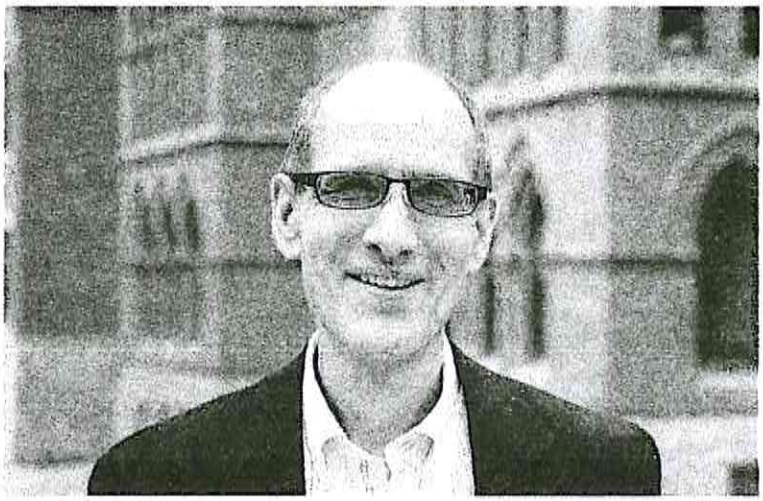
UMW Professor to Participate in Global Symposium

Business Professor Christian Gilde will take part in the 2019 Salzburg Global Seminar from September 20-24.

Christian Gilde



Business Professor Christian Gilde.

The Salzburg Global Seminar is an independent, non-profit organization founded in 1947 which challenges current and future leaders to shape a better world. The program holds multiple events every year aiming to bridge divides, expand collaboration and transform systems.

The Seminar utilizes its worldwide network to bring people together to discuss topics as diverse as healthcare, education, culture, economics, geopolitics and philanthropy. Born just after World War II, the Seminar was started to create a constructive dialogue between America and European nations and has grown globally over the years.

Held throughout the year at Schloss Leopoldskron in Salzburg, Austria, the filming locations for scenes in the famous film "The Sound of Music," the symposium selects attendees for the conference based on their submitted applications and relevancy in their field of study. Montana Western Chancellor Beth Weatherby, a former fellow of the Seminar, recommended the institution to Gilde.

The theme of this year's September seminar is "The Changing Role of the Media in American Life and Culture."

According to the Seminar's website, academics and practitioners will explore how the news and media has developed an increased political role: "In addition to its traditional communications goal of informing and shaping domestic and worldwide understanding, the media has become a more active and significant institutional political part of an increasingly polarized America. What does the future hold?"

The program format includes an intensive four-day session that will feature thematic presentations and panel-led discussions by distinguished speakers and participants, as well as small in-depth discussion groups to maximize interaction with everyone present.

Professor Gilde hopes to bring his expertise in marketing and consumer behavior to contribute insight into how the internet and social media has changed the way we consume news and view politics. This will be Gilde's third time attending the Salzburg Seminar and he is excited for the opportunity once again.

"The Salzburg Global Seminar is a place where minds collide and great things happen. I'm looking forward to the discussions, workshops and camaraderie at this historic and wonderful place," said Gilde.

Letter to the Editor

The Presidents of the United States are very costly to the America taxpayers. Just how much? Here are some expenses but not a complete list.

The White house has 132 rooms, a bowling alley, fitness center, tennis court, swimming pool, movies theater. Just the upkeep is $4 million a year.

The fleet of cars are bullet and bomb proof, weigh as much as a tank and get about 5 miles per gallon.

The President has a guest house, Blair house. 120 rooms with a full time staff of 18.

Air Force One. The cost to fly this airplane is $200,000 an hour to operate.

The White House has its own clinic, exam room, medical equipment and doctor on staff.

Looking back, President George Bush took 1,020 days of vacation, using Air Force One. Bill Clinton took 345 days of vacation, using Air Force One.

Golf Outings! As of now President Trump has played golf 213 days. At the same point in his Presidency Obama played golf 15 times compared to 53 times for President Trump.

Mr. Trump has played mostly on his own golf courses and has charged the American Government for this use of his properties.

President Trump has averaged one monthly political rally, with no agenda, but to support his own ego. The cost, one million dollars for each rally. All of the cities where Mr. Trump appeared had to put on extra police and security. The city of Phoenix billed $450,00 for one day of extra service.

This is just a short list of what tax payers pay for having a President. No matter what you say, the other side says we did not spend as much as the other side!

I'm getting tired of the other side!

Investigation continues into Gravelly Mountains grizzly attacks

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is continuing an investigation following two separate grizzly bear attacks that happened Monday in the western Gravelly Mountains.

Two hunters were injured in an attack that happened in the morning, and another hunter was injured in an attack later that evening less than a mile from the first incident. Survivors of the first attack have been released following medical treatment. The man injured in the second attack is still receiving medical treatment in Butte but is in stable condition.

It's still unclear whether the same bear was involved in both encounters.

The four hunters involved in these incidents had taken steps to educate and prepare themselves for hunting in grizzly country. Hunting with a partner contributed greatly to their survival, both in ending the attacks and in being able to get medical attention. Both parties also had a means of defending themselves, which is important when recreating in bear country.

The first attack happened about 7:30 a.m. when two archery hunters from New Mexico were following elk tracks south of Cottonwood Creek, west of Black Butte. The two men said they were walking single file up a hill when they heard a noise. They both turned to see a bear charging toward them. The bear struck one of the men as he was reaching for his bear spray. The man fell to his hands and knees, then the bear grabbed onto his backpack.

The other man deployed bear spray at the bear. When the spray reached the bear's face, the bear let go of the first hunter and attacked the other hunter. The man continued spraying the bear's face, and the bear eventually let go and left.

The two men were able to walk back to their truck, which was nearby, and drive to Ennis to be treated for their injuries.

The second attack happened about 6:30 p.m. as two archery hunters from Washington were walking north toward Cottonwood Creek. They said they heard a noise and saw a bear charging at them. The bear struck one of the men, who initially fell face-down. During the mauling, the man ended up laying on his back with the bear on top of him. The man's hunting partner shot at the bear with a pistol, and the bear stepped away but did not leave initially.

The bear charged two more times but did not make contact with the hunters again as both hunters fired shots at it until it departed. It's unclear how many shots were fired or whether any of them hit the bear.

The two men were able to leave the area on their own. The injured hunter was treated initially in Sheridan and was later transferred to Butte.

The U.S. Forest Service on Tuesday initiated a closure on Cottonwood Road, which runs through the area where the attacks occurred. Prior to the closure, FWP wardens and Forest Service law enforcement personnel notified other hunters in the area. Both agencies also searched for several hours for a bear in connection with the attacks, but none was located. The investigation will remain active this week despite challenging weather conditions.

Further management action is pending the outcome of the investigation.

Attacks from grizzly bears are most common in surprise close encounters with humans. Bears are especially active during the fall months as they seek protein- and calorie-rich foods in preparation for hibernation. This is also when many hunters are in the field.

FWP reminds all recreationists to be cautious when in bear country. Some recommended practices for avoiding negative encounters with bears include:

- Be prepared and aware of your surroundings.
- Carry and know how to use bear spray.
- Travel in groups whenever possible.
- Stay away from animal carcasses.
- Follow U.S. Forest Service food storage regulations.
- If you encounter a bear, never approach it. Back away slowly and leave the area.

For more information on bear safety, visit fwp.mt.gov/fishAndWildlife/livingWithWildlife/beBearAware.

Grizzly bears are currently listed as threatened under the Endangered Species Act. Management authority for grizzlies rests with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, which works closely with FWP. For more information on grizzly bear management in Montana, visit igbconline.org.

Bible Truth...About "Good News" for man

Statement of belief: "All scripture is given by inspiration of God..." (2 Timothy 3:16-17), thus all beliefs in conflict with the scripture, God's holy word, are false.

In Jeremiah 2:1-13, after God reminds Israel of the things He has done for them in the wilderness, He expresses astonishment because they had rejected Him.

The conduct of men toward the manifestation of God's love today is just as astonishing.

It is astonishing that men reject to gospel of the love of Jesus Christ. This gospel has been preached for over 2000 years to men who are looking for some "good news", yet millions continue to reject the good news that "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believes in him should not perish, but have everlasting life," John 3:16.

I recently wrote about this to a couple I've known for about 35 years. I expressed my concern that I may not see them again in this life. If not, I hoped to see them again the presence of God. I shared John 3:16 with them, stating that I hoped they had accepted the promise given there.

Their response revealed a rejection of God's only plan for getting to heaven. They stated that they were "comfortable" with the lives they lead and the "belief system" upon which they depend, and that I need not be concerned about the "religious beliefs" or "social values" they held.

Several fallacies can be seen in this kind of thinking. Being "comfortable" in a "belief system" will never prepare a person for death. It isn't what we are comfortable with, but what God accepts that will get us into His heavenly kingdom. It isn't a "belief system" that that prepares us for death, but it is the person of Jesus Christ, who is able to do that.

Romans 6:23 states, "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Though these friends are sincere in what they believe, God warns in Proverbs 16:25 that the end of what seems right to man "...are the ways of death."

Sincerity in belief systems or social values outside of what is written in the Bible will lead to eternal condemnation and punishment.
