THE 'THANK YOU WAVE' MAKES A COMEBACK

by Peter Funt on March 30, 2020

Walking my dog Dorothy a few months ago I didn't recognize the fellow waving from the white car until he stopped to say hello. Turns out it was Ed, a casual acquaintance, whose wave I hadn't acknowledged because I couldn't see him through the tinted glass.

Since then I've made it a point to wave at every car that passes on our quiet street. Maybe I know the driver, perhaps I don't. But the wave can't hurt; in fact, it's rather nice.

Nowadays, with social distancing, we're all doing a lot more waving. Folks keep their distance but most wave, salute or signal – acknowledging that we're in this together. Jerry Seinfeld's old complaint that people don't offer a proper "thank you wave" doesn't hold in coronavirus times.

I've long been intrigued by simple hand signals. As kids we thought we knew a big secret: If you made a pulling motion with your arm as a truck passed, the driver would respond with a blast of his air horn.

Sitting on the observation deck at our local airport I've noted that the ground crew – those folks with the orange flashlights – give each pilot a final salute, which is always acknowledged with a salute from the cockpit. It's a civilian version of scenes in "Top Gun" when Tom Cruise and the other fighter pilots salute the guys who send them off the aircraft carriers. Another old film, "The Sting," features a band of lovable con men who identify each other with a forefinger salute across the nose.

It's believed the origin of hand saluting was in Roman times. A citizen who wished to approach a public official raised his right hand to show that he was not carrying a weapon. According to the Armed Forces Museum, the modern salute evolved as a show of respect. "By 1820, the gesture was officially modified to the current version still used in the military today – the touching of the hat. Hand salute, palm down is believed to be an influence of the British Navy, as deck hands were often dirty and to expose the dirty palm was regarded as disrespectful."

Many of us will never forget the sight of three-year-old John-John Kennedy saluting his father's casket as it was carried from St. Matthew's Cathedral.

During the crisis, President Trump favors the simple thumbs up. Some give the A-OK sign, forming a circle with thumb and forefinger. You might use two hands to make a hand-heart gesture, popularized by the singer Taylor Swift.

Or maybe the Hawaiian Shaka, a waggle of the upward thumb and forward-pointing pinkie with the middle three fingers curled to the palm. Perhaps just a nod to strangers crossing the street.

A hand on the heart, often accompanied by a soft pat-pat on the chest, is better than words when it comes to saying "thank you" and "I really care."

While walking Dorothy the other day I stopped to watch the mail carrier make a delivery across the street. As he pulled away, I felt compelled to offer a military-style salute. He slowed, turned slightly, and saluted back.

Sometimes the smallest gestures have the biggest meaning.

• Fraudulent coronavirus maps have popped up to spread malware, utilizing Johns Hopkins University's successful coronavirus tracking map.

• Coronavirus-themed ransomware and malware has popped up in a variety of situations.

• Perhaps most frightening, there are cyberattacks against hospitals responding to the epidemic.

We recommend following these tips to ensure that your financial information remains safe:

• Don't click on links from sources you don't know. Doing so could download a virus onto your computer or device. Make sure the anti-malware and anti-virus software on your computer is up to date.

• Watch for emails claiming to be from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) or experts saying that have information about the virus. For the most up-to-date information about the Coronavirus, visit the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the World Health Organization (WHO).

• Ignore online offers for vaccinations. If you see ads touting prevention, treatment, or cure claims for the Coronavirus, ask yourself: has there's been a medical breakthrough; would you be hearing about it for the first time through an ad or sales pitch?

• Do your homework when it comes to donations, whether through charities or crowdfunding sites. Don't let anyone rush you into making a donation. If someone wants donations in cash, by gift card, or by wiring money, don't do it.

• Be alert to "investment opportunities." The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is warning people about online promotions, including on social media, claiming that the products or services of publicly-traded companies can prevent, detect, or cure coronavirus and that the stock of these companies will dramatically increase in value as a result.

For more information on the latest scams sign up for consumer alerts at <https://www.consumer.ftc.gov/features/scam-alerts>. If you come across any suspicious claims, report them to the FTC at ftc.gov/complaint.

As always, we're here to help. Contact your branch or call 208.523.2020 if you need assistance or believe that you are a victim of fraud.

Thank you for your business. Stay well.

Southwest Montana Veteran's Home Update #43

By, Mike Lawson

Greetings once again to you, the Veterans/Communities/Countries who are chief organizers/supporters of the SW MT Veteran's Home.

This Coronavirus Pandemic, is frightening and taking a toll on all aspects of our society. Southwest Montana, is no exception. Many things have come to a grinding halt, with most of us, being very careful in, how we live. Our SW MT Veteran's Rest Home is no exception. Construction Site Superintendent Mike Aschman, said they have been working with "Skeleton Crews".

Community Center Building:

Interior: This building is seeing the the sheetrock phase fast coming to an end. The Sprinkler Fitters are close to having the overhead head Fire Suppressant System completed and Mike Aschman, expected them to be done, the first of this week. The Tanners (sheet metal workers) and Plummer's, with their work made up of many parts and pieces, will hopefully be done this week or next week for sure.

Exterior: Finally, the "Siding Crew" from S & H Aluminum, from Great Falls, are on our Vet Home Construction Site. I watched them put trim around some of the windows and also saw where they put the first piece of siding on the bottom of one of the southern exposure, walls. It is a finishing phase on the outside of this building that the public can visually see.

Cottage #1:

Interior: The Electricians have their Rough-in, of the walls/ceiling completed and have moved into Cottage #2. The insulators have got the plastic vapor barrier for the lid (bottom of the roof trusses) in place as well as the baffles, where the roof and walls come together, installed. The sheet-rockers will now put a double layer, 5/8 type X, sheetrock on the Lid. The interior-walls, will have one side sheet-rocked, with the noise barrier insulation, installed against this sheetrock. This will be followed by sheetrock on un-sheet-rocked side. Depending on the working crew size, this phase, will hopefully be done in two or three weeks. Lots of ifs in this time of crisis, for sure.

Exterior: Continuation of the "3M Air Barrier Peel and Stick" material, being applied on the outside, exterior wall surfaces, and then, followed by the blue foam insulation board over that. The metal door frames are on site and are presently being installed in this building. The sheetmetal workers have installed flashing on top of the HVAC Units, on the roof.

Cottage #2:

Interior: The good news here is, the electricians have moved from Cottage #1 into this Cottage #2 building. The Plummer's have their wall rough-in done for now.

Exterior: The "3M Air Barrier Peel and Stick" material will start to be applied this week, followed by window installation and then the installation of the Blue Foam Board over that.

Cottage #3:

Interior: Some activity going on here. The plumbers are getting close to having their wall rough-in, completed. Some framing of blocking/backing as well as the fireplace and coffered ceiling being framed.

Exterior: Two things, concerning exterior work have been and are being done here. One is the Roofers working on the roof. I think they're short on workers also, as I only saw one guy working on this roof, throughout the week.

Cottage #4: Weather conditions and shortage of framers is, definitely, a factor concerning the progress of this building, coupled with the Coronavirus issue we're dealing with. Even so, the exterior walls of both resident wings, of this building, are tipped/raised up and are in place. The wing roof trusses are stacked on the ground next to this building and should be rolled up into place this week. The framers can continue to frame the Common Area (middle area), while this is going on. Only one more Cottage for this process to take place. Optimism is alive and well, as we see progress moving forward with this our SW MT Veteran's Home. This is happening, in spite of the crisis we're in the middle of.

Last week, when I talked about what our Liaison Mark Gollinger was up to, I mistakenly said he was scoring the single Contractors Proposal, submitted, to operate our Southwest Montana Veterans Home. He in fact was not scoring, but looking/checking that everything was covered, that was supposed to be covered. I did get a statement from Mark, explaining what is happening and his part in it. My apologies to both he and Shaunda, who is his boss at the State level. Here's Mark's official statement. "We received one proposal from Avalon Healthcare. An award has not been made at this time. The State is working diligently to ensure a complete and thorough review of the proposal". As more information becomes available from the State, that is allowed to be shared, I will do so. Mark and his friend with the Drone, plan on doing a "eye in the sky view" of our Vet Home site, possibly next week. Will let you know, if that happened. Check it out on our web-site. SWMVH.Mt.GOV.
