EDMONTON

By "Swede" Troedsson

One early spring morning I received a call at my office from the police dispatcher. He said he needed an ambulance driver to transport a gentleman from a local motel to the airport.

Upon arriving at the motel room, I introduced myself to a Canadian couple from Edmonton, AB. The previous evening the husband suffered a coronary. After being examined and stabilized at the hospital, he refused to be admitted.

His wife ordered an airplane down from Calgary so he could be flown home.

When I arrived at the airport, there was a twin-engine aircraft waiting to board the patient. I asked the pilot if an attendant came with the aircraft. He said no. I then inquired if the aircraft was pressurized and if he had oxygen for the patient. He said no. I told the pilot that a big snowstorm was forecast and suspected he would file for a flight above 10,000 feet. I asked him what he would tell the "Queen's Men" (Mounties) if when he arrived in Edmonton the patient was deceased.

The pilot got shook. He told me he was never told what he was flying down for. He wanted to know if he could borrow my oxygen. I asked him what guarantee I had I'd get it back. I could see the pilot was perplexed.

I offered to take annual leave, and volunteered to attend the patient with oxygen if he could get the wife to commit my air fare back home. She consented and gave me $100 to pay my way home.

We departed Dillon, and when we arrived in Edmonton there was an ambulance waiting. After off-loading the patient into the ambulance, I went into the terminal to book a commercial flight to Great Falls. The ticket agent informed me, with Easter weekend coming up, they were completely booked up. In Canada Easter weekend is a big deal. I told her I had to be in Dillon the next evening to help teach an EMT course at our local college. She suggested I go down to the next window and try to book a flight to Lethbridge on Time Air, a local commuter flight service serving six cities hourly with Twin Otters.

The ticket agent for Time Air informed they had room for me and my equipment, and would be boarding in one-half hour. While waiting to board my flight, I looked for the Edmonton location on a huge map of Canada mounted on a terminal wall. I figured Edmonton was way up in Canada, and was looking for it in the upper third of the map. It was located in the LOWER one third of the map. Then it hit me how large Canada is!

I boarded the Twin Otter, and on the way to Lethbridge I explained to the gentleman sitting next to me what brought me to Canada.

Upon arriving in Lethbridge, I attempted to arrange a charter flight to Montana. I was informed that with the big snowstorm forecast, they were not going anywhere. He suggested I try a bus. There was no bus until morning, too late to make my teaching commitment.

The gentleman who sat next to me on the plane could see I was perplexed. He invited me home for dinner, and offered to drive me to the Sweetgrass border station after dinner.

Upon arriving at Sweetgrass, Bernie Jones, brother to Tom Jones, our local insurance agent, walked out of the Customs shack. They had both worked on the Madison Ranger District when I was stationed there. I explained my situation to Bernie, and he said not to worry, he'd get me a ride.

After a ten minute wait, a motor home with three Canadians, heading for Disney Land, arrived. They would be coming right through Dillon! They agreed to let me on board if I would drive so they could party and sleep.

I drove all night in a howling snowstorm, and was back at my desk for the start of my work day. Monida Pass was blown shut, so I let the Canadians park in my back yard and hook up to my power. Monida Pass was opened by late that afternoon.

After filling the oxygen cylinders, I still had $35.00 left over. I sent it to the wife in Edmonton. She mailed it back to me as a donation to our local ski patrol.

Sometime later I got an inquiry from the wife. Her husband had passed away and she was still trying to settle with the Canadian government for her husband's plane fare, and needed to know the name of the charter flight service. I informed her it was Caribou Aviation in Calgary. That's the last I heard from her.

Forest Service Reminds Hunters To Store Food, Attractants and Animal Carcasses Safely

In recent years many public lands in Montana, including the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest, have implemented Food Storage Orders that affect hunting practices and how hunters set up camp. The Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest would like to share some tips for storing food, attractants and carcasses to help hunters develop good habits as bear populations expand.

- Bring your animal carcass home or to the butcher before you finish your hunting trip if you live within driving distance. If you're from out of town, some businesses offer storage for carcasses. There are many butchers, outfitters or other businesses with walk-in freezers can provide space to hunters. Moving the carcass off forest minimizes the chance of encountering an animal feeding on your carcass. Bears feeding on hunter killed elk have led to human injuries.
- Plan for animal carcass storage while camping. Bring storage for the carcass for example, in the form of a truck with topper, enclosed trailer, horse trailer with full doors, or certified bear resistant containers. If you use hang poles, the carcass must hang ten feet high at its lowest point and four feet away from climbable supports and must be 100 yards away from your camp. You may also want to bring pulleys and ropes to help hoist your carcass between trees.
- Borrow bear-resistant containers for FREE from your local Forest Service office. Call ahead to your local Beaverhead-Deerlodge NF office to find out what is available. Also, you can go online to the following web site to find a list of tested and approved bear resistant products: <http://igbconline.org/certified-products-list/>
- Pack a tarp or strong plastic sheet to be able to move your gut pile in case you down your game near a trail or need to leave your carcass overnight. Gut piles are the most attractive to bears and other scavengers. If you use a tarp or plastic sheet to drag the gut pile away from your animal you may avoid finding a bear on your carcass in the morning. You must drag gut piles at least 200 yards from National Forest system trail to help prevent trail users from surprising a bear feeding on it.
- Don't hang or butcher your animal in camp. Blood on the ground is a powerful attractant to bears and other scavengers.
- When retrieving game, leave a member of your party to "attend" the carcass if possible. If not, drag your carcass to an area that is visible from at least 200 yards away to tell if it has been moved, buried or claimed by a bear.
- Take advantage of the permanent food storage boxes and carcass hangs in and near Forest Service campgrounds for your food and other attractants.

• When in doubt, call your local Forest Service office or MT Fish, Wildlife and Parks office. They are happy to help you plan your trip and troubleshoot any attractant storage concerns. Be aware that Montana State Wildlife Management Areas have similar requirements.

Remember that all attractants must be acceptably stored at night and attended or acceptably stored during the day. Carcasses or partial carcasses may only be left on the ground if they are one-half mile away from any sleeping area and 200 yards from any Forest Service system trail.

The Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest instituted a forest-wide order on June 1, 2014 which is in effect from March 1 through December 1 annually. The storage requirements and tips can be viewed online at: <https://go.usa.gov/xRhqr>. For more information contact your local Forest Service office.

Southwest Montana Veterans Home Update #20

By Mike Lawson

Greeting once again to you, the Veterans/Counties/Communities who are the six counties in SW Montana who are represented as the organizers and chief supporters of the "SW MT" Veterans Home.

Our Veteran's Home Site was a beehive of activity this past week because the weather was better.

Cottage #1 saw lots of work, building interior walls as well as completing the exterior walls not completed from the week before. Included in the interior were some steel tube columns which support overhead steel beams. The roof trusses should be on site in a week or so and be ready to be put in place.

Cottage #2 is ready to stand some of its walls that the carpenters have been building on the floor. Mike is hopeful that happens this week.

Cottage #3 is still on the quite-side although Zemljak Excavating was putting in the storm sewer there.

Cottage #4 had a lot of hands working there as they were trying to get it ready for Steed Concrete to pour the floor slab.

Cottage #5 is scheduled for the foundation walls to be poured this week, by Phillips Concrete. A side-note is that Phillips Concrete will also pour the cement pad for the big "Permanent Generator" that is now on site.

The Community Center has been quite also, but as of Thursday, the long awaited "roof trusses" arrived. This is the first building to get a roof and that will be worth celebrating.

The SW MT Veteran's Home Liaison interviews are complete so we should hear who will be hired within the next couple of weeks. This is good news for the veterans and the state.

The "Viewing Hooch" is in the middle of getting insulation and thin plywood over that, as I'm finishing this update on this chilly Sunday. Hopefully before the day's out it'll be finished. Many thanks to Builder's First Source for supplying the material, to Mike Ascherman and Markovich Construction for allowing the veterans to do this and to Butte Silver Bow's Fire Marshall Doherty and Fire Chief Miller for giving us the green light to proceed with this project. We had visitors from Boulder, Mt come and visit while Tom Goyette and I were putting in insulation. They were State Bureau Chief Shaunda Hildebrand and and her husband Dean and their daughter. They were in town and decided to see what this "Viewing Hooch" was all about.

Love in a shoebox reminder...

If you would like to support this project, this is what it involves:

1) Put together a shoe box to send to a child (NOTHING liquid, No food, No Candy, NO chocolate, No toothpaste, No war toys or guns, No breakable items.) or

2) Make a Donation – every donation helps. Shipping costs $9 per box. You can make checks payable to Samaritan's Purse/Shoe box and drop off at Mary Bearden's house.

This is part of a national effort to help children across the country and around the world. Everyone can help: groups, individuals, families, schools, or churches. If you would like to be part of this amazing program and have questions or would like more information, contact Mary Bearden (925-2218 or 683-2037). It would be great to have boxes sooner, but the last day to drop off will be November 18th, 2019. Last minute drop off ok.

Attention Community:

We are recruiting the help of businesses, individuals, and community organizations who would host a game booth or event.

The Beaverhead Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture is proud to present the community Halloween Party Thursday October 31, 2019. With the support from the United Way of Beaverhead County this event is a strong example of the spirit and generosity in our community.

There is no charge for a booth space. We will again let attendants pick a fan favorite from all the booths present. The winner will receive $100 in Chamber Bucks!

For information and to register a booth please call: Candi at 406-683-5511 or email info@beaverheadchamber.org or stop by and pickup a registration form at 10 W. Reeder St.
