A celebration of life will be held on Saturday, Feb 1 from 1:00-3:00 at Beaverhead Golf Course.

Sweet Saturday: Farmers' Winter Market February 1

Looking for Valentine gifts and tasty treats? Don't miss the Dillon Farmers' Winter Market on Saturday February 1 from 10 am to 2 pm in the 4-H building at the county fairgrounds.
It is a great place to meet friends, find unique gifts and local specialties, and visit with your neighbors about the products they make. There will be local vendors with handmade and home grown products, and a Winter Market café.

Vendors expected at the market include Hannah McParland (walnuts and almonds), Diane Lindroth (crafts and décor), Pam McKeever (jewelry and spice blends), Darlene Clark (fabric, knit and crochet items), Debby Seymour (food service
- Indian tacos, coffee, tea, and baked goods), Kim Nye (baked goods, jam/jelly, knit and fabric items), JoAnn Paddock and the Kennel Club (fabric and crochet items to support the Animal Shelter), Paula Kerrick and Sue Frank (crochet and jewelry), 729 Welding (metal art), Ruth Wharton (bags and totes), Stacy Watkins (jewelry), and Barbara Sievers (pies and crochet).

The Dillon Farmers' Market is "hand made and home grown," featuring local products from southwest Montana.
The final Winter Market will be held April 4. The summer market will start June 20. Contact Catherine Cain at 406-498-6198 for more information.

Genealogy Class

There will be genealogy classes at the Library on Wednesday Feb 5, 12, 19, 26 from 1-3pm. Only ten spots are available each day. For more information call or stop by the

Sean Hill Reads Poetry and a Personal Essay at Dances with Words Series

Sean Hill read from his poetry collections and a personal essay as a guest author in the "Dances with Words" series at Montana Western on Jan. 23, 2020.

"Dances with Words" is produced by English Professor Alan Weltzien. The series, free and open to the public, provides the community with a unique opportunity to listen to writers reading their own works, including Montana Western student writers.

Sean Hill is the author of two poetry collections, Dangerous Goods (Milkweed Editions, 2014) and Blood Ties & Brown Liquor (UGA Press, 2008). He has received numerous awards including fellowships from the Cave Canem Foundation, Stanford University and the National Endowment for the Arts.

During the performance, Hill told the audience that the initial inspiration for his poetry came from research of the history of Milledgeville, Georgia, his hometown.

Hill's poems and essays have appeared or are forthcoming in

Southwest Veterans Home Update #34

By Mike Lawson

Greetings once again to you, who are the six counties in SW Montana who are represented as the organizers and chief supporters of the "SWMT Veterans Home."

The month of January is fast coming to an end and the weather, for the most part, is in a mild holding pattern. This has allowed our construction crews to make some good headway. I again had the privilege of doing a walk-through of our Veteran's Home site, visiting each of the buildings being worked on. As always, I checked in with Site Construction Superintendent Mike Ascherman, to get the detailed update on this past week's progress. He has a lot on his plate in coordinating, when different contractors can start their particular part of the job. An example is the Heating/Ventilation and Electrical Contractors, who have to wait for the carpenter framers to get the framing done to the point that allows them to get their material moved in. Then the insulators come in to insulate before the Drywall Contractors can come in and put sheetrock up. It's a continuous sequence, he has to stay up with, as well as getting the various types of construction material delivered on time so the construction progress doesn't get held up. He probably feels like he's dancing on a tightrope at times. We met Carpenter General Foreman John Kotka, as we were walking around the site. He's always moving, keeping his men lined out, working in the different Cottages and the Community Center. He's very enthusiastic about this Veteran Home being on schedule and being top quality from "top to bottom". It's easy to catch the enthusiasm, seeing him in action.

Now for the updates:

Community Center: Walking through this building is an experience of awe, with the tall walls, wide halls and spacious rooms. The electricians have been busy putting conduit and electrical boxes in, throughout this building. This all has to be put in before the insulation can be put in, followed by the sheetrock. The sheetmetal workers also have to get some of their heating and ventilation ductwork installed before the sheetrock goes up. Each step of this has to be inspected before the next Contractor can do his work. Mike said all of this is on the agenda for this week. Outside this building, the 3M peel and stick wrap is going on the outside of the exterior walls. Mike had the 3M-Inspector come on site, to check if the application was being done properly and it passed with flying colors. It'll be pretty exciting to see this building a month from now.

Cottage #1: The roof is completely shingled and the building is dried in. The rough plumbing in the walls, is close to being done. The sheetmetal workers are starting to work on their ductwork/heating systems. The pick-up framing of blocking and backing continues and seems to be never ending. The backing refers to a piece of board put between two of the wall studs, like the blocking, with the flat surface even with the outside/inside of the edges of the wall studs. The purpose of backing is to allow fixtures for electrical/plumbing/cabinets/etc. to be attached to them. Once the sheetrock walls are finished, these interior fixture items can then be installed onto this strong backing. The electricians/sheetmetal workers are probably working in #1 this week, after being in the Community Center. As with all the buildings, once the sheetrock stage begins, the beauty of the interiors will really come into play.

Cottage #2: The Roof Trusses are all rolled on and covered with the fire resistant plywood sheeting. The roof underlayment/shingles process is being completed, as you read this update. With that said, the "dry-in" stage is pretty much in place. The pick-up framing continues, the inspections continue and General Foreman John Kotka, using his check-list, is paying attention to quality control detail, making sure things are done right according to the specifications that have to be followed. The beautiful Gable Roof Entrance is close to being completed and adds a lot to the design on these buildings. The plumbers have moved in and are doing their in-wall, rough-in piping/vent plumbing. The sheetmetal workers are right behind them in getting their roof penetrations completed. Things are moving well here.

Cottage #3: We've been clapping our hands, as some of the exterior walls have been stood up with the most, if not all, the rest to follow this week. It's a beautiful sight, when this stage of construction on a cottage takes place. The interior walls will naturally follow and with the Roof Trusses on site, Mike and John expect to see these trusses, rolled into place in a couple of weeks. As long as everyone makes it to work, to fully man the job, the progress will unfold before our eyes as the march goes on, to the September 30th completion date.

Cottage #4: The good news is this Cottage is no longer on hold, as GF John Kotka is snapping the exterior wall lines and putting the exterior, top and bottom wall plates down along these lines. The explanation for this is that the top and bottom 2"x6" boards that the wall stud boards are nailed between are called wall plates. Before these studs are placed between these plates to make a wall, John puts them together on the floor along his snapped lines. Once this happens he then, using the buildings blueprints, does the layout for all the windows/ doors/etc., by marking these with a carpenter's pencil. The carpenter framers then assemble the walls according to his layout markings. Window and doorway headers are built, as well as the proper cut lengths of the wall studs before assembling. So now, the wall puzzle pieces are ready to be put together along these snapped lines, that GF John Kotka prepared, for this stage of the process. Staying ahead is important, so the construction crews can finish one job and move right onto the next one. Remember, there's only one more Cottage to start work on, so "the seeing is believing" is happening right before our eyes.

Cottage #5: Just waiting for the framers to finish enough work on the other Cottages to start layout and framing. Don't expect it to be more than a month out.

A representative from a company called "ARJO", met with Site Supt. Mike Aschman, concerning the "overhead patient-lift rails" that will have to be installed on the ceiling trusses, before the ceiling sheetrock can be nailed in place. Sounds like they'll be on the job, doing just that, in the next week or so. Having these "Patient Lifts" in every room, is another quality control piece of the puzzle that continues to show the superior quality of this, our "SW MT Veteran's Home".

Our SW MT Foundation is continuing to move forward and we just got our "501c3" from the IRS. Our next meeting will be at the new American Legion Hall on Winn Avenue, just north of Homes Ave. at 1:00 on February 3rd. Everyone is welcome.

Our Liaison Mark Gollinger is going to try and get another "Drone Flyover" in the next week or so and it will be posted to our Veteran Home Web-site SWMVH.Mt.GOV

The Viewing Hooch is open for you to stop and have a cup of tea or coffee, some cookies/candy etc.. There's also some applications for our Vet Home on a table by the windows. If you have questions you need to ask me, my e-mail address is lawsonml@mac.com

Leave No Trace Workshop

Thursday, January 30

Join us at Patagonia Outlet Dillon to learn how to take better care of our lands while enjoying them with Leave No Trace (LNT).

Colleen Peterson, a local Leave No Trace trainer, will teach LNT's seven principles guiding outdoor users to lessen their impacts and better sustain healthy and vibrant natural lands. We'll also serve snacks and beer from Patagonia Provisions for you to enjoy at this free event. Come check it out!
