Gloria Winona Mantha (née Kingrey)

Gloria Winona Mantha (née Kingrey) died peacefully at Barrett Memorial Hospital following a brief struggle with cancer, on August 10, 2019, in Dillon, Montana, at the age of 83.

Gloria is survived by her children: Clifford Neil (Deborah) Mantha of Dillon; Leta Ilene Mantha Brown of Missoula; and Bruce Earl Mantha of Sheridan; grandchildren: Rhian (Jenny) Mantha; Jordan (Shanon) Mantha; Trevor (Amanda Fries) Brown; Megan Brown; David (Becky) Mantha; Olivia Mantha; Alina Mantha; and Colin (Rachel) Mantha; great-grandchildren: Anne Mantha; Hunter Mantha; and Daniel Mantha; brother Edwin Kingrey; and sisters Ethel and Fay. Gloria is preceded in death by her husband Paul Warren Mantha, son Timothy Joe Mantha, as well as three brothers and three sisters.

Gloria was born the seventh of nine children on August 13, 1935, to Edward and Anna Kingrey. She was delivered in the home of her grandmother, Jane Talbott of Twin Bridges, who acted as midwife. From the age of three years, Gloria was raised by her grandparents, Bert and Jane Talbott. She attended school, graduating from Twin Bridges High School in 1953. She married Paul on February 4, 1955, at Christ's Episcopal Church in Sheridan, Montana. After living in Twin Bridges, Dillon, and Wenatchee, WA, Paul and Gloria finally settled in Sheridan, where they had been married.

Gloria grew up to be an accomplished seamstress, creating wardrobes, prom dresses, wedding ensembles, and tailoring clothes for family and friends. For many years, she sewed for RL Winston Rod Co. of Twin Bridges. Gloria worked for Ruby Valley Hospital for 35 years doing a variety of jobs and holding several positions, including X-ray Technician and Surgical Aide. On the side, she house-sat and took care of many beloved pets throughout Madison County, extending this business through retirement.

Gloria was loving and kind, humble and non-judgemental, caring and giving, Gloria was very industrious with a servant's heart and she was always available to help those in any kind of need in the community, including friends of the 4-legged kind. She was so quick to think of something other than herself. Gloria was a silent, but mighty, gift to humanity. Her memory will continue to live on in many hearts and minds. She will be missed.

A memorial service is scheduled for Saturday, September 7th at the Twin Bridges High School multi-purpose room, with a reception to follow. All are welcome to attend and celebrate Gloria's life. In lieu of flowers, please send donations to Camp Mak-A-Dream at www.campdream.org.

Social Media? More Like Anti-Social Media

Tom Purcell

'Ah, yes, you speak of a recent Pew Research Center survey that found '46% of adult social media users say they feel 'worn out by political posts and discussions they see on social media' - a share that 'has risen 9 percentage points since the summer of 2016, when the Center last asked this question."

'I sure am worn out. Half of my online friends hate one political party, half of them hate the other. Personally, I've come to dislike both parties!'

'It's becoming regrettably unusual for anyone to have online friends who hold differing views, which is an awful shame.'

'You want shame? Post anything, positive or negative, about President Trump or Bernie Sanders and see what happens. Whatever happened to decorum?'

'It's being replaced by growing intolerance of differing viewpoints. The Aspen Institute explains why: Our technologies make us more connected to each other than at any time in history. We learn news as it breaks and can instantly message thousands of people at once.'

'Like what I had for breakfast? Even our grub has become divisive! A little hint: Don't share your love of bacon online unless your safe house is ready!'

'Aspen rightly points out that our incredible new tools should help us build bridges and discuss new, different ideas with new people everywhere to strengthen and improve our social fabric, but the reverse is happening. These tools are encouraging us to connect with like-minded people and 'unfriend' everyone else.'

'Maybe so, but there are exceptions. I 'friended' a group of fellow beer lovers on Facebook. We get together every Friday to share homemade brews. Half are Republicans and half are Democrats, but we never argue.'

'Never?'

'Not when you burp as often as we do!'

'The Pew survey has findings across major demographic groups. It says white social media users (52%) are grumpier about political posts than nonwhite users (36%).'

'I'd try to say something witty here, but half of my friends would hate it, half would like it, and I'd have to go incognito to reach my safe house.'

'Further, says Pew, 'Republicans and Republican-leaning independents are somewhat more likely than Democrats and Democratic leaners to say they are worn out by the political posts they encounter on social media (51% vs. 43%).'

'I'd try to say something witty here, too, but I'd have to go incognito to reach my safe house.'

'A key takeaway from the survey is that all social media users are 'more likely today than in the past to describe the political discourse on these platforms in negative terms."

'Thank goodness some people still have a sense of humor online. Like whoever did that post with an elderly gentleman in a chair who says, 'Life is short. Make sure you spend it arguing politics with strangers on the internet."

'That's funny! Look, most reasonable people agree we are misusing our technologies, making us more tribal and insular, not less. That's why our discourse has reached a fever pitch. But we need reason and clear-headed discussions to address growing challenges. Otherwise, we will continue to shred the fabric of our civilization. We must do better.'

'You're right. But everybody else is going to have to brew more beer. No way can our little group brew enough to bring the whole internet together!'
