2019-20 Concert Series

Dillon Concert Association's 2019-20 concert series will ignite imaginations. The live performances begin at 7:30 p.m. at UM-Western Beier Auditorium.

The music of John Denver is a tribute show starring Jim Curry. His natural looks and voice are simply a pleasant coincidence that capture the true essence of John Denver's music. With heartfelt delivery, multi-platinum hits like "Rocky Mountain High," "Annie's song," and "Calypso" will fill the auditorium on Tuesday, October 15, 2019.

With an extraordinarily broad vocal range and natural fluency in many musical styles, countertenor Terry Barber will take the stage Thursday, November 14, 2019. "Around the World in 80 Minutes" features favorite melodies both classical and popular. "Besame Mucho," "Danny Boy," "Bridge Over Troubled Water," and a medley of Andrew Lloyd Webber hits are likely to be heard.

Juilliard trained violinist Timothy Chooi will share a program of beloved works such as Rachmaninoff's "Vocalise," Fritz Kreisler's "Liebeslied," Aram Khachaturian's famous "Sabre Dance" and John William's theme from the movie Schindler's List. Mark your calendars for Thursday, February 20, 2020.

CANCER PATIENT COULD USE OUR HELP

My husband Bill DuRose was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer. At this time we live on his disability. The hospital at which he will be receiving treatment is over 2 hours away from home. We cannot afford the traveling expenses for gas, hotel, medical bills, etc.

Anything that can be donated in order to help us get to where he need to would be greatly appreciated.

Bill is a US Army Veteran and police officer. Bill is kind, generous and selfless man. He has always done everything he can for others around him.

Please, whatever can be done to help get the treatment for him lets help. A fund has been set up at The Bank of Commerce under William DuRose Cancer Fund.

Elk Migration Researcher Named RMEF Conservationist of the Year

The Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation is proud to announce that Dr. Matt Kauffman is the recipient of its Conservationist of the Year Award for 2018.

Kauffman is the lead scientist of the Wyoming Migration Initiative, a University of Wyoming-based collaborative of biologists, mapmakers, artists, photographers and writers working to research ungulate migration and share that information with the public.

"Perhaps no one has done more to further the scientific understanding of elk migration than Dr. Kauffman," said Blake Henning, RMEF chief conservation officer. "His past and continuing research shines a light on landscape-wide wildlife movements not previously captured or recorded in such a comprehensive manner."

RMEF's support of the Wyoming Migration Initiative dates back to 2006 when it worked with the Wyoming Game and Fish Department to provide funding for research that eventually led to the initiative.

Since 2013, RMEF provided more than $243,000 on 14 projects while formally working alongside Kauffman. Key accomplishments include the Atlas of Wildlife Migration, Wyoming Ungulates, Elk Migrations of the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem, Invisible Boundaries: Exploring Yellowstone's Great Animal Migrations, Migration Assessment of elk herds in various parts of Wyoming and other tools that allow researchers and the public to view and understand migrations.

"The 2018 Secretarial Order 3362 focusing on conservation and big game migration corridors can in no small part be traced back to the Wyoming Migration Initiative and its ground-breaking work. Wyoming is known to have the best migration data of any of the western states," added Henning.

Currently an assistant professor at the University of Wyoming, Kauffman leads the Wyoming Cooperative Fish and Wildlife Research Unit where he and his team of graduate students carry out a wide range of research on elk, moose, wolves, deer and bighorn sheep.

Kauffman grew up in rural southern Oregon, the son of a horse logger and an elementary schoolteacher. He has an undergraduate degree in Biology from the University of Oregon and a Ph.D. in Environmental Studies from the University of California, Santa Cruz.

Kauffman will receive the award at the upcoming RMEF Elk Camp, presented by YETI, on July 11.

Dillon BLM releases East Bench watershed assessment for public comment

After analyzing natural resource conditions on some of its public lands in Madison County, the Bureau of Land Management's Dillon Field Office has released the East Bench Watershed Environmental Assessment for public comment.

The East Bench watershed is mostly located in Madison County, with a small portion in Beaverhead County. The watershed covers 32,905 acres of BLM-administered land in 17 grazing allotments. There are 6,974 acres within the watershed that are un-allotted.

The assessment reports on the predicted social and environmental effects associated with up to three management alternatives for resource management on BLM lands in the watershed. After reviewing the EA and considering public comment, the Dillon Field Manager will select one, or a combination of alternatives, for implementation.

The EA is available online at the Bureau's ePlanning webpage at <https://go.usa.gov/xmsMA>

Copies of the EA are also available at the field office at 1005 Selway Drive in Dillon.

The comment period for this EA is open until July 11. Written comments should be submitted to the Dillon Field Office, or by email at MT_Dillon_FO@blm.gov. Before including your address, phone number, e-mail address, or other personal identifying information in your comment, you should be aware that your entire comment—including your personal identifying information—may be made publicly available at any time. While you can ask us in your comment to withhold your personal identifying information from public review, we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so.

For more information about the proposed management alternatives, contact Emily Guiberson or Pat Fosse at the email address above or by calling the Dillon Field Office at (406) 683-8000.
