AG Fox Cautions to Choose Contractors Carefully During Storm Season, Pandemic

This spring, many parts of Montana may face severe thunderstorms, hail, and flooding. Attorney General Tim Fox and his Office of Consumer Protection (OCP) remind consumers to exercise caution while hiring contractors to repair damage to their homes. "Fly by night" contractors, or "storm chasers," swarm Montana communities after storms and natural disasters, eager to claim insurance checks and hard-earned money.

"I'm concerned many homeowners are already struggling financially during this pandemic, and a hailstorm could come through and add insult to injury," Attorney General Tim Fox said. "Montana homeowners should be particularly mindful when seeking out repair work and do so with a keen awareness that shady contractors may be out to take advantage of them. Contact my Office of Consumer Protection for more information about how to hire a reputable contractor," Fox added.

When hiring a contractor, make sure you follow these steps:

1. Research similar projects. Learn the best way to complete it and how much it should cost.
2. Consider local, reputable contractors. Check their registration by calling the Department of Labor and Industry at 406-444-7734 or checking online at www.mtcontractor.com.
3. Get at least three written bids. A bid is not a contract; you're not obligated to do business with someone just because you have their bid.
4. Check references.
5. Call Office of Consumer Protection 406-444-4500 and ask if there are complaints about the contractor you are considering.
6. Require proof that the contractor is insured and bonded. Otherwise, you may be liable for injuries to workers or others on your property. Ask to see the actual bond document and

Journaling for a Richer Life

On May 30th, Jean James will be hosting a Saturday workshop at Tendoy Fine Art Gallery, 35 E. Bannack St. in Dillon between 10:00 am and 2:00 pm. The workshop is for those who want to keep a journal and need help getting started. The workshop is for creative thinkers, artists, writers, and those who want to record their life's events, their travels, or their thoughts or inspirations. It is also for those who feel they want to chronicle the changes our world is making in a relatively short period of time. The Covid19 virus has impacted everyone, and processing those changes is a personal journey, one that can be enhanced by telling your story through words, sketches, photos, or a combination of expressions.

Only 6 participants will be allowed to register so that we can practice social distancing. Participants are encouraged to wear a mask and gloves. Please bring a blank journal or sketchbook and we will furnish other materials. Journals can be a simple lined notebook, a more elaborate bound book with handmade paper or anything in between. Please bring a sack lunch as we will eat at the gallery and use the lunch hour for discussion time. The cost of the workshop is $20 per person. Because participation is limited, please call Jean James ahead of time to register - 406-660-2304. Fees will be paid the day of the workshop.

Letter to the Editor

Time is running out for voters to make their voice heard in the Montana Primary on June 2nd, 2020.

Kathleen Williams is on the ballot as the very best that Montana has to offer in a person with honesty, integrity and experience from her time on the Montana State Legislature.

Kathleen Williams is running for the legislature in Washington D.C. Not to be confused with Whitney Williams who is running for the Governor of Montana.

First, know that Kathleen has run her campaign with the help of thousands of individual donors who support her and the policies she supports. Unlike her, Matt Rosendale and Greg Gianforte dip into the dark money of corporations. When people like Rosendale and Gianforte take corporate money to win an election, they are voting for the "wants" of the corporations, not for the people of Montana.

While facing the global COVID pandemic the current administration is working to strike down the ACA in court. Kathleen knows that the Affordable Care Act is what is helping people, right now, and she will work to improve it and lower health insurance costs. Unlike Rosendale who raised the Health Insurance rates over 25% a few years ago.

Montana only has one House Seat in D.C. and we have all seen what happens when it goes to the wrong person.

Kathleen is a Democrat and she is non partisan. She will work hard to make sure Montana gets what it needs.

18th annual White Hat Coalition Memorial Day Parade postponed

The Beaverhead White Hat Coalition founder and coordinator, Stan Smith, has postponed the 18th annual White Hat Coalition Memorial Day Parade to Saturday, July 4th at 12:30pm as the safety of our veterans, elderly and community remains paramount. Smith also announced that the 25th Annual Auto Festival and Cruise will be altered during the Covid 19 shutdown. The Pioneer Scenic Byway Cruise will remain on Saturday, June 13th gathering at 9:00 am. The Auto Festival portion of the event will be postponed till 2021 to celebrate their 25th year. The Auto Festival will participate in Dillon History days Friday, July 24th in the Depot Park. This event is, of course, dependent upon any changes in Covid 19 restrictions. Smith will give any updates necessary as the summer progresses.

Curb Side Popcorn sales

Big Sky Cinema will continue the ever popular Curb Side Popcorn sales each Friday from 4:30 to 6:00 until they open. Plans for safely reopening are pending as film product availability progresses. They will operate at 50% of normal until restrictions change with social distancing and sanitary procedures in place. With an abundance of caution as our economy reopens we are going slow at first to make certain we protect our patrons and our staff while bringing entertainment back to the big screen. In true showman style, manager Stan Smith has kept the Big Sky Cinema involved in the community throughout the Covid 19 closures with musical jam sessions, donations of surgical masks and food items. They are looking forward to bringing summer blockbusters back to the community and seeing everyone again. Soon!

UMW Students Collaborate on Local Ecology Research

Bridger Bertram and Paul Helfrich, seniors at Montana Western, collaborated on an intensive research project during the 2019-20 academic year with a plan to present at the National Conference on Undergraduate Research (NCUR) this past spring in Bozeman which was canceled due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Bertram is from Salmon, Idaho, and graduated May 9, 2020, with a bachelor's degree in Quantitative Ecology, including a minor in Statistics and Data Analysis. Helfrich, from Mammoth, Wyoming, played football for Montana Western and graduated this spring with a bachelor's degree in Ecology.

Helfrich and Bertram prepared to share their research project titled "The Temporal and Spatial Distribution of Tetracapsuloides bryosalmonae." Bertram explained in an interview that Tetracapsuloides bryosalmonae is a microscopic parasite that causes Proliferative Kidney Disease in many fish species found in Montana, including Brown Trout, Rainbow Trout, and Mountain Whitefish.

They used environmental DNA (eDNA) sampling and the Polymerase Chain Reactions (PCR) method to detect the presence of the parasite in the Beaverhead and Big Hole Rivers. While working collectively, they also looked for patterns that correlated the strength of the DNA signal that they were able to detect in terms of the location and timing of when the sample was taken in the rivers to learn more about the parasite.

Helfrich said, "This project was immensely rewarding because we are truly making progress towards understanding a very mysterious organism. The issues that this parasite causes in fish populations are very dependent on water temperature, so as global climate change progresses, the issues associated with it may become more severe for the fish in our rivers. It's important that we understand the organism and its life cycle if we are to address the problem associated with it."

The project required extensive time in the lab. "I was in the biology lab most days during the week. Lab work, like all rewarding things, is both enjoyable and challenging," said Bertram.

"Dr. Mike Gilbert provided all the reagents we needed for lab work, wrote grants to obtain new lab equipment, assisted us in revising our abstract for submission for NCUR, trained us on eDNA sampling, DNA extraction, and PCR, helped us analyze PCR results, and also bought us pizza," shared Bertram about the extensive learning and time he, Helfrich, and their mentor invested into the research.

Helfrich said, "Dr. Gilbert took the time to build a much deeper understanding of molecular techniques that we use as well as the larger ecological processes at work. He was always sure that I would succeed and encouraged me to persevere."

He continued, "Additionally, my experience in molecular and microbiology with Dr. Michael Morrow was extremely important in becoming familiar with practical applications and the theory behind the lab work. My advisor, Dr. Wendy Ridenour, has been extremely important in guiding me through the past four years."

After graduation, Bertram is researching potential graduate school options to continue his education and research. Helfrich is enrolling in Montana Tech's new Ecological Restoration master's program for the upcoming fall 2020 semester.
