Iola 'Olie' Else to be Inducted into Montana Cowboy Hall of Fame

The Montana Cowboy Hall of Fame (MCHF) and Western Heritage Center (WHC) have announced the newest inductees into the Montana Cowboy Hall of Fame, including retired Montana Western rodeo coach, Iola 'Olie' Else.

The MCHF and WHC was founded in 2003 by the Montana State Legislature as a nonprofit organization. The goal of the organization is to preserve and pass forward the Montana cowboy way of life, the state's American Indian cultures, and the collective Montana Western Heritage.

Else was born in Salmon, Idaho and grew up in Tendoy where her parents ran the Tendoy Store. She attended school there through sixth grade and then went to Leadore for junior high and high school. Else graduated from Leadore High School in 1969 and went to Western Montana College (now the University of Montana Western) that fall. She competed in barrel racing, breakaway, team roping, and goat tying. She was Homecoming Queen in 1971, runner up for Miss Western in 1971, and Miss Rodeo Idaho in 1973, going on to compete for Miss Rodeo America. She was a member of the Central Board and student government, Spurs (a service organization), a Resident Assistant and manned the college switchboard.

Else has been the faculty advisor for Montana Western Rodeo and started as head coach in 1994. During her tenure as coach, Else cultivated several top notch rodeo competitors including seven National College Finals Champions and one National Finals Rodeo Champion. Rodeo Team members have held positions in national rodeo organizations and have received many awards including the Montana Western Women's Team winning the Big Sky Region five years in a row from 1998-2002, and in 2000 UMW won nine of the 11 individual titles.

The 12th class of inductees were chosen by the MCHF and WHC from a selection of candidates nominated by the general public. Inductees are honored for their "notable contributions to the history and culture of Montana" from each of the 12 districts in the state.

"The Hall of Fame exists to honor those who have made an impact in their part of the state and represent Montana's authentic heritage for future generations," said MCHF & WHC President Bill Galt in a recent press release. "Our volunteer trustees around Montana vote on nominations that come from the district in which they reside. This process gives the local communities a strong voice in who will represent them in the Montana Cowboy Hall of Fame."

The inductees will be honored at the annual Circle the Wagons event in Great Falls, Mont., to be held February 7-8, 2020.

National Forest Surveys Coming Your Way!!

You may soon be asked about your visit to the forest. The Beaverhead-Deerlodge NF is beginning a yearlong study of recreation use on the Forest. Employees conducting the survey will be wearing bright orange vests near a sign that says "Traffic Survey Ahead." These folks are waiting to talk to you, so please pull over for an interview. Employees want to know about your visit to the National Forest. All information you give is confidential and the survey is voluntary.

This survey is conducted every five years on every National Forest in the country. Data collected provides National Forest managers with an estimate of how many people recreate on federal lands and what activities they engage in while there. Other important information gathered includes how satisfied people were with their visit and the facilities, as well as the economic impact of recreation visits on the local economy.

This recreation visitor use survey gathers basic visitor information. All responses are confidential, and no names are recorded. The interview lasts about eight minutes. Every other visitor is asked a few additional questions which may take an additional five minutes. The questions visitors are asked include: where they recreated on the Forest, how many people they traveled with, how long they were on the Forest, what other recreation sites they visited while on the Forest, and how satisfied they were with the facilities and services provided. About a third of the visitors will be asked to complete a confidential survey on recreation spending during their trip.

Although the survey is entirely voluntary, participation is appreciated. Including local residents that use the forest is important to assure that all types of visitors are represented in the survey. If you have any questions about this program visit our web site at www.fs.fed.us/recreation/programs/nvum or call your local Forest Service office.

Fishing closure on upper Big Hole River to be lifted

A fishing closure that includes a 46-mile section of the upper Big Hole River will be lifted due to an increase in stream flows.

The full angling closure, which went into effect on Aug. 31, will be lifted at midnight on the morning of Wednesday, Sept. 25. The closure extended from Saginaw Bridge on Skinner Meadow Road to the North Fork of the Big Hole River.

A qualifying condition for lifting the closure was met recently when water flows exceeded 40 cubic feet per second (CFS) for seven consecutive days.

These closures are in accordance with the Big Hole Watershed Committee Drought Plan, which calls for angling restrictions when water temperatures exceed 73 degrees for three or more consecutive days, or when flows drop below 20 CFS.

Restrictions of this nature are enacted to protect fish species like Arctic grayling, rainbow trout and brown trout, which all become more susceptible to disease and mortality when conditions like low flows and high temperatures combine with additional stressors.

ROAD CLOSURE

There will be a road closure on the South Valley Road on October 1st and 2nd to replace two culverts on Hell Roaring Creek. The closure will be outside of Lakeview a few miles from the Idaho border.

Another hunter survives bear attack in Gravelly Mountains

A man was mauled by a grizzly bear Tuesday while hunting in the western Gravelly Mountains.

The hunter, who was from Ohio, survived the encounter and was treated at the Ruby Valley Medical Center in Sheridan.

Tuesday's attack happened between the Coal Creek Drainage and the Eureka Basin Road, about eight miles south of where three other hunters were injured last week in two separate grizzly bear attacks. The hunter was aware of grizzly bears in the Gravelly Mountains and was prepared to defend himself during an attack.

Wardens with Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks and Madison County Sherriff's deputies interviewed the injured hunter, who said he was walking through blow-down timber when he was attacked by a bear from a very close range. During the incident, the man reportedly fired multiple shots at the bear until it left. The man was able to meet up with other members of his hunting party and get medical attention.

FWP wardens and U.S. Forest Service law enforcement were able to begin their investigation quickly as they were already in the Gravelly Mountains on Tuesday concluding their investigation into the attacks that happened last week. They notified other hunters and campers in the area of the most recent attack and conducted an initial search for a bear in connection with that incident. That search will continue this week.

Further details are still unclear as the investigation remains active. More information will be provided as it becomes available. FWP wardens are requesting that people stay out of the Coal Creek and Twin Springs area while the investigation continues.

Grizzly bears are currently listed as threatened under the Endangered Species Act. As the geographic range of grizzly bears expands in Montana, density within that range is also increasing. Management authority for grizzlies rests with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, which works closely with FWP. As grizzly populations become more dense and widespread, conflicts with humans will likely increase.

Bears are especially active during the fall months as they seek protein- and calorie-rich foods in preparation for hibernation. This is also when many hunters are in the field. Grizzly bear attacks on humans are most common in surprise close encounters.

FWP reminds all recreationists to be cautious when in bear country. Some recommended practices for avoiding negative encounters with bears include:

- Be prepared and aware of your surroundings.
- Carry and know how to use bear spray.
- Travel in groups whenever possible.
- Stay away from animal carcasses.
- Follow U.S. Forest Service food storage regulations.
- If you encounter a bear, stop. Back away slowly and leave the area.

For more information on bear safety, visit fwp.mt.gov/fishAndWildlife/livingWithWildlife/beBearAware. For more information on grizzly bear management in Montana, visit igbconline.org.
