THANK YOU

The family of Dan Linscott would like to thank the people who called, sent cards, sent flowers and brought food when Dan passed away. We would especially like to thank Marie Hamilton, Dr. Anna Loge, Marie Holt, and everyone else who made it possible to get Dan moved from the hospital in bozeman back to the hospital in Dillon. That meant so much to him and to us.

Thanks to all.

The Linscott Family

THANK YOU

Our family has been overwhelmed by the support and generosity of everyone involved with the benefit for me (Sheila Hardin.) As I sit here trying to write Thank You cards, I have realized I don't have most names of donators or bidders of those amazing donations from the auction. So many amazing, wonderful, people were involved. The donators, organizers, cooks, servers, delivery people, horse ride helpers, and auctioneer helpers.

I need to thank Wanda Jensen, Vila Krug, Dot Estep, and senator Jeff Welborn for organizing and leading the way for our donors. Also, Stockman bank for setting up an account

Coyote Chase
 By: Bryce Angell

The lake was frozen over with a brand-new foot of snow. The trapper's horse held steady yet was stoked and set to go. Sol's home was now on Staley Springs. They'd started a new life. He had three kids, all under eight, Maria was his wife. If coyotes wandered on the lake and came into his view; he'd trained his horse from birth to worth. Sol's horse new what to do. The coyote came within their reach. The trapper gave the cue. Now, Tucker bolted to the lake. The coyote's time was due. The predator was slowed way down. From a foot of newborn snow. While Tucker and the trapper were advancing, not too slow. The trapper saw the coyote stop, just ten feet up ahead. The coyote's time was running short. His next hop, he'd be dead. Then Sol soon felt a sudden lunge as Tucker went down under. They'd broken through the thinner ice. Now both were in the water. Sol knew too well their fate to be, and what a way to go. They'd freeze to death in water. Then sink ten feet below. The thought of his Maria and the children made him cry. How could they stay alive without a father's watchful eye? Sol thought he heard their Holstein cow. Her bell gave her away. Maria had been watching and showed up to save the day. Maria tossed a rope on Tucker, then to Sol she went. She threw a rope and pulled him out. Her Sol was dang near spent. Sol, Maria and their cow then pulled with all their might. They pulled poor Tucker from the hole, weak but still had fight. Maria took old Tucker and she put him in the shed. She wiped him down, then made him warm, so glad he wasn't dead. She made it to the cabin and found Sol right by the fire. She growled at him and firmly spoke. Her voice was filled with ire. "The next time this old lake claims you, you're going to feel the sting. 'Cuz, when I come to get you, it'll be later in the spring."

SOUTHWEST MONTANA VETERANS HOME UPDATE. #26

By Mike Lawson

Greetings once again to you, the Veterans/Counties/Communities who are the six counties in SW Montana who are represented as the organizers and chief supporters of the "SW MT Veterans Home."

Our winter is here, for sure!! I plowed a lot of snow today and can just imagine the removal of snow on our Vet Home Site, before any framing/carpentry work can begin. Last Wednesday, before the all this snow came, a ferocious wind blew from the East, down the East Ridge and played havoc on our Vet Home construction site. The day before, Tuesday, the carpenters stood two corner section walls up, on Cottage #2. The wind, on Wednesday, blew so hard that one of those walls blew over. Quickly the framing crew laid the other one down before it had a chance to blow over.

The following has happened this past Thanksgiving week:

Community Center: All the roof sheeting has been laid/nailed down. There was an eve problems with the engineering/architecture prints which Mike had to get corrected and get the ok to continue. (Corrections are common on most construction jobs and usually it's a simple fix.) This put them behind while waiting for the correction, but they had other things that they were able to work on. Visqueen plastic sheeting was put over all the windows/doors to keep the weather from coming into the building.

Cottage #1: This building, like all the Cottages, has two wings coming off the center section of the building. The wings are where the individual Veteran-Resident rooms are located. The central center has, mainly, the kitchen/dining/living area locations.

The roof trusses have been put in place over both wings of Cottage #1. The other big push is getting the interior framing completed and move on to Cottage #2. Cottage #2: Framing is in full swing on this building.

Cottage #3, #4, and #5: On hold and curing.

I have to take my hat off to Mike Ascherman and his crew of craftsmen, who are working out in this cold weather we're having. Included on this crew are three "carpenter apprentices, one being a young woman, who are learning the invaluable skills of the Carpenter Trade, from the Journeyman Carpenters working on our Vet Home Site.

Our SW. MT. Vet Home Liaison, Mark Gollinger, is a frequent visitor to the Vet Home site. He and Mike Ascherman stay on the same page for the betterment of the finished product, which is our Vet Home being completed. We'll hear more from Mark as the site work progresses.

The Viewing Hooch is nice and warm, with coffee pods of many different flavors to choose from. You can also have cookies/M&Ms/pretzels as a snack. Come and relax and watch the action of our Vet Home being built.

Dillon BLM opens public comment period for proposed oil well near Lima

The Bureau of Land Management has opened a public comment period for an exploratory oil well proposal on public lands in southwestern Montana, near Lima.

On behalf of the BLM's Dillon Field Office and the U.S. Forest Service's Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest, the BLM's Great Falls North Central District Office, Division of Oil and Gas, has opened a public comment period on an Environmental Assessment, for the Tendoy Application for Permit to Drill. The agency is taking comments until Dec. 30.

The site-specific EA, analyzes potential impacts from a Lima Exploration Company proposal to drill an exploratory oil well on public lands about 16 miles southwest of Lima, Montana. The assessment was prepared jointly by the BLM and the USFS, since one potential location is on the BLM and the other is on Forest Service lands.

The Lima Exploration Company APD EA is available for public review at <https://go.usa.gov/xpnB3>.

Interested individuals can address written comments to: Bureau of Land Management, Montana State Office, 5001 Southgate Drive, Billings, MT 59101; Attn: Tessa Wallace, or fax them to Tessa Wallace at (406) 896-5298. Comments can also be submitted electronically to tlwallace@blm.gov. Danell Jones & Tim Lehman Share their Stories at UMW

Danell Jones and Tim Lehman, authors residing in Billings, Mont., read from their new publications as guest authors in the latest "Dances with Words" series event.

Danell Jones read from her new book, titled "An African in Imperial London: The Indomitable Life of A.B.C. Merriman-Labor." According to a summary of the work, "Jones describes the tragic spiral that pulled Merriman-Labor down the social ladder from writer and barrister to munitions worker, from witty observer of the social order to patient in a state-run hospital for the poor.

Tim Lehman is Professor of History at Rocky Mountain College in Billings where he teaches a wide variety of courses in American, Western and Environmental History. Lehman, a longtime Rocky Mountain College historian, recently published "Up The Trail: How Texas Cowboys Herded Longhorns and Became an American Icon." Cattle drives were the largest, longest, and ultimately the last of the great forced animal migrations in human history.

After the event, Jones passed out bookmarks that she made showcasing her new book, while students and community members had the opportunity to ask questions. A student asked about their inspirations, and Jones lead, saying "I've wanted to be a writer since I was a little girl. If you really have a passion to write, you need to sit down and do it." Lehman said with a smile, "I like to tell stories, so I write. Danell gives me courage to be a writer. She always says to me, 'get something down, we'll fix it later,' so we do."

"Dances with Words" is produced by English Professor Alan Weltzien. The series, free and open to the public, provides the community with a unique opportunity to listen to writers reading their own works, including Montana Western student writers.

The next "Dances with Words" event will feature Brett Walker, an author from Bozeman, Mont., who will share readings from his published works on Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. in The Cup on the Montana Western campus, including his recent historical memoir titled, "A Family History of Illness." Walker is Regents Professor of History at Montana State University.

Featured authors' books at "Dances with Words" are made available for purchase by The Bookstore and Deb Sporich.

For more information about the series, please contact Alan Weltzien by email at alan.weltzien@umwwestern.edu or call 406-683-7431.
