Ballot Deadline Unchanged

The Secretary of State's Office won the ruling granted by the Supreme Court to maintain the deadline for the return of ballots in the primary election to June 2, by 8:00 p.m.

Deputy Secretary of State Christi Jacobsen stated, "I am pleased that the voter confusion and disruption to the voting process has ended. As has been the practice for decades, ballots will not be counted if they are not received by the 8 p.m. deadline."

The Secretary of State's Office requests the media retract or correct reports that were communicated otherwise.

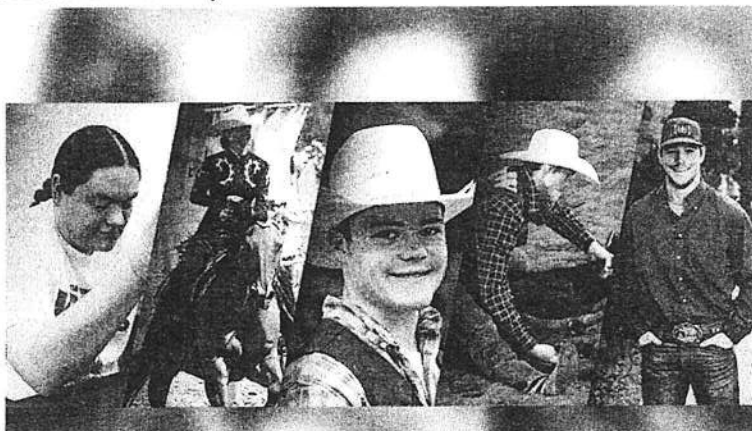

CURB SIDE POPCORN SALES THURSDAY

The Big Sky Cinema has been having curb side popcorn sales each Friday for two months now. This week they join in celebrating our educators as the Dillon School district has their "Cruise Into Summer" car cruise event on Thursday, May 28th at 7:00.

Curbside sales of Fresh, Hot Popcorn will be from 4:30 to 6:00 Thursday night instead of Friday this week. We encourage everyone to come out and watch the cruise as well as join in with your vehicles to thank all our teachers and school staff as well as our Covid 19 moms and dads that have continued their kids education throughout the shut down. The Big Sky Cinema celebrates our community and thanks everyone for stopping in to buy popcorn and keep our spirits up during this time. We are looking forward to opening in June as we acquire films to bring to Dillon.

Students Garrett Musmann, Carol "Grace" Maxwell, Jake Malek and Skye Sutphin graduated this May and will attend veterinary school, while 2019 students Riley Savage and Tristin Bullshoe will attend dentistry and medical school, respectively.

Alumna Grace Maxwell explains how shadowing vets in Twin Bridges, Mont. as well as UMW's own Dr. Layne Carlson helped her to solidify the desire to continue on to veterinary school. Additionally, among the six letters of recommendation needed to apply to veterinary school, Maxwell included one from her UMW college advisor, Dr. Mike Morrow, who also assisted her with the essay process.

"My professors and advisor really wanted me to succeed. I also had constant check-ins and support from my supervisor at the Learning Center, Susan White, about how the application process was going," Maxwell said in her interview on the support she received.

Creating strong relationships with professors, due to limited class sizes, as well as utilizing the block schedule to allow for multi-day laboratory exercises in classes, prepares students in modern techniques they can apply in graduate school.

"Within our sciences, we are well equipped for helping these students compete at a national level," said biology professor Mike Morrow. "I'm less surprised we have this variety of higher ed acceptances than I am so proud of them."

Students at the University of Montana Western enjoy a tight-knit community atmosphere and small class sizes where they work closely with peers and professors alike. Montana Western focuses on serving students, achieving academic excellence, and promoting experiential education. The 20-acre campus is an excellent choice for students to take advantage of the immersive learning opportunities offered by the nation's only Experience One program, where they can build on critical and creative thinking skills to prepare for real-world job and graduate school opportunities.

With Experience One, students at Montana Western take one course at a time for 18 days, take a short break and then move on to their next course. By utilizing block scheduling combined with immersive learning, UMW is the only public four year university in the country to employ this model that is focused on student success.

When asked what advice he would give to students on the fence about pursuing higher education, Garrett Musmann advised, "I was able to gain specialization in horses and the knowledge from it will pay off in the long run while providing more career options in the future."

Grace Maxwell explained that "Shadowing an established professional in the field is very important to make sure you have a drive for it. Through my internships at Montana Western, I knew this is what I wanted to do for my career."

Where is your stimulus check?

Rocky Mengle Kiplinger's Personal Finance

Question: I tried the IRS's Stimulus payment tracking tool, but only get a message saying, "Payment Status Not Available." What gives?

With a fair amount of fanfare, the IRS recently released its "Get My Payment" tool. This online app - located on the IRS website - is supposed to let you: Check the status of your stimulus payment; confirm your payment type (paper check or direct deposit); get a projected direct deposit or paper check delivery date (or find out if a payment hasn't been scheduled); and enter your bank account information for direct deposit if the IRS doesn't have your direct deposit information and it hasn't sent your payment yet.

Unfortunately, at the time of this writing however, many people (millions?) Cannot get any information out of this tool. They keep getting a message saying: "Payment Status Not Available." According to information that we have on file, we cannot determine your eligibility for a payment at this time."

According to the IRS, there are several reasons why the "Get My Payment" tool will give you the "Payment Status Not Available" messages, including:

The IRS hasn't Finished processing your 2019 return; the tool doesn't have your data yet; you used the "Non-Filers: Enter Payment Info Here Tool, but the IRS hasn't processed your entry yet' you receive Social Security benefits, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Railroad Retirement Board Benefits, or Veterans Administration benefits, and the necessary information from the agency that administers those benefit programs hasn't been loaded onto the IRS system yet; or you're not eligible for a payment.

The IRS updates the tool each night, and it's working on adding more data to allow more people to use the tool.

AG Fox Urges Congress to Fund Expanded Broadband Access

Attorney General Tim Fox has joined 38 attorneys general in urging Congress to help ensure all Americans have the home internet connectivity necessary to participate in telemedicine, teleschooling, and telework as part of any additional legislation that provides relief and recovery resources related to addressing the COVID-19 pandemic.

"After weeks of learning, working, socializing, and seeking healthcare from home during the pandemic, we know internet access is critical for basic needs," Attorney General Tim Fox said. "While we appreciate the independent efforts of various companies to increase access by waiving late fees, or even providing free or discounted access to students and medical providers, such efforts are not sustainable. We need a national solution," Fox added.

Because of this widespread support, the bipartisan National Association of Attorneys General (NAAG) adopted this position as official policy, a strong show of support for expanded broadband throughout the country. Fox, who is also President of NAAG, emphasized that unless Congress acts quickly, disparities in access to home internet connectivity will exacerbate existing gaps in educational and health outcomes along lines of geography, economic resources, and race.

In a letter sent to Congressional leaders, the attorneys general urge Congress to:

- Provide state, territorial, and local governments with adequate funding expressly dedicated to ensuring that all students and patients, especially senior citizens who are at risk, have adequate internet-enabled technology to participate equally in online learning and telemedicine.
- Increase funding to the U.S. Federal Communication Commission Universal Service Fund, which provides vital funding to rural and low-income populations, healthcare providers, and educators with the goal of bridging the digital divide.

With public health experts warning that a second wave of coronavirus infections may require teleschooling and telemedicine to continue for millions of Americans throughout 2020, it is critical that Congress act now to help ensure all Americans have the home internet connectivity they need to access educational opportunities, healthcare, and work.

SILK SHEETS

By "Swede" Troedsson (Missoula '59)

On August 13, 1959, late in the afternoon, Jon Disler (MSO '58) and I were dispatched to the S. Fork Callahan Cr. Fire. The lightening caused spot fire was on the Troy Ranger District, west of Libby, in northwest Montana. We flew to the fire in a Twin Beech. The spotter was Ray Schenck (MSO '56).

Upon arriving over the fire, Jon was kicked out first. By the time the Beech came back around to kick me out, Jon had landed and headed to the fire. When I landed, Jon was nowhere to be seen. I shouted to determine his location, but there was no response.

Before I exited the aircraft, Ray never pointed out the fire to me. So here I was, trying to determine if the fire was located up or down the mountain. With darkness not to far way, I didn't want to go hunting for a fire in the dark without a headlamp. Our fire packs, which contained the headlamps, had been parachuted down to us, and were nowhere to be seen.

I figured the best thing for me to do was to sit tight and wait for Jon to come get me. When night fell, I rolled up in my chute and slept the night on my landing spot.

Jon recalls that he shouted out to me, and hearing no response, decided to head to the fire.

In the morning Jon came up to get me, and we walked down the mountain to the fire. The fire was in dry soil cover (duff). We lined the fire, and then proceeded to mop it up. There was no moist soil on site in which to mix the embers. We spent most of the day putting hot embers in our hardhats and walking over to an area containing moist soil in which we could mix in the embers.

By that evening we had the fire out. The following morning (the 15th) we left the fire and were transported to the Troy Ranger Station, where we cleaned up and were fed. We spent the night in the ranger station bunkhouse.

The next morning we were transported to Troy to board a bus to Missoula. When the bus arrived, the bus driver began to load luggage into the luggage bin. Upon spotting our 100 lb packs, the driver pointed to us and said "YOU load those into the bin". We did. The bus trip to Missoula was uneventful.

FWP enrolling landowners for Block Management Program

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is enrolling landowners across the state who are interested in participating in the Block Management Program. Block Management is a cooperative effort between landowners and FWP to help manage public hunting activities on lands enrolled in the program.

Landowners enter into voluntary agreements and work with FWP to determine how hunting is managed on enrolled lands. Landowners decide on items such as requirements for the public to obtain landowner permission, vehicle use, species the landowner is allowing the public to hunt and the number of hunters allowed at any given time.

"Block management is a flexible, and customizable landowner-centric tool that allows landowners to decide how they'd like to allow public access for hunting on enrolled lands," said Jason Kool, FWP Hunting Access Bureau Chief. "Often landowners don't realize how customizable this program is," Kool said.

Block Management offers landowners various benefits who enroll in the program. Some of these benefits include assistance with wildlife and hunter management; compensation to help offset impacts associated with allowing public hunting; and a complimentary license benefit that may be designated to a family member or an employee. Additionally, landowners do not relinquish any private property rights by enrolling in the program and are covered by Montana's recreational liability statute as well as may be offered FWP livestock loss reimbursement if necessary.

Program budgets are limited, so lands offered for enrollment are prioritized on a region-wide basis. Habitat quality, regional access needs and the opportunity provided to hunters are some of the considerations FWP will use to prioritize properties.

For more information, or to receive an application packet, interested landowners can contact their local FWP wildlife biologist, warden or regional hunting access coordinator listed below:

Calling Lady Golfers!

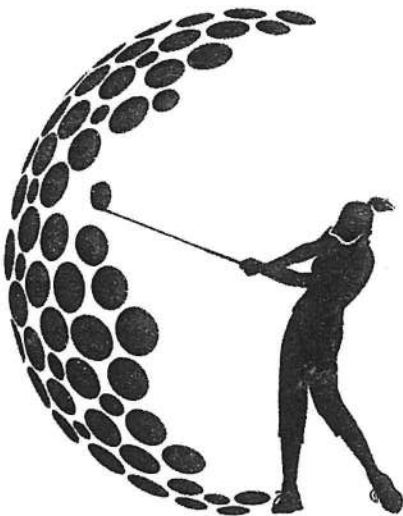

We are starting evening league play and morning league play has begun. We are in the process of updating our member lists and if you haven't received an email from us, you probably aren't on our list.

Morning league starts at 10 a.m. on Tuesdays and you need to sign up by Monday afternoon with Dawn Brown at drib63@hotmail.com, 406-925-3278 or on the sign-up sheet posted at the golf course

Evening league will be run on a weekly basis (women set up their own tee times as a team) with 4-man teams and a year end payout (if you don't have a team, please don't let that stop you from play, we can set you up!) Our first evening of "orientation/play" will be Tuesday, June 2nd.

If you are interested in playing evening league this year, please contact Becky Kington at bexk@3rivers.net or 406-792-6550.
