Local Author Signing books during Shop Small Saturday

Suzie O'Connell, USA Today bestselling author, will be at The Bookstore on Saturday, November 30th from 1:00-3:00. O'Connell describes herself as a writer, hobby photographer, photo shop addict and nerd. Growing up she had just one dream and that was to be a writer. From the moment she wrote that first story in second grade she was hooked. She devours books across a wide range of genres, enthralled by the words and stories and the images they paint in her mind. At one point she had more books than clothes.

Earning her bachelor's degree in literature and writing from the University of Montana Western she tried out several careers including copy and print center manager and high school English teacher. Always, returning to writing. No matter what job paid the bills or how many hours of the day they used up, she always made time to write.

She went on to say "I can't not write. It's a compulsion—not what I do but who I am. No other job has ever felt so right. While it is the largest piece of me, there are plenty of other things I enjoy. Like playing in the mountains of this beautiful place I call home with my husband Mark, our daughter Maddie, and our golden retrievers Reilly and Angus." When she isn't writing, you'll often find her with camera in hand trying to capture those perfect moments and landscapes.

She is okay with being a nerd. She embraces it because according to Suzie O'Connell being a nerd is fun, you meet the best most interesting people when you indulge your nerdiness. With over a dozen books to her credit (and many more simmering in her mind) The Bookstore is honored to host her for her first book signing event. Be sure to stop by and meet this quirky author on Saturday. Call 683-6807 if you have any questions or would like reserve a book or two.

CLOSED FOR THANKSGIVING

Womack's Printing will be closed Thursday, November 28th and open for printing and supplies Friday. There will be NO DILLONITE on Thursday, Nov. 28th or Friday, Nov. 29th so we can spend the day with our families.

Any person convicted of violating the provisions of this title shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall pay a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars and not more than one hundred dollars.

If you have any questions please contact Todd Hazelbaker, Director of Operations, at 683-4245.

Thank You and Happy Holidays from the City of Dillon!

Brett Walker, an author residing in Bozeman, Mont., will share readings from his published works at Dances with Words on Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. in The Cup on the Montana Western campus, including his recent historical memoir titled, "A Family History of Illness." Walker is Regents Professor of History at Montana State University, Bozeman. He studies environmental history, the history of human health, the history of science, and military history. His research area is early modern and modern Japanese history, as well as comparative world history, including World War II.

According to the author's website, "A Family History of Illness" is a gritty memoir that examines the body's immune system and microbial composition as well as the biological and cultural origins of memory and history, offering a startling, fresh way to view the role of history in understanding our physical selves. In his own search, Walker soon realizes that this broader scope is more valuable than a strictly medical family history. He finds that family legacies shape us both physically and symbolically, forming the root of our identity and values, and he urges us to renew our interest in the past or risk misunderstanding ourselves and the world around us."

"Dances with Words" is produced by English Professor Alan Weltzien. The series, free and open to the public, provides the community with a unique opportunity to listen to writers reading their own works, including Montana Western student writers.

For more information, please contact Alan Weltzien by email at alan.weltzien@umwestern.edu or call 406-683-7431.
