WP offering free online courses for hunter and bowhunter education students

The COVID-19 pandemic is changing so many parts of life in Montana this year – hunter and bowhunter education is no different. In response to social distancing requirements and restrictions on group gatherings, Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is turning to online courses for all students this year only.

The online courses and mandatory field days have been available to adults for a tuition fee of $25 for hunter education and $30 for bowhunter education. The in-person courses have always been, and will remain, free. However, since the in-person options aren't feasible under Phases 1 and 2 of Gov. Steve Bullock's Reopening the Big Sky plan, FWP will cover the online tuition fees for all Montana residents until the state reaches Phase 3 of the plan and in-person hunter and bowhunter education courses are available once again.

The online courses will be available May 12 to Montana residents who are at least the age of 12 by Jan. 16, 2021.

The COVID-19 pandemic led to the suspension of hunter and bowhunter education classes March 16. Around 1,000 students were certified prior to March 16, but there is currently a backlog of several thousand waiting to be certified.

The online courses, which are developed and administered by the outdoor education company Kalkomey, include text, videos and interactive scenarios to engage students. Students will need to pass a final test to qualify for a certificate.

"We wrestled with several options for providing hunter and bowhunter education courses this year," said FWP Director Martha Williams. "Ultimately, given the difficulty many families in Montana are experiencing with this pandemic, we knew continuing to offer these educational opportunities and certifications for free was important."

When the state moves to Phase 2, there may be additional options for hunter and bowhunter education.

In Phase 3 FWP will discontinue the online only option and again offer traditional in-person classroom courses.

"We value our hands-on classroom courses and field days all done with the dedication of our excellent volunteer instructors," said Wayde Cooperider, outdoor skills and safety coordinator for FWP. "We feel that becoming a safe and ethical hunter requires not only knowledge, but also safe and ethical handling of firearms and archery equipment."

In the absence of a requirement for a field course for the online courses in Phases 1 and 2, FWP encourages parents or hunting partners to work and practice safe firearm and archery equipment handling with new hunters and bowhunters. FWP has also added a new virtual field course component to the online curriculum for Hunter Education students.

To take the online hunter or bowhunter education course, students can register at <http://fwp.mt.gov/education/hunter/>.

At this time, students aged 10 and 11 (under age 12 before Jan. 16, 2021) will not have an option for an online class. Those students can hunt as an apprentice this year and/or take a course when traditional classes are offered again in Phase 3 of the governor's reopening. To learn how to sign up for the hunter apprentice program, go to: fwp.mt.gov/hunting/licenses/all/apprenticeHunter/default.html

If there are any questions, please call your local FWP office or 406-444-9947.

Montana DOJ Offers Zoom Security Tips

Today, Attorney General Tim Fox cautioned Montanans to mitigate their risk of being hacked while using cloud-based video conferencing tool Zoom. His recommendation follows reports of two Billings churches being Zoom bombed recently during virtual services.

It's important to take steps now to improve your privacy levels while using Zoom to telework, worship, and learn, Attorney General Tim Fox said. Even taking just a few steps, like using a meeting password that's not accessible via open source, ensuring all meeting participants are using the latest version of Zoom, and not clicking on links if you're not expecting a Zoom invitation can help protect you against virtual intrusions, Fox added.

In addition to the recent Billings church Zoom bombing incidents, Fox cited Columbia Falls City Council and Montana Public Service Commission meetings conducted via Zoom last month that were disrupted by hackers. Fox offered the following additional tips to protect Montanans using Zoom:

1. Use strong passwords.
2. Provide the event link directly to participants, not on a publicly available platform.
3. Hosts should utilize Zoom's "waiting room" option to approve meeting participants.
4. Disable the option for participants to join the meeting prior to the host.
5. Use an automatically generated Meeting ID for non-reoccurring meetings.
6. Lock the meeting when it has begun.
7. Assign co-hosts once a meeting has started. They will be responsible for controlling the meeting if it's hijacked, or the host's controls are compromised.
8. If using Zoom for a training, change screen sharing to host only.
9. Disable participant recording if sharing sensitive information.
10. Disable file transferring, annotations, disabling mute, and saving of chat.
11. Rename the recording if the meeting was recorded.

If you are the victim of an internet scam or cyber crime, or want to report suspicious activity, call local law enforcement, the Montana Office of Consumer Protection at (800) 481-6896 or (406) 444-4500 or use OCP's convenient online reporting form. You may also visit the FBI's Internet Crime Complaint Center.

National Trails Day Saturday, June 6 10:00-12:00pm

The Montana State Parks and Bannack State Park announced today that they will be hosting a guided hike for National Trails Day at Beaverhead Rock State Park on Saturday, June 6th from 10am-12pm.

This year, the staff of Bannack State Park is going to host a hike at Beaverhead Rock. The guided hike will consist of a one hour hike through the state park examining the flora, fauna, and history of the area.

To adhere to social distancing, the hike will be capped at ten people, so please call ahead to reserve your spot.

The moderate hike will be a fun way to get outside and learn more about local parks. There is a strong chance for warm temperatures. Sunscreen, water, sturdy walking/hiking shoes, and appropriate hiking gear are suggested for the day.

To access Beaverhead Park, the turn-off on Highway 41 has no marker. Your phone's maps will take you close to the park, but the turnoff is a dirt road just after the curve marked to slow down if you are coming from Dillon.

Feds Halt Washington Law Targeting Bakken Oil Shipments

Attorney General Tim Fox issued the following statement after the U.S. Department of Transportation stopped Washington state's attempt to block crude oil shipments:

"The federal government rightly halted Washington state's illegal attempt to dictate what commodities other states can transport to market. This is a victory for Montanans and the citizens of other oil-rich states."

In July 2019, Montana Attorney General Tim Fox and North Dakota Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem petitioned the U.S. Department of Transportation to overturn a Washington state law that effectively prohibited the rail transport of Bakken-area oil shipments. They argued existing federal protections preempt Washington state's vapor pressure law.

Today the U.S. Department of Transportation announced its determination agreeing with Fox and Stenehjem.

Alan Olson of the Montana Petroleum Association welcomed the decision:

"We are happy to see that the U.S. Department of Transportation agrees we can't have individual states setting policy for interstate commerce. We thank Attorneys General Tim Fox and Wayne Stenehjem for their great work supporting interstate commerce."

BNSF Railway also praised the action:

"BNSF is grateful for the U.S. Department of Transportation's thoughtful review of Washington's vapor pressure law, as we have always maintained that regulatory decisions around vapor pressure should be made at the federal level."

ILL-TIMED INVASION OF THE MURDER HORNETS

by Tom Purcell

The murder hornets don't stand a chance.

We're still amid a pandemic that has dragged on way too long, producing far too many bizarre, exaggerated doomsday scenarios on social media.

Some of our political leaders are enjoying absolute power a little too absolutely.

Conspiracy theorists claim Bill Gates, who's probably an extraterrestrial, purposely spread COVID-19 because he wants to implant computer chips in us – or something like that.

And now the murder hornets are coming?

Also called Asian giant hornets, these ghastly bugs look like creatures from a 1950s horror flick.

Approximately 2 inches long, they slaughter honeybees by ripping their heads off, and their menacing yellow-orange noggins make them look like extraterrestrials – the way Bill Gates' real head looks when he removes his human mask at home every night.

So far, these giant icky bugs have been spotted in Washington state and Canada. Now that the scariest coronavirus stories are losing their edge, the murder hornets' murderous ways offer a fresh round of stories, true and false, to scare the bejesus out of us.

These stories will surely be featured in the news soon:

"Actual murderers are offended that entomologists are demeaning their life's work by naming a foreign bug after their profession."

"The Council of Global Bug Integration accuses federal officials of jingoistic propaganda and creating antipathy for people from a particular region of the world by referring to America's newest hornet as the 'Asian giant hornet.'"

"The murder hornet can fly 20 mph and kill more than 50 people every year, but when it's pan-fried and seared, it makes a tasty dinner – one with the potential to positively impact the effects of climate change in America and the world."

There was once great hope that in the age of digitization and incredible computing power, human beings, with access to limitless sources of knowledge, would become smarter – that our judgment would be improved by factual information, science and sound reasoning.

That hope fell to pieces faster than the 1970s killer bee scare, which terrorized my otherwise placid childhood.

There was once hope that this pandemic would bring us together – that we'd collaborate more, and quibble less, to do what we can to address this great challenge.

But the polar opposite has happened. The pandemic has done more to illustrate our deep divisions than to heal them. Many have used our powerful technology platforms to scare and misinform their fellow human beings, rather than to enlighten them.

It's regrettable, but it's so.

After two months under lockdown, we're tired of worrying, tired of our politicians posturing, and eager to get back to normal.

I'd give anything to visit an Irish pub for a pint and some camaraderie. I long for a conversation about the meaning of life, car tires and how bad the Pirates' losing record will be this year.

So I feel bad for the murder hornets.

You have the stuff of greatness, my homicidal wasp friends – your terrifying faces, your enormous size, your ridiculously direct name – but your timing is way off.

As states begin to reopen, our news outlets and social media fanatics are firing off new rounds of scary pandemic material.

If I were you, murder hornets, I'd hire a better publicist, fly back home and sit out your invasion for another year.

VOTE TO RE-ELECT TOM WELCH

MONTANA HOUSE DISTRICT 72

A PROVEN LEADER...A DIFFERENCE MAKER

When presenting Tom with a MONTANA CHAMBER 'CHAMPION OF BUSINESS' AWARD in 2019, the following was noted:

"A pragmatic lawmaker with a long career in community banking, Rep. Welch began his legislative service in 2017 and hasn't shied away from making the tough votes since. He prioritizes job creation, free enterprise, and economic development for the benefit of all Montanans. In the 2019 Session, he served on the House Human Services and Taxation Committees, the latter of which was especially important to the Chamber as Rep. Welch prevented several bills that would have increased personal and business taxes from reaching the House floor." * (Emphasis added)
