Lively post-show talk-backs follow the performances and workshops in acting and stage combat follow the afternoon show.

FWP concludes field investigation

Wardens with Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks have concluded their field investigation into a surprise grizzly bear encounter that wounded the bear and a hunter Tuesday.

The hunter said he was walking through blow-down timber that morning when he was attacked by a bear at close range. He reportedly fired multiple shots at the bear until it left. The hunter later met up with other members of his hunting party and was treated for his injuries.

FWP wardens began an investigation the same day, with help from U.S. Forest Service law enforcement personnel and Madison County Sheriff's deputies, and notified other hunters and campers in the area. FWP wardens also conducted an extensive ground search on Wednesday. During the investigation, they examined the site of the attack and found some evidence that the bear had been wounded. However, due to minimal evidence and dense forest vegetation, they were unable to locate the bear during the search.

The Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest has posted signs warning visitors of bear activity in the Coal Creek/Twin Springs area. Last week the Forest issued a closure along Cottonwood Road, about eight miles north of Tuesday's incident, as FWP wardens investigated two separate maulings that happened on Sept. 16.

All recreationists should take precautions when entering bear country. Recreating in groups, making casual noise and staying away from animal carcasses can help avoid surprise close encounters with bears. However, recreationists should be prepared to defend themselves in the event of a bear attack. Bear spray provides a simple and affordable means of self-defense that can be effective when used properly. Follow Forest Service food storage regulations. If you see a bear, stop. Never run from a bear. Back away slowly and leave the area.

Management authority for grizzlies rests with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, which works closely with FWP. For more information on bear safety, visit fwp.mt.gov/fishAndWildlife/livingWithWildlife/beBearAware.

Card of Thanks

I would like to thank the Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks for allowing Harvey Frank, an employee, to use the power washer again at the Rest Room at Mountain View Cemetery.

Harvey Frank helped me power wash the rest room, to clean it before Harvey was done for the season, and before the cold weather came.

The rest room is good for the winter.

Thanks again

Hunting Memories

By: Bryce Angell

The first snow of the season always brings back memories of hunters eating flapjacks, topped with bacon, eggs and cheese. They chugged down cups of coffee like there was no end in sight. They'd listen to the guide 'bout where to hunt at first daylight. Hunters are peculiar. Come from different walks of life.

Some are born with silver spoons. Some just a hunting knife. But one thing was for certain. They all shared the same desire.

A trophy elk to brag about while sitting 'round the fire.

Before daylight I'd watch the guide and hunters leave the camp.

I'd cinch the sawbuck saddles, then lead out to cold and damp. I'd usually ride a mile or so then give a little pause.

And wonder would an elk be downed because of what he was. Or would the elk be lucky? Fill the hunter with despair?

Some hunters got buck fever and they shot straight in the air. My father called a bull in only twenty yards away.

But the hunter shot high in a tree. His arrow there to stay.

One year a hunter filled his tag with panniers full of meat. A young horse smelled the kill, bucked off and stomped it with his feet. And later on, the same young horse was standing all alone.

Someone mistook him for an elk, although he was a roan. Most hunters that I've know have shown respect for all the game.

The dissidents who didn't, well, I've pegged a nasty name.

Hunters haven't changed so much since I was young till now.

They always want to shoot a bull. Will settle for a cow.

The first snow brings a wave of hunting memories that I've seen.

When I saw the snow this morning, I went back to seventeen.

"THE ROSE GARDEN"

This is a story about someone who loves animals, Susie Brown and John Brown.

They started taking animals 27 years ago at their home in their garage. She was overwhelmed with too animal and noise in her neighborhood. In 1997 she started a 501-C3 non profit while still in her home. She started making it home for her furry friends.

The Mayor then, George Warner, said we have some City property by the Lagoon "Rose Garden" in 1999.

Les Schwab bought Howard Lumber out - they wanted the building gone. Les Schwab gave Susie the building but she had to move it right away. Mike Johnson, a friend of Susie and her husband John welded, jacked and moved it out. Mike Johnson worked for Barrett Minerals at the time and they donated money to match the cost of the move. That's friendship, she had volunteer vets - neutering etc, donors, and community service help. Gordon Miller said he would do concrete for the building - in exchange for coffee. Dan cypher worked for the City and he did the plumbing, on his time, for coffee.

Before Susie made her home a pet saving home, the city police took unwanted dogs to the dump and shot them - that was all they could do at the time.

Sharon Carrol bought more lumber for adding on to the building, Mike Williams (Lumpy) did the concrete work. Vickie Thorton volunteered forever, Jim Clark did drywall and there was a lot of people that worked some paid, some part time. Vets donated their time also taking care of the animals.

For years, Susie got dogs from Blackfoot, ID and other shelters. The different shelters would trade to get animal breeds that people wanted back and forth to help each other and make it work. She also hauled many tons of dog and cat food from Missoula who got good deals from manufactures, stores, etc and sold it for a good price to here. Mike Johnson took his truck an trailer and Jim Lane and Mike hauled it. Jim paid for gas and food and several other people did it at times for money. When Susie's husband passed away, she used her life insurance to fund all of this. She also took out a loan on her house to help, that's what I would call dedicated.

The articles written in the weekly paper "tar and feathered" her. My grandmother said, if you can't say anything good, don't say it at all.

Jim has also transported Eagles all over for Susie, but there was not much good said about any good deeds.

There is a long history here and two sided to a story. Maybe it should all be told. The shelter needs to stay open and let it "run". There are homeless people and homeless animals, we need to give it more thought. Look at the water park we have because everyone worked together.

My opinion of all of this is someone didn't make the 3rd grade picnic.

"The Jury is Out" - "Salute the Flag"

My taxes are about $3.00 a year for the shelter.

PS - "Rose Garden" - Barnes honey bees did NOT stop the smell.

I think the shelter was given 1/2 mill 13 years ago and it was voted on and changed to 2 mills 5 years ago. We are paying taxes for the museum to be up and running and yet it has closed for the year until next June. Do we get to stop paying those taxes?

Yours truly

Arden Holden

Children's Christmas Store

Dillon's Parent Council would like to remind our community of the renewal of our traditional Children's Christmas Store. We are now accepting donations for this event. The Children's Christmas Store is set up in the Parkview Elementary Cafeteria where children in our community can purchase any item for a dollar. This event is solely based on donations and would not be possible without the help of our wonderful community. If you would like to donate items to the Christmas Store or to make a monetary donation, please contact Courtney Brown (406) 925-1787 or Elaine Spicer at (406) 925-3961.

3D Mammography detects threats like no other

When it comes to breast cancer, early detection is essential. In fact, early detection saves lives.

That's why we are so passionate about our 3D mammography capabilities at Barrett. And while it might be tempting to choose thermography instead of a mammogram, the FDA warns that thermography should be used only as an adjunct to mammography. The American Cancer Society has stated that thermography is not an effective screening tool for finding breast cancer early.

3D mammography has been proven to detect breast cancer sooner and better. With 3D mammography, callbacks are reduced by 40% and detection is improved up to 50%. Trust the experts at Barrett Hospital & HealthCare. We are here for you and your health.

Talk to your provider about scheduling your mammogram at Barrett Hospital & HealthCare, call 406-683-1188.
