Patagonia Outlet
Thursday, November 14th

Mark your calendars - celebrate lentils with us! We're teaming up with David Oien, the founding farmer of Timeless Foods of Ulm, MT and Claudia Krevat - a lentil inspired chef from Bozeman. You'll be treated to Timeless Food's brand new Black Beluga Lentil Beer and lentil filled treats made by Chef Claudia out of Savory Seeds and Green Lentil Soup from the Patagonia Provisions line. After we're full on the lentil goodness, David will tell us about how he started Timeless in 1987 with four farmers who were determined to revolutionize Northern Great Plains farming with a solution for fallow fields by using cover crops to reduce erosion, build soil health, provide natural nitrogen fertilizer, and create a new source of income for Montana farmers.

Treats served at 6:30pm, presentation at 7pm.

This is going to be a good one, we'll see ya here!

FWP investigating human-caused grizzly bear mortalities; bears still active during hunting season

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is investigating a grizzly bear mortality after a hunter reportedly shot the bear in self-defense.

The incident happened Saturday afternoon in Eureka Basin in the south Gravelly Mountains. The hunter, who was uninjured, reported the incident to FWP that day. Further details are unavailable as the investigation is ongoing.

FWP and the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service are also investigating two other human-caused grizzly bear mortalities that happened last week in the West Yellowstone area. The interagency investigation is still ongoing, and details of those incidents will be released as they become available.

Bear activity during fall hunting season

FWP reminds all recreationists that bears are still active, and precautions should still be taken when hunting and recreating in bear country.

Many black and grizzly bears will remain active during Montana's general deer and elk hunting season, which began Oct. 26 and lasts through Dec. 1. Hunters and other recreationists should continue practicing situational awareness and be prepared for a bear encounter.

Grizzly bear distributions have expanded to and become denser in areas in western and central Montana where they haven't been in recent decades. Bears can remain active—even at low elevations—through December, and some grizzlies will even roam around for brief periods anytime during the winter.

The fall hunting season also coincides with when bears are actively seeking protein- and calorie-rich foods in final preparation for hibernation. Certain hunter behaviors can increase the likelihood of encountering bears, such as elk bugling, wearing cover scents, processing animal carcasses and moving quietly in the field.

Most bear attacks on humans happen in surprise close encounters and usually in timber or brush. As bears get closer to denning, they become lethargic and sleep more each day before they finally go to their dens. Sleeping bears can easily be approached at potentially dangerous distances. So be alert to your surroundings.

Hunting safely in bear country

In addition, black bear hunters need to be sure of the species they are hunting. Black bear hunters in Montana are required to pass a bear identification test, which is intended to prevent grizzly bear mortality as a result of mistaken identity.

Proactive preparation can help hunters avoid negative encounters with grizzly and black bears. Avoid hunting alone whenever possible. Hunting with a partner has helped in both ending bear attacks and getting medical attention. If you must hunt by yourself, give someone details of your hunt plan and check in periodically with them.

Carry bear spray and be prepared to use it at a moment's notice. Bear spray has proven to be a valuable deterrent tool in surprise close encounters.

Pay attention to fresh bear sign. Look for bear tracks, scat and concentrations of natural foods. Use caution when hunting in areas that have evidence of bear activity or areas with scavenging birds. Animal carcasses can attract bears, so avoid them. Follow U.S. Forest Service food storage regulations.

If you harvest an animal during your hunt, get it home as quickly as possible. Some grizzly bears may move in the direction of gunshots because they have learned to associate hunting activities with a gut pile or animal carcass.

If you need to make multiple trips to pack out your animal, leave the carcass in a place away from the gut pile where you can observe it from a distance of at least 200 yards, if possible, and cover it with a tarp. As you return, look for bear activity at the site. Then make noise while slowly approaching the carcass. If a bear is at the site, do not attempt to scare it away if it doesn't leave when it becomes aware of you. Leave the area and contact FWP.

If you are attacked by a bear, use your bear spray. Don't run. Lie face-down, covering your neck and head with your hands and arms until the bear is gone. You shouldn't play dead if you encounter an intent, calm or curious bear.

For more information on avoiding negative encounters with bears, visit fwp.mt.gov or igbconline.org.

Motocross Racer Convicted of Workers' Compensation Fraud

Pays more than $12,000 to Montana State Fund plus $500 fine

Montana Attorney General Tim Fox announced today a Three Forks man charged with fraudulently collecting workers' compensation benefits from the Montana State Fund has pled guilty.

Antony H. Caruana, 42, pled guilty in District Court in Helena on October 16 to one count of theft related to fraudulently filing a workers' compensation claim with Montana State Fund. On June 16, 2015, Caruana claimed he suffered a work-related injury to his right knee while working as an HVAC technician in Bozeman. Nine days earlier, Caruana had competed in a motocross race near Clancy. That same day, he submitted an injury form to State Fund and returned to work after seeing a medical provider. State Fund began paying Caruana's medical bills. Subsequent investigations by the Montana Department of Justice's Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI) uncovered that Caruana had competed in three other motocross races in the two months prior to his alleged workplace injury.

Less than two weeks after the alleged workplace injury, Caruana competed in a motocross race near Wolf Point. On July 20, 2015, Caruana was diagnosed with a meniscus tear in his right knee and underwent surgery followed by physical therapy. Caruana started receiving workers' compensation temporary total disability (TTD) benefits based on a doctor's conclusion Caruana could not return to work. On December 2, 2015, Caruana had a second surgery on the same knee for a new or recurrent meniscus tear.

In February of 2016, State Fund received a call from Caruana's employer, Campbell's Plumbing and Heating of Belgrade. Its owner reported seeing pictures on Facebook of Caruana riding dirt bikes after his claimed injury. Caruana's employer spoke to family members who confirmed Caruana's continued participation in dirt bike riding and motocross racing. A private investigator hired by State Fund observed Caruana participating in motocross races in June near Basin. In July, Caruana participated in another motocross race near Wolf Point. Four days later, a doctor concluded Caruana's complaints of ongoing pain that prevented him from working did not correlate with her objective medical findings. After participating in three more motocross events, Caruana was interviewed by investigators from State Fund and DCI and was subsequently notified his TTD payments were being terminated. Less than two weeks later, Caruana went back to work for a different plumbing and heating company in Belgrade.

Between June 16, 2015 and October 10, 2016, Caruana received up to $91,770 worth of medical benefits and $40,937 in TTD wage loss benefits he was not entitled to -- just from June 2016 (Caruana's first post-surgery motocross race) to October 10, 2016, he received at least $12,295.14 in TTD benefits. On October 16, 2019, Caruana appeared in District Court in Helena and pled guilty to felony theft. At a sentencing hearing held immediately following his guilty plea, Caruana was given a three-year deferred probationary sentence and ordered to pay $12,295.14 in restitution plus a $500 fine.

"Montana takes work comp theft seriously, and I'm proud of the collaborative work of Assistant Attorney General Chris McConnell, Division of Criminal Investigation Agent John Komora, and the Montana State Fund Special Investigations Unit which led to this win," Attorney General Tim Fox said.

Bible Truth...About evolution and the value of man [pt. 1]

Statement of belief: "All scripture is given by inspiration of God..." (2 Timothy 3:16-17), thus all beliefs in conflict with the scripture, God's holy word, are false.

The acceptance of evolution has all but destroyed any understanding about the value of mankind. This theory removes God & makes man a self-existing creature that is a part of nature and is here only by chance, thus a man is no better off than a dog or a tree. It leaves no distinction between right and wrong, thus each man is his own law maker and is responsible only to himself.

The following quotes speak of this philosophy, which has resulted in many of the negative changes that have occurred in our society since our educational system has convinced millions to replace God with atheism and evolution: "We no longer feel ourselves to be guests in someone else's home and therefore obliged to make our behavior conform with a set of preexisting cosmic rules. It is our creation now. We make the rules. We establish the parameters of reality. We create the world, and because we do, we no longer feel beholden to outside forces. We no longer have to justify our behavior, for we are now the architects of the universe. We are responsible to nothing outside ourselves, for we are the kingdom, the power, and the glory forever and ever." (Jeremy Rifkin, Viking Press, 1983)

"...Evolution destroys utterly and finally the very reason Jesus earthly life was supposedly made necessary. ...If Jesus is not the redeemer who died for our sins, and this is what evolution means, then Christianity is nothing." (G. Richard Bozarth, "The Meaning of Evolution," The American Atheist, February, 1978)

"If the theory of evolution is true and mankind is here by chance, then there is no purpose for our existence. Hope, then, is merely an illusion. The rejection of a Creator God leads an individual to hopelessness and despair." [Don Stewart]

"The bent condition of human existence in these closing decades of the 20th century is an affliction resulting principally from the decay of belief in an ordered universe and in a purpose for human existence." (Russell Kirk, "The Rediscovery of Creation," National Review, May 27, 1983)
