Jacobsen Notches 10th Career RMEF World Elk Calling Championship

Corey Jacobsen won his tenth career individual title at the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation's 2019 World Elk Calling Championships, presented by Sportsman's Warehouse.

The bracketed, head-to-head event doled out more than $43,000 in cash and hunting gear prizes to contestants across six divisions from two different countries.

Jacobsen of Donnelly, Idaho, edged runner-up Beau Brooks from La Center, Washington, in an extremely tight 4-3 judge's decision in the championship of the professional division.

"I love the head-to-head format because it gives me the chance to go one-on-one with someone else and it was amazing. There's a lot of nerves and stress with that," said Jacobsen. "Just to go head-to-head with somebody like Beau, who is a phenomenal caller, is pretty awesome."

Jacobsen made his first World Elk Calling Championships appearance at the age of 14. He won the adult division in 1995 and the men's division in 1998. He went on to top the professional in 1999, 2003, 2011, 2014, 2015 and 2018. In 2013, he won the Champion of the Champions Invitational, a competition between the champions over the event's first 25 years.

2019 RMEF World Elk Calling Championships winners:

Professional Division

1. Corey Jacobsen - Donnelly, Idaho
2. Beau Brooks - La Center, Washington
3. Josh Fields - Columbia Falls, Montana
4. Brad Hunt - Middleton, Idaho

BANNACK MUSIC AND DANCING
 Bannack State Park will host an evening of music and dancing in its group use shelter on Saturday, August 3rd at 7:00 pm. Music will be provided by Wally Congdon's group "The Best of Bannack" as well as singer-songwriter Nik Spear. Wally and his friends have been performing at Bannack for 30 years and Nik Spear has written and performed music that has been featured on television's A&E and Lifetime networks. With two great acts providing music for the night, this year's barn dance is sure to be memorable.
 Bring a partner and your dancing shoes and come prepared to get up and move to some great music! Light refreshments will be served during the event.

Public Access Improved to Contentious Crazy Mountains

Those who enjoy hunting, hiking and other forms of recreation will soon have better access to Montana's Crazy Mountains thanks to a joint effort by the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, U.S. Forest Service, Crazy Mountain Stockgrowers Association and other partners.

The organizations are part of the Crazy Mountain Working Group which is made up of landowners, nongovernmental groups, agencies and other members working together over several years to try to resolve long-standing disputes and facilitate public access.

Work is scheduled to begin this summer to construct a nearly 3-mile long segment of a planned 12-mile trail to improve access for non-motorized travel including foot, stock and bicycle traffic on the west side of the Crazy Mountains.

The area has been subject to long-term, divisive access disputes including a pending lawsuit.

"Securing access in and around the Crazies has been complicated and challenging for a long, long time," said Blake Henning, RMEF chief conservation officer. "We are grateful for landowners, agency partners and others who are working collaboratively to make this new access venture possible."

When completed, the final trail known as the Porcupine-Ibex Trail will connect two Forest Service rental cabins located at existing legal trailheads. Specifically, the first segment of the project will connect the Porcupine Cabin Trailhead to the North Fork Elk Creek Trail. The majority of the work takes place on public land with right-of-way easements granted by private landowners where needed.

The Crazy Mountains are approximately 100 miles north of Yellowstone Park. They rise above the grassland plains to greater than 11,000 feet in elevation in south-central Montana. The island mountain range includes land managed by the Gallatin and Lewis and Clark National Forests checkerboarded with privately-owned land but is completely surrounded by private land making public access extremely difficult.

"Sitting down with stakeholders of differing interests and respectfully discussing challenging issues to find longstanding, reasonable solutions strengthens our communities. This is what the Crazy Mountain Working Group is cultivating," said Stacy Donald, Crazy Mountain Stockgrowers Association vice president and a member of the Crazy Mountain Working Group.

"RMEF remains committed to working with all parties in finding solutions to complex on-the-ground access issues. Creating and improving public access lies at the heart of our mission," added Henning.

CLOSE CALL - FROZEN MALONES

By "Swede" Troedsson

In the winter of 1960-61, while employed as a Forester for the Northern Pacific Railroad (NP), I, along with three other men, were tasked with designating timber to be harvested on NP land adjacent to the Swan River, in Montana.

When we left our rental cabin one morning, the temperature was around zero. Our plan was to access the area by crossing the ice on the Swan River. This was the easiest way in because a road had not yet been constructed into the proposed timber sale area, which lay on the other side of the river.

We were almost across the ice, when I broke through. I was in water about chest deep. When I pulled myself out of the water, the cold air hit me, and froze my heavy wool Malone trousers board stiff. My 140 lb body was beset by uncontrolled shivering.

I was lucky that I didn't fall through the ice in the middle of the river where the strong under current could have pulled me under the ice. We figured that where I fell through the ice may have been weakened by an underground spring.

We all quickly went ashore and built a huge warming fire in order to warm me and dry out my clothing and boots.

After warming up and drying out, we completed our assignment. With some apprehension, I suspect, we hustled back across the ice and returned to our vehicle.

Faded hunting and fishing licenses can be replaced for free at FWP offices

Hunters and anglers with licenses that are displaying faded text making them difficult to read can have those licenses replaced at no cost at their regional Fish, Wildlife & Parks office. Another option is to go to fwp.mt.gov, login to MyFWP and request a digital version of your license to print at home or download to a smart phone. Digital licenses are good for everything but a carcass tag.

Replacement at an FWP office for faded licenses do not count against the number of replacements an individual is allowed. Local license providers are unable to offer free replacements; the cost is $5 for each license replaced.

Montana Western Offers Study Abroad Opportunity in Europe

The University of Montana Western invites students and community members to explore the culture and history within Central Europe by visiting Germany, Poland and the Czech Republic Sept. 26 through Oct. 8, 2020.

Trace the escape route of Checkpoint Charlie and witness the sobering sight of Auschwitz and Birkenau while experiencing Jewish museums that commemorate the memory of millions.

The study abroad journey will end in Prague, known for its role in the Velvet Revolution and incredible landmarks, from the St. Vitus Cathedral to the Prague Castle.

Experience One, the block scheduling program offered at Montana Western, allows students to focus on one course at a time. This approach to learning compliments study abroad opportunities with immersive, real world experiences.

For more information about this unique opportunity, please contact John Xanthopoulos at 406-660 0558 or john.xanthopoulos@umwestern.edu, or Bill Janus at 406-683-7019 or bill.janus@umwestern.edu.

FOOTBALL BOOKS

The Dillon Soroptimist are again selling football books for Sunday, Monday and Thursday night games. The books are $10 each and for each game there will be a $25 winner throughout the season. Books are available from Soroptimist members, or you pick one up at Womack's Printing or Stockman Bank.

FRONTIER FOOTBALL COACHES PICK PRESEASON FAVORITES

College of Idaho is the preseason favorite to win the 2019 Frontier Conference football championship in a poll of the league's coaches.

College of Idaho, in just their sixth year as a program after a 37-year hiatus, received five first place votes. Southern Oregon received two first place votes and is the coaches' pick to finish second. Montana Western received the final first place vote and is picked to finish third. Montana Tech is fourth followed by defending conference champion Rocky Mountain College, Eastern Oregon, Carroll College and MSU-Northern.

In this year's poll, one ballot gave both Eastern Oregon and Montana Western a third place vote. The points for third and fourth were added together, divided by two with each receiving half of the total.

Coaches were not allowed to vote for their own teams. First place was worth seven points, second place worth six points, third place worth five points, fourth place worth four points, fifth place worth three points, sixth place worth two points and seventh place worth one point.

College of Idaho (5) 44 points
Southern Oregon (2) 40 points
Montana Western (1) 31.5 points
Montana Tech 30 points
Rocky Mountain 29 points
Eastern Oregon 28.5 points
Carroll College 13 points
MSU-Northern 8 points

Join us at the Patagonia Outlet for an evening of running. We'll start with a 1 mile fun run (kid friendly!) followed by three short films, tasty snacks and adult beverages. Can't join us for the run? You're still welcome to join us for the film night! Just like running, it's all free.

The Wolfpack

The story of a family raised in the wild with running as their tool for experiencing life together.

Eli

The tale of a rancher on a remote corner of the Navajo Nation, who learned through years of work to rely on discipline and endurance, and then applied those hard-earned skills to ultrarunning.

The Last Darkness

A pair of runners attempt to run the last 170 miles of the new Oregon Desert Trail through the remote Owyhee Canyons over four days.
