break. Nobody really seemed to know what was going on, as usual. We loaded up on the DC-2 with Cookie Calloway as the pilot, Joe Roemer (MSO-52) and Randy Hurst (MSO-54) as spotters. The jumpers were Al Hammond, foreman in charge, Roland "Andy" Andersen (GAC52), Jim Burleigh (MSO-58), Lowell Hanson (MSO-58), Bill McLaughlin (MSO-58), Pat Scheid (MSO-58), Dick Tracy (MSO-53) and me. We figured that the West Yellowstone jumpers would be going also but it turned out their airplane was broke or gone or something.

When we flew into Madison canyon from the west it looked like half the mountain on the south side of the canyon had been cut in half and dumped into the river. We could see that a portion of the highway was under the slide and that there were lots of vehicles and people trapped between there and Hebgen lake, a few miles upstream. Several dust plumes were coming off the main slide, which turned out to be mini-landslides caused by aftershocks

We made a couple of passes up and down the canyon trying to sort things out, then we got word that the Hebgen Dam had been cracked and could break at any time. Hammond said we'd better get those people to higher ground as quickly as possible. Survivors had laid out a white SOS near the dam. Near it was a bunch of people, and another large group was about halfway down the canyon at a place now known as Refuge Point.

We decided to split the load. Al and three guys jumped by the dam and then Andersen and the rest of us took the lower spot. The air was kind of rough and it had started to rain. I was holding into the wind but was going downhill and backward a lot faster than I wanted to. There was some real impressive parachute landing falls made right among the rescued that day. As I was thrashing around trying to get myself untangled several folks ran up and asked if I was OK. It seemed a little ironic somehow.

We found a lot of hurt people and a few fatalities. Others were missing. There was a lot of confusion too, but folks were helping each other as best they could and had mostly done what could be done at that point. We did a little first aid work while trying to get everybody to move up the hill. That was the hard part. They just didn't want to leave their vehicles, their tents or any belongings down by the river. We got most of them moved up a ways but not near far enough as far as I was concerned. Turned out they were right. The dam was cracked sure enough, but it never did break.

As I said, it was raining a little, and a couple of ladies asked "Big Andy" if they could use his parachute for a tent. He couldn't refuse, of course but was not too happy when later he saw that they had cut off all the lines right at the skirt.

It seemed like the air in that canyon was full of little airplanes, mostly news media and sightseers, I suppose. There was probably some officialdom up there but they had no radio contact or control of any kind. Cookie, the DC-2 pilot, told me later that trying to drop our cargo in that sort of deal was something he didn't want to do ever again.

About noon, helicopters started coming in bringing some real medical types and the law. They started moving injured people out and things started to settle down. Later in the day they got the road open. The jumpers started working along the river and the rapidly rising Quake Lake searching for survivors and victims. We looked in vehicles, campers and trailers and took the license plates off everything that was or would be under water. There are probably a lot of once-new rigs that are under the surface of that lake today. We continued searching until later the following day when most of us were demobbed back to Missoula. Al Hammond stayed on to help explain things to the fact-finding officials.

Many changes have been made in Madison Canyon since the quake, including a new highway above the new lake, lots of roadside markers referring to the event and a visitors' center right on top of the landslide.

The commemorative program began with people gathering in a meadow near Refuge Point. Shortly thereafter the West Yellowstone Twin Otter showed up and dropped Greg Anderson and eight of his folks on a proficiency jump. Everybody got right into the spot and was soon mixing with the crowd answering the usual questions. It turned into a nice show-and- tell thing. From there, everybody moved up to a viewpoint above the visitors' center where a local pastor delivered a service reciting the names of each person who had died there, many of whom were entombed in the landslide below.

The folks on the Gallatin Forest and volunteers at the visitors' center did a great job of putting the memorial together and contacting

Beaverhead County High School
- Mill Levy Information

The General Fund budget is used to finance all instruction, administration, facility maintenance, technology, salaries, extracurricular activities, and all other operational costs of the district. Budget levels are calculated based on state entitlements driven by enrollment. Beaverhead County High School has been having declining enrollment for the last few years. Since state money is figured on the enrollment, that portion from the state has declined also. However; even though enrollments have dropped the operational costs of the District continues to increase each year.

So, to have our highest budget that will keep us about where we are this year, we need to go to the taxpayers for a levy of $34,221.54. This is approximately 1.73 mills and will increase the taxes on a home with a market value of $100,000 by approximately $2.34 and on a home with a market value of $200,000 by approximately $4.67. This total amount is an increase per year, not monthly!!

If the levy fails, the FY2020 budget will be $30,162.78 less than this year's budget and cuts will have to be made.

 It is critical for the taxpayers to understand that the Bond Election money can only be used for the building project as was designated. This cannot be used for General Fund expenditures.

Bible Truth...About Jesus Christ being God

[Statement of belief: the Bible alone is the source of truth and all beliefs in conflict with the Bible are false.]

All religions within the realm of "Christianity" believe that Jesus Christ existed. There are a variety of beliefs however, regarding who He really was, what He did and who He is now. The aim of this study is to present questions about the Christ and provide Biblical answers to each question. We challenge the reader to look up each reference not quoted to verify its truth.

Question #1 – Has Jesus Christ ever been...is He now...or will He ever be God?

Answer – The following scriptures reveal that Jesus Christ has always been and always will be God.

~ Colossians 1:12-19 speaks of Christ as the image of the invisible God and as the creator who is before all things and for whom all things consist. Colossians 2:9 states, "...in him dwells all the fullness of the Godhead bodily [in bodily form]."

~ John 1:1-3 says that the Word [Christ] was in the beginning with God, that He was God, and that all things were made by Him. John 1:14 reveals that "The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us...."

From these scriptures we see that Christ was the Word and that the Word was God. The obvious conclusion is that Jesus Christ was God manifest in the flesh.

~ 1 Timothy 3:16 confirms this Bible truth by stating "...great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh, justified in the Spirit, seen of angels, preached to the Gentiles, believed on in the world, received up into glory."

~ John 20:28 proves that Jesus Christ is God by the usage of the expression "Lord God" which is translated from the Greek words "Kurios Theos". When Thomas saw Jesus he said, "My Lord and my God".

~ John 14:9 quotes Jesus statement "...he that has seen me has seen the Father."

~ Philippians 2:6-8, states that Christ was in the form of God and equal with God, but took the form of man and became obedient to the death on the cross. In doing so He provided eternal life to all who believe on Him (see John 3:16-18).

Next: Was Christ's blood shed to cleanse mankind from sin?

ESTABLISHING A PHARMACY

Southwest Montana Community Health Center

Keeping your whole family healthy

In response to the overwhelming need from the Dillon community, Southwest Montana Community Health Center is moving forward in establishing a pharmacy in the old Mitchell Drug building at 125 E. Glendale.

"We are very excited for the opportunity to expand our retail pharmacy" services into the Dillon Community. Our staff is dedicated to providing personalized service at an affordable price, as we have in our communities for nearly 20 years," said Tammy Cox, director of pharmacy services for the SWMTCHC.

The pharmacy is expected to open in summer 2019, following a remodel of the building.

In the meantime, CHC pharmacies in Sheridan and Butte are available to assist with medication needs. Call Mac's CHC Pharmacy at (406) 842-7434 or Butte CHC Pharmacy at (406) 496-6001 to discuss options to obtain your prescriptions.

If you need a medical provider, now is the time to establish at our clinic by calling (406) 683-4440 for an appointment.
