Celebrate the Past at Bannack Days -July 20 & 21, 2019-

Celebrate the past as the old west comes alive at Bannack Days at Bannack State Park on Saturday, July 20 from 9am to 5pm and Sunday, July 20 from 9am to 4pm.

Take in demonstrations of traditional handicrafts, walk up Hangman's Gulch to learn about buffalo guns, the Infantry, and experience an 1860s gold camp. Try your luck at gold panning, hand-dip your own souvenir candle, or watch the blacksmith forge an incredible work of art from a flat piece of iron. Horse drawn wagon rides will be available throughout the day or if you prefer more modern transportation there is a Model AA truck motoring around the town.

Be sure to watch your step! Bannack has been known to have a few ruffians about. It is not uncommon for a gunfight to break out on main street or for people to be shouting from the hotel porch about one cause or another...imagine women wanting to vote. Throughout both days there will be music in the air; bluegrass, barbershop, gospel, and fiddlers to mention a few. Swing your partner on the green Sunday afternoon or step in time with the strolling musicians.

Special event admission to Bannack is $5 per person; children 8 and under are free. For a full schedule of events visit: http://stateparks.mt.gov/bannack/

The re-enactments and crowds can be loud and scary for pets. Please leave your pets at home during this busy weekend. Parking is limited, so carpooling is encouraged. For more information, please call the park office at (406) 834-3413.

When: Saturday, July 20, 2019 from 9am to 5pm; Sunday, July 21, 2019 from 9am to 4pm
Where: Bannack State Park, 721 Bannack Rd, Dillon, MT
http://stateparks.mt.gov/bannack/
Cost: $5 per person; children 8 and under are free

Bannack State Park, located near Dillon, MT., is a National Historic Landmark and the site of Montana's first major gold discovery on July 28, 1862. This strike set off a massive gold rush that swelled Bannack's population to over 3,000 by 1863. As the value of gold steadily dwindled, Bannack's bustling population was slowly lost. Today, over 50 original buildings line Main Street and their historic log and frame structures recall Montana's formative years.

Visit Montana State Parks (stateparks.mt.gov) and enjoy camping, hiking, fishing, swimming, boating and more and discover some of the greatest natural and cultural treasures on earth.

of the way small town newspapers help communities face hard facts, the novel explores the ways in which the past haunts the present. As the novel's protagonist, historian AJ Armstrong, searches for an elusive birth mother who refuses to reveal her secrets, she also chases a complex historical question: Did the notorious Sheriff Henry Plummer deserve his death at the hands of the Vigilantes in what is now the ghost town of Bannack?

"It might seem strange that a novel that won the Utah Original Writing Competition's manuscript contest is making its debut in Dillon, not Salt Lake City," Clark Simon notes, adding that the literary contest, which began in 1958, has been known for offering $1000 prizes to encourage state writers to seek publication. "However, as soon as Chris Cauble of Riverbend accepted the manuscript, I began hoping that Deb Sporich would agree to make The Bookstore the site of my very first signing event."

According to Debbie from The Bookstore "Ghost Town Preservation Society" is the perfect book to celebrate its debut in Dillon. Not only is the landscape familiar but you will recognize a character or two. We are excited to be hosting Julie.

Although Clark Simon moved away from Dillon in 1983, she and her husband, Duane, returned almost every summer to visit family. In a way, Clark Simon says, writing the novel was a way to visit Dillon during the years she moved from journalism to a 25-year academic career teaching writing and directing the writing center at Southern Utah University.

"Some places always seem to remain your home no matter how many years and miles separate you from them," Clark Simon says. And although the town in the novel is the fictional Misfire, not Dillon, and the county is Elephant Rock, local readers may recognize places that they themselves hold close to heart. Readers may also recognize some of the short ghost stories scattered between the chapters to, as Clark Simon explains "give voices from the past the chance to again whisper."

Community Mental Health Service Award

The Beaverhead County Mental Health Local Advisory Council announces its annual search for a nominee to receive the Community Mental Health Service award, in memory of former LAC member Howard Gaines.

The award is presented to an individual who demonstrates leadership in advocating for vulnerable individuals in our area, contributes to the behavioral/mental health field, and/or is committed to collaboration at the community, county, or state level in order to support improved mental health and wellness, according to LAC board member Katherine Buckley-Patton.

The award is presented at the annual Big Sky Behavioral Health Summit set for October 3-4, 2019 on the University of Montana Western campus. Prior recipients include Julie Ingram, and former LAC chairperson, Lynn Weltzien, as well as a number of other nominees.

The Beaverhead LAC is a cross section of mental health consumers, activists, and professionals committed to promoting and strengthening integrative behavioral health services. The LAC, its' members, and collaborators take a leadership role in raising awareness of the impact of adverse childhood experiences on early brain development, provide resilience focused trainings, created the Resource Assistance Center, and are strong advocates for Beaverhead County during the legislative session and on a number of state and regional boards.

Per Buckley-Patton, "This community service award brings visibility not just to the honored person for their significant contribution, but also highlights the importance of this work." She asks those interested in nominating someone to include a summary of how the individual has contributed to the county's behavioral/mental health through leadership, advocacy and support, implementing programs, collaboration, and/or overall contribution to the behavioral/mental health field in general.

Nominations are accepted through Friday, August 16th. Provide submissions to Katherine Buckley-Patton by email at: gaelicgrannie@gmail.com or regular mail at 830 E Parkview Ct, Dillon, 59725. Contact her at: 406.660.1637 for more information.

Montana Challenges Washington Law Targeting Bakken Oil Shipments

Attorney General Tim Fox announced today that Montana and North Dakota petitioned the U.S. Department of Transportation's Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration seeking to overturn a new Washington state law that that effectively prohibits Bakken crude oil.

The petition argues that Washington's new law is preempted by the federal Hazardous Materials Transportation Act (HMT). The HMTA authorized the U.S. Department of Transportation to establish a uniform set of national regulations for the safe transport of hazardous materials. Congress included specific language in the HMTA to prevent a patchwork of state and local regulations regarding the transportation of hazardous materials.

"Once again, a coastal state is trying to dictate what commodities other states can transport to market," Attorney General Fox said. "Under a law passed by Congress and signed by the president, the U.S. Department of Transportation has established a rigorous and uniform set of regulations for the safe transport of materials such as crude oil. Washington state politicians want to pretend those standards are insufficient as a pretext for their anti-oil agenda."

Earlier this year, Washington state enacted a new law that prohibits the loading and unloading crude oil by rail unless the oil has a vapor pressure of less than nine pounds per square inch, which is significantly lower than accepted national standards. Bakken crude oil from Montana and North Dakota tends to have a higher vapor pressure. Washington's new standard would make it uneconomical for Bakken crude to be unloaded at Washington state refineries.

In 2018, the Bakken region of Montana produced 18 million barrels of crude oil. Since 2009, the region in Montana has produced an annual average of 22.7 million barrels of crude. Bakken crude is transported by rail to several refineries in Washington state, which is why the new law would have a severe impact on Montana.

CLOSE CALL - WIND EVENT

By "Swede" Troedsson

In the winter of 1960-61, I and two other Foresters, were employed by the Northern Pacific Railroad (NP). We were designating timber to be harvested in a thick stand of large spruce trees on NP bottom land in the Swan River drainage, MT.

While we were working, we were hit with a violent wind event which started tipping over large shallow rooted huge spruce trees located all around us. We were terrified, and crawled under a large downed tree to avoid the carnage. The event lasted several minutes, then moved on. We anticipated that the road into the area would be blocked with downed trees. It would be a long walk out.

When we got to our truck, and started down the road, no trees had fallen across the road. What luck!
