Logan Zachary Oswald

Our beautiful angel, Logan Zachary was born on November 5, 2019 at 4:09 AM. He weighed 7 lbs 14 oz and was 20 inches long. Unfortunately, Logan wasn't able to experience his first breath of life due to an umbilical cord complication. Our hearts are broken but we feel at peace knowing that he is wrapped in the arms of our loving Father in Heaven. We are so grateful for all those in the community that have reached out to our family. We have definitely felt God's love through this tragedy. We are thankful that we know death is not the end and that we will be able to see our son and hold him again someday.

With love, Zachary and Nikky Oswald Family

Logan is survived by his parents, Zachary and Nikky Oswald, brothers Declan and Easton Oswald all of Dillon; grandparents Pat and Deneice Bennett of Rexburg, ID; Lyndon and Ann Oswald of Idaho Falls, ID; and many aunts, uncles and cousins.

Funeral services will be held at 10 AM on Saturday, November 16, 2019 at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. 93 State Hwy 91 South Dillon, MT.

Multi-award-winning author to speak at University of Montana Western

On November 21, award-winning author Marty Essen presents his high-energy multi-media show, Around the World in 90 Minutes, at University of Montana Western.

Marty's show features interesting facts, humorous stories, and the best of thousands of photos he took while traveling the world for his first book, Cool Creatures, Hot Planet: Exploring the Seven Continents. It's the type of show where the audience has fun laughing at the stories, oohing and aahing at the photos, and then, when it's all done, they realize just how much they've learned.

Around the World in 90 Minutes began as a show Marty presented in bookstores as part of his first book tour. Later, after numerous refinements, the show took on a life of its own in colleges, museums, and nature centers across the United States. In fact, Marty Essen has been APCA's (a major college activities association) #1 booked college speaker for a total of 50 months. Additionally, Campus Activities Magazine named Marty as one of their "Hot Speaker" picks.

Highlights of Marty's show include:

- Amazing animal facts
- Debunking animal myths
- Cuddly wallaroos and spiny walking sticks
- Charging elephants and howling wolves
- Deadly snakes and friendly penguins
- Bizarre creatures and endangered species
- Swimming with piranhas
- Kayaking in the rainforest

ELK RETRIEVAL

By "Swede" Troedsson

One evening, in early December, as my wife and I were preparing dinner, we heard a knock on our kitchen door. Ken and Cathy Heffner, local Forest Service employees, were standing in the doorway dressed in hunting clothes. I invited them inside and asked them what was up.

Cathy had a late season cow elk permit for an area south of Ennis, and east of the Madison River. They had been hunting east of Highway 287 when a game warden informed them that a group of elk had crossed the highway and were headed for the river.

Ken and Cathy hustled down towards the river. Cathy wounded a cow. The cow ran into the river and bedded down on an island of soft ice in the middle of the river. Cathy put a finishing shot into the elk, but had no way to get to it to tag and dress it out.

I asked Ken if he was leading up to an invitation to help them retrieve the elk with my canoe. Ken sheepishly said yes. I told Ken that my wife and I had planned to go to Butte the next day. She would purchase a wedding band for me with waitress tips she'd been saving for six months. I pointed to two domestic ducks defrosting on the counter and to a bottle of wine. Our plan was to celebrate when we returned home. I could see Ken and Cathy were quite embarrassed. I told Ken I needed to check with my wife.

My wife said "Go ahead". I told Ken and Cathy I would help them provided they would help us eat those ducks and drink that wine when we got home. They were OK with that.

I called local game warden Sarge Hoem and explained the situation to him. We were going after an untagged elk, and if a warden wanted to accompany us he was welcome. Sarge said "Just get it done." I also told Sarge I wondered if we were going after a sour elk. Sarge said in the late Gardiner hunts he had seen killed elk go thirty five hours before being dressed out, and they came out fine.

The next morning, we all had a blueberry hotcake breakfast at my home. Then we hooked up my trailer to my Bronco, lashed the canoe onto the roof rack, and headed for the Madison.

The wind was howling in the Madison Valley. When we drove into a BLM campground, Ken focused his binoculars on the ice island and said, "There it is." I focused my binoculars on the island and told Ken all I saw was grass sticking out of the ice. Ken said, "Swede, that's not grass, that's elk hair." During the night the elk had sunk into the soft ice.

Ken and I put on our hip boots and unloaded the canoe. The river was shallow enough that we were able to safely wade out to the elk by using the canoe to steady ourselves.

Upon arriving at the elk, Ken attempted to lift the elk onto the ice so we could dress it out, quarter it, and load the quarters into the canoe. In spite of Ken being a big and powerful man, he could not lift the elk onto the ice. I let go of the canoe to give him a hand. The wind blew it off the island and down the river. The canoe, pushed by the wind and current, kept slamming into the west bank and shooting out into the river. About one-half mile below us, the river turned to the west. The canoe crashed into the east bank, slid up onto the top of the bank, and stopped.

We towed the whole elk back across the river, intending to dress it out on the east bank. Shelf ice complicated our efforts to get it up on the bank. Either a leg, or the head, kept slipping under the ice. We sent Cathy for the Bronco. Once we lifted up on the elk, Cathy was able to tow it up onto the bank. When we opened up the elk, there was no steam, but it smelled fine. Then we dressed out the elk and loaded it into the trailer.

After retrieving the canoe and loading it onto the Bronco, we drove home. On arriving home, we ate those ducks, and drank the wine.

Cathy and Ken gave us half of the elk. It tasted fine. Ken said the backstrap on his half tasted real strong, so he fed it to his dog. The rest of their half was fine. I suspect their half was the down side in the ice flow, and the backstrap was soaked in elk blood all night.

Attorney General Fox Urges Congress to Pass
Veteran Treatment Court Coordination Act

Attorney General Tim Fox, along with a bipartisan coalition of other state attorneys general, is urging Congress to further support Veteran Treatment Courts by passing the Veteran Treatment Court Coordination Act of 2019.

Veteran treatment courts are diversionary court processes, similar to drug and mental health courts, used for minor, non-violent offenses. These courts pair veterans with mentors to address substance abuse and mental health issues and assist veterans with obtaining United States Veterans Administration benefits to help them with treatment and employment. There are more than 450 such courts in 40 states and territories.

"Treatment courts are a proven way to intervene when veterans need help, particularly in cases involving substance abuse," Attorney General Tim Fox said. "That's why I brought legislation earlier this year to expand treatment courts as part of my Aid Montana initiative. It's also why I'm asking Congress to pass the Veteran Treatment Court Coordination Act. Doing so would give states like Montana more tools to break the cycle for veterans in our criminal justice system so they can get the help they deserve."

In a letter to Senate leaders, Fox and 43 other attorneys general wrote to encourage the passage of House Resolution 886, the Veteran Treatment Court Coordination Act of 2019. House Resolution 886 would establish a Veteran Treatment Court Program in the United States Department of Justice to provide grants and technical assistance to state, local, and tribal courts which implement veteran treatment courts.

During this year's legislative session, Fox and the Montana Department of Justice brought House Bill 654, which increased funding to create new treatment courts and expand existing courts.

Join the Lentil Underground

Celebrate lentils with us at the Patagonia Outlet! We're teaming up with David Oien, the founding farmer of Timeless Foods of Ulm, MT and Claudia Krevat - a lentil inspired chef from Bozeman. They'll be showing off the many ways lentils can be used to brighten up your dinner table. You'll be treated to Timeless Food's brand new Black Beluga Lentil Beer and lentil filled treats made by Chef Claudia out of Savory Seeds and Green Lentil Soup from the Patagonia Provisions line. After we're full on the lentil goodness, David will tell us about how he started Timeless in 1987 with four farmers who were determined to revolutionize Northern Great Plains farming with a solution for fallow fields by using cover crops to reduce erosion, build soil health, provide natural nitrogen fertilizer, and create a new source of income for Montana farmers. This is going to be a good one, we'll see ya there!
