Elections & Robo Calls

By: MJ

A re you getting any "Robo Calls?" The irritating campaign robo calls are starting. Question: If the candidates are invested in representing you, why is it they call you with a one-way robo call where you have no opportunity to say anything. Do they actually care about what you have to say or is the call all about their wants and needs? What does that tell you about how they will represent you?

These are hard times for thousands who have lost their jobs, businesses, homes, vehicles, education funds, retirement funds… do to Covid-19. As if Covid-19 was not enough hurt to society, we had a surge of anger, disrespect, inconsideration, selfishness and greed that ran ramped via destructive raids that looted, burned, killed… Why is it that people think they can tear down or walk through other folks' boundaries for their own personal gain?

Could all this unrest be the reason candidates do "robo calls?" Listening to people explain their reality is not always an easy task, however listing to positives are uplifting. It is a two-way street. Looks to me like if you want someone's vote you would be willing to speak with them or have one of their representatives making the calls listen to the receiver of the call.

Why is it that individuals have to pay for their phones, yet those running for a public office think it is free for them to use as an advertising tool via "robo calls." Do not disrespect the taxpayers. Instead honor them when you are asking for their vote by giving them a way to contract you, a phone number, e-mail address or another way, before the recorder abruptly hangs up.

The Buckin' Dapple Gray

Bryce Angell

My father pointed to the corral. "You see that dapple gray?
I'd like it if you'd put a saddle on his back today."
The dapple gray sure weren't no looker. Horse face rings a bell.
He'd never had a curry comb as far as I could tell.
I queried. "Where'd you get the horse? He's ugly as can be.
Has he ever worn a saddle? And if no, he's not for me."
My father said, "I'm not too sure, but just you never mind.
I've got a feeling 'bout this horse. I'd say he's one good find!"
I slipped on his old hackamore with reins tied in a knot.
The first part came too easy. But for sure I had him caught.
I brushed him down then placed a saddlepad upon his back.
His eyes were getting bigger. He was planning his attack.
I put the saddle on the pad and moved it up a bit.
Then pulled the cinch up to his gut. That's when he threw a fit!
He jumped straight up, dang near six feet, then came down buckin' strong. I never knew an ornery cuss could kick and buck so long.
The fightin', stinkin' piece of crowbait paused to look around.
Then jumped back into buckin'. He was sure enough Hell bound.
He finally stopped and stared at me, still snortin', blowin' snot.
I reached and pulled the saddle off. Another lesson taught.
I asked my father, "What'd you pay?" He said, "I got him free."
I said, "For him that's still too much if it were up to me!"
He said, "I knew that horse was trouble. And now he's proved me right. Too bad he's not a keeper. He sure put up one good fight."
I guess I kind of chuckled 'bout my father's change of heart. He usually had good horse sense but was wrong right from the start.
And I'm not so sure what happed to the ornery dapple gray.
Do horses buck in Hades? Bet that's where he went to stay.

Southwest Montana Veteran's Home. Update #53

By Mike Lawson

Greeting once again to you, the Veterans/Communities/ Counties of SW MT, who are the chief organizers and supporters of the "SW MT Veteran's Home.

Lots to report this week, as things are really progressing on all the buildings that make up this, our SW MT Vet Home. I always enjoy getting the scoop, as to what has happened this past week and what is going to happen this week. My go-to guys, being Site Construction Superintendent Mike Ascheman and Carpenter General Foreman John Kotka, are always upbeat and positive about the building of this project. Our SW Mt Vet Home Liaison Mark Gollinger and I did a walk-through on Friday and, as usual, were impressed with how much got done durning the week. It's always interesting to see, if something is scheduled to be done and can't be gone, due to material not arriving or other problems that they get hit with. Mike and John always have a back-up plan, to go to, to accomplish another piece of the project building puzzle. As we go through the building construction updates we'll see how they worked their building construction magic.

Community Center Building: Interior: Every week we are anxious to see what has taken place here, since the last time we walked through. We were not disappointed. The ceiling are the big story, as all the T-Bar metal grid framing is in place, with all the Yellowstone Acoustical Grid ceiling panels installed. The sheet rock ceiling areas are being put in place and the probability of them wrapping this up, this week, is highly likely. The interior door hardware was installed for the doors that were hung. There are a few specialty doors that have yet to be delivered, which are expected this week or next. The electricians/sprinkler head guys and the sheetmetal guys were busy putting the ceiling vents, ceiling overhead light cans and the ceiling sprinkler head sections in place. These are finish work applications and gives us a glance, at the light at the end of the tunnel, for this Community Center Building completion. GF John Kotka is wanting to have some carpenters, doing finish trimming here, especially on the window boxes. This will really give a finished look to the rooms of this building.

Exterior: The siders are doing beautiful work and are ready to tackle the "Portico Entrance", which will entail a lot of work. I encourage anyone to drive by and see how beautiful this building is looking.

Cottage #1: Interior: The big happening here is the mud and taping, which is time consuming but it's progressing nicely. As this is going on and a certain amount gets done, the other krafts can move into the next phase of their individual work. The Sheetmetal and Plummer's are doing just that, in hooking components together , concerning the hot water piping and the heating system. The emphasis is in the Mechanical Room. The Fire Suppressant guys were also continuing on their work.

Exterior: It's all about siding, as the siding crew is going to town. The siding is a different color than the Community Building. It is a Grey trim with Blue-like siding. Drive by and take a look, as it's right next to the Blacktail Loop Road. It has a great look to it and John Kotka calls it the "Spirit of the USA".

Cottage #2: Interior: Sheetrock is still being hung in this building, but is getting closer to the end. The Plumbers and SheetMetal guys, continue to work on their rough-in hook-ups, etc..

Exterior: This building is ready for the siding crews to start siding it. It will be a different color than the Community Center Building and Cottage #1.

Cottage #3: The electricians are continuing to pull wire and install electrical boxes/conduit/etc.. Plumbers are finishing some of their rough-in piping. Insulators are scheduled to do sound insulation on interior walls. I mentioned last week about the shortage of sheetrock hangers. Between Mike Ascheman and Collins Painting, a Mexican Crew from Bozeman was hired and are working, hanging rock in this building. Mike said the Mexican workers across the country, have specialized in this process. They have a good reputation for doing good work, are reliable and are hard workers. This will definitely help keep this job on schedule and not get behind.

Exterior: Before the 3M Vapor Barrier, Peel and Stick material, can be applied, caulking of the corners and joints has to be done. This has happened on this building, with the 3M application following. This is then followed by window installation and the insulated foam Blue Board. The exterior building door frames have all been installed.

Cottage #4: Interior: The electricians are doing their, ongoing , rough-in of pulling wire/box installation/running conduit. The SheetMetal guys are working on ductwork and roof penetrations for roof vents. The Carpenters are close to being done for now after having framed/installed soffits as well as most of the blocking/backing.

Exterior: The exterior door frames will start to be installed. Caulking is started and possibly the 3M Vapor Barrier process will begin. This will then allow the window installation to get started.

Cottage #5; The best way to see this building is from the Continental Drive side, which is directly east of our Vet Home Complex. Most of the interior framing is completed, with framing of backing/blocking and soffits, continuing. The roof trusses on the resident wings were rolled up into place and sheeted with the fire resistant plywood sheeting. The Central Common Area of this building will see the roof trusts rolled into place this week, as a Monday delivery of them to the site, has been promised.

On-Site Work: Electricians have started working on the exterior "underground conduit/electrical line" work, which go from the "Electrical Vault Building" to each of the Cottages. The excavating work by Mike Zemlijak and crew, has seen most of the waterlines/storm drain system, completed. He has some "Retaining Wall" to build on the SW and North side of our Vet Home Site. Mike Ascheman is coordinating, in getting the pads poured for the Well House, the Electrical Vault Building and the Maintenance Building. Steed Cement Construction, out of Great Fall, has the contract to pour these pads. They would like to make one trip down and pour them all at the same time, which makes perfect sense. A big obstacle, Site Construction Superintendent Mike Ascheman, is dealing with now, is to get off-site parking for all the construction workers. The construction has progressed to the point of all these vehicles being in the way, of this next phase of construction. The Harrington family, who generously donated the land for our SW MT Vet Home, own the property north of us. This would be a good alternative, for our construction workers to park their vehicles. The Harrington family, has been so supportive to our Veterans and this Vet Home, that I think they would be willing to allow this to happen. Mike's in the process of contacting them.

SW MT Vet Home Liaison Mark Gollinger, continues to work behind the scenes, doing things most of us aren't aware of. He is in the process of acquiring Kitchen Equitment, Linens, Maintenance tools etc., needed for the operation of the home but not covered by the construction contract. We can only imagine the scope of this. In the process, of shopping, Mark has to compare sources in order to get the best deals for our Vet Home, the taxpayers and to meet the satisfaction of the supervisors of the state, who will review these purchases with a fine tooth comb.

Now that we're in Phase #2 of the state Covid-19 requirements, I expect the SW MT VET Home Foundation to start meeting soon, as we have important ongoing Veteran business/needs to address. As soon as a date is available, it will be published.

In closing, stay dry, be safe, and respect one another, in the climate our country is experiencing.
