GRADUATES

Never give up a dream because of the time it takes to achieve it. That time will pass you by regardless of what path you are on.

The Class of 2020

Bryce Angell

I take my cowboy hat off to the graduating class.
This year has been peculiar. Doubt that any will surpass.
But one thing is for certain. It's a gamble worth the bet.
The year of 2020 you will dang sure not forget.
Some have given up and sure to cause them certain strife,
but you have reached your first achievement in your many days of life.
You're young and full of spirit, like a filly shakes her tail.
Never give up dreaming 'cuz you're afraid that you might fail.
A cowboy's life ain't cheap and with equipment comes expense. A healthy education brings you more than just horse sense.
So be diligent when studying. You've got no time to shirk.
And if you plan on making bank, for sure it's worth the work.
There's more to life than money, but it takes a lot to live.
So, choose an occupation where you'll have some left to give
To someone who'll be starting out, the way you are right now.
You'll soon find out that everyone can use a break somehow.
Remember, in this life there's not a single thing for free.
Somebody's got to pay it and it's usually you and me.
Exhibit deeds of kindness. Cowboys have a Golden Rule.
You'll treat each other with respect. If not, then you're a fool.
Some days will be discouraging. You won't know what to do.
But this cowboy's telling you there'll be a light come shining through.
Your best years are ahead of you. Be ready for each task.
Your God is there to help you. All you gotta do is ask.
So, congratulations seniors. You are gonna love the world.
Take a step and cowboy up. You're about to be unfurled.

DRIVE-IN TO START SEASON

The Silver Bow Drive-In is set to open May 29th for this 44th season. The drive-in is about a month behind its normal open day because of the effects of COVID-19. They have made a few changes and will work with some social distancing protocols.

The movies will be played on Friday, Saturday and Sundays to see how many people will come out. There will be two shows playing each night. "The Call of the Wild" and "Bad Boys for Life" will be opening movies.

There will not be radios to rent due to sanitation concerns. The shows start at dusk.

Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest opens more developed recreation sites

The Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest will open several additional developed recreation areas for the holiday weekend. For a full list of open areas and up-to-date information on scheduled re-openings, visit https://go.usa.gov/xvSAJ.

"While we understand there may be some excitement to return to these recreation areas, there may be limited services or spaces available" says Forest Supervisor Cheri Ford. "We ask that visitors please continue to follow local, state and federal guidelines for staying safe and practice good hygiene and social distancing wherever they choose to visit."

Visitors are asked to stay as local as possible when choosing a site to visit and to pack out everything they bring, especially trash. Visitors are also urged to take the precautions recommended by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention along with local health and safety guidance. For tips on preventing illnesses like the coronavirus, go to: https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/about/prevention.html.

Responsible recreation will help expand access to facilities, services and other opportunities. Certain services may still be unavailable, so visitors are asked to plan accordingly and to remain flexible.

Contact information for the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest's offices is available online at https://go.usa.gov/xvSHP.

The Food Pantry

The Food Pantry hours of operation are changing to Wednesdays 11 AM - 3:30 pm. No clients are allowed in the building and we will still hand the food to them outside.

Madison Ranger District implements 'Pack In, Pack Out' policy

Effective immediately, the Madison Ranger District will begin implementing a "Pack In, Pack Out" policy at one day-use area and several campgrounds. As a result of this policy change, trash service will no longer be available at Wade Lake Picnic Area and Cliff Point, Hilltop, Wade Lake, Riverview, Madison, and West Fork campgrounds.

Instead of collecting and hauling visitor garbage, crews will have more time for repairing broken table planks, replacing rusted out fire rings, rebuilding diminished tent pads, maintaining trails, and addressing signage and safety issues. For additional information about this policy change, please call the Madison Ranger District at 406-682-4253.

FWP seeks public's help identifying CWD-symptomatic animals

A follow-up test has confirmed a positive case of chronic wasting disease in a white-tailed deer buck that was euthanized in Gallatin County this month after displaying several classic symptoms of the disease.

The deer, which was found in the Springhill area north of Bozeman, represents the first confirmed case of CWD in the county.

CWD was first detected in Montana in 2017. Since then, FWP has closely monitored the prevalence and distribution of CWD through targeted surveillance and sampling efforts. The disease is now known to exist across southern and northern Montana, as well as in neighboring states and provinces.

FWP is continuing to develop management strategies to minimize potential impacts from the disease. Understanding the prevalence and distribution of CWD is central to that effort. So FWP is asking for the public's help in identifying deer, elk or moose that are symptomatic of carrying CWD. Please report any symptomatic deer, elk or moose to your local FWP office and provide detailed information on the time and location that the symptomatic animal was observed.

What is CWD?

CWD is a fatal disease affecting the nervous systems of deer, elk and moose. It is caused by an infectious misfolded prion protein, concentrated in an animal's lymphatic and nervous system tissues. Transmission most commonly occurs through direct contact between animals. Carcasses and bodily fluids of infected animals can also be sources of infection for other cervids that come in contact with them.

Pronghorn antelope and other animals not in the Cervidae (deer) family are not carriers of CWD.

Animals are tested for CWD by removing the retropharyngeal lymph nodes under the lower jaw, which are where much of the infectious protein concentrates.

CWD is not known to be transmissible to humans. However, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention advises against consuming animals that have tested positive for CWD.

What symptoms should be reported?

In the terminal stages of CWD, one of the most common symptoms for deer, elk and moose is reduced mobility. Additional symptoms include emaciation, excessive salivation or drooling, lack of muscle coordination, an exaggerated wide posture, and the animal carrying its head and ears lowered.

What should not be reported?

If an animal reacts to a human presence by leaving the area, it should not be reported.

During the springtime, many animals appear skinny as they rebuild fat stores spent during the winter. Body condition alone is not a reliable indicator of whether an animal is symptomatic of carrying CWD. Usually a combination of physical and behavioral symptoms will be present.

What is FWP doing to manage CWD?

Hunting is the primary tool in Montana for gathering CWD samples and managing infected herds. FWP will strategically target areas for surveillance in southwest Montana, including establishing check stations for sample collection. FWP will continue assisting hunters in sample collection and funding the processing of samples.

Potential management actions in Montana's CWD response plan include increased harvest, targeted removal in limited areas around CWD detections, minimizing large groupings of deer, and carcass transport restrictions or proper disposal of carcass parts.

Several additional measures have been in place to minimize the spread of CWD, including interstate transport restrictions and laws that prohibit feeding wildlife. Liberal deer hunting opportunities also exist in some hunting districts.

FWP plans to continue working closely with the public, elected officials and local leaders in responding to the presence of CWD. Information gathered on the prevalence and distribution of CWD will help inform management decisions going forward.

For more information on CWD and Montana's response, visit fwp.mt.gov/CWD.

Bible Truth...About marriage and its influence on society

Statement of belief: "All scripture is given by inspiration of God..." (2 Timothy 3:16-17), thus all beliefs in conflict with the scripture, God's holy word, are false.

"...Scripture teaches that family was God's idea & that marriage is a divine, not merely human, institution. Humans are not free to renegotiate or redefine marriage & the family in any way they choose." [Andreas Kostenberger]

Biblically marriage is a covenant between a natural born man and a natural born woman "before and under God." One purpose in a man and woman becoming "one flesh" in marriage is for procreation, which eliminates any possibility of marriage being between two members of the same sex. This means that "God will never sanction a marital bond between two members of the same sex." (Kostenberger)

The scriptures are also clear about marriage being the only God-honored manner in which to procreate. Hebrews 13:4 states that God will judge those engaging in "bedroom activities" outside the bonds of marriage.

The world has obviously rejected God's plan for marriage and the family for a "no-rules" system of relationships. Many are greatly offended at God for assuming to know what's better for man than man himself. But consider the changes in our country since God and His plan have been rejected.

"Social Scientists, criminologists, and many other observers...recognize the connection between the breakdown of families and various social problems that have plagued American society. It now is a widely accepted premise that children born into single-parent families are much more likely than those in intact families to fall into poverty and welfare dependency."

Many studies indicate that the breakdown of the family "is the real root cause of crime in the U.S." "...Data shows that the real variable is not race, but family structure & all that it implies in terms of commitment and love between adults and children. It is the absence of marriage & the failure to form & maintain intact families that explains the incidence of crime among whites as well as blacks."

Five stages in the life of future violent criminals: "...absence of the love, affection, and dedication of parents."

Moral development of children "is best accomplished within the context of religious belief and practice."

The evidence reveals that we should get back to God's plan.
