Kristie Kae Piazzola, 65

Kristie Kae Piazzola, 65, passed away on June 22, 2020. She is again with her beloved parents, Wilburetta and Wallace Reynolds, brothers Duane and Bill and sisters Geraldine and Linda. She leaves behind her loving husband Joe; four children Marcy Cooley (Bryan), Rance Rathie (Elizabeth), Joe Piazzola (Morgan), Jon Piazzola (Mande); 10 grandchildren (who knew her as Gram and Nana) Tiana (Aaron), Stefano, Seth, Julia, Ryan, Emmie Lou, Colter, Joseph, Vincenzo, and Marlie; three greatgrandchildren, Noah, Abigail and Charlotte; brothers,

James, Tom, Terry, Larry, and Lyle; sisters, Joyce, Mae, Diane, Donna and Patsy; and uncountable number of nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends, who were also fortunate to be part of her family and feel her love.

Kristie was born in the Butte hospital on July 10, 1954. She was the youngest of 15 children raised in a small two-bedroom home in Melrose. Kristie's tough exterior, grit, determination, strength, stamina and fiery spirit were the product of being raised by a no-nonsense, hard-nosed-hard-working father, who was a miner by day and bar bouncer by night in Butte. Kristie's ability to care for, comfort, heal, cherish, appreciate, and love were taught to her by her Mother, who raised her children in their family home, once a mortuary and without running water.

Kristie graduated from Beaverhead County High School in Dillon. Although she didn't go to college, based on the way she could heal and take care of anyone and everyone, one would think she went to nursing school with a second degree as a counselor. She raised her children while also taking care of her parents, brothers, sisters, nieces, nephews, friends of her children, and friends of the family at times. Kristie believed anyone that needed a hand should be given one and that everyone deserved a second chance.

Kristie was taught to make do with little and was crafty in the kitchen. She was an artist with a sewing machine and a needle, an expert fly tier, handy in a workshop, and the ultimate homemaker. Kristie was emblematic of a true Montanan woman and worked tirelessly from the very first moment she could, often more than one job. She was an ideal employee and manager and was also an entrepreneur with some of her businesses being the Quack Quack café in Melrose, Sunrise Cleaning Service in Dillon, The Prospector in Sheridan, and The Sunrise Fly Shop in Melrose. who walked through one of those doors was welcomed with a big smile and immediately knew they came to the right place. She spent the last 15 years managing The Big Hole Ranch in Melrose, where she showcased her fondness for impeccably kept landscapes and beautiful flowers. Many say she was The Big Hole Ranch always adding her incredible cooking recipes and magical hospitality touch, enriching the experiences of others.

As soft and loving as Kristie was, she was also tough and hardened by life experiences. Those that were taken under her wing tell you it was the wing of a sow grizzly, especially if anyone came between her and her family. She had scrappy spirit, always offering memorable one-liners and setting the record straight when necessary. Kristie also had a competitive spirit and cherished card games. Everyone who knew her appreciated her rules of cards and life: show up on time, respect the game and play by the rules. They also knew a skunk in cribbage, her favorite game, was just around the corner. Those that knew her best were most certainly double-skunked at one point in time.

Along with her heart of gold, Kristie also had a golden arm and had a shot at the Professional Bowling Association's pro circuit. She maintained an average of over 200 pins per game and traveled around the west to compete. She spent endless hours on the lanes, always helping youth bowlers and adult leagues. She was also a die-hard Yankee fan, armchair managing every possible game surrounded by Yankees' memorabilia and oftentimes wearing a Yankees' jersey. She enjoyed traveling, and one of her most memorable trips was to Yankee Stadium to watch her favorite player, Derek Jeter, play.

More than anything, Kristie enjoyed spending time with her family. There was never a more proud, caring or loving mother put on earth. She was generous beyond anyone's imagination of the word and enjoyed every possible moment with her family. Her kids and grandkids will remember her for her amazing cooking and foods she loved to prepare. Buckets of chocolate chip cookies and the allure of her secret recipe will be forever etched in their minds. There was no distance she would not travel to be with her children and grandchildren, and she frequently traveled to North Dakota, Colorado, Utah and Argentina to spend quality time with all of them. She effortlessly taught, helped, healed and supported everyone in her family, always putting her own needs last. Her family knows that she left with no regrets, spending every possible moment texting, calling, video chatting, thinking about and praying for each one them.

Visitation will be from 5-7pm on Monday June 29th. The funeral services will be Tuesday June 30th at 1pm at Brundage Funeral Home. There is a Celebration of Life reception at 4:00pm at the Big Hole Ranch in Melrose.

HELPING HANDS!!

By Deb Pierce

The walking/bike path along the side of Laknar Lane is a path used by all sorts of people. This path is a great path to walk and talk, ride your bike, take the dog for a walk, and take the grandkids out to ride their bikes. The path gets over run with grass, alfalfa, and weeds as the summer progresses cutting down on the width of the path. There is a lady in our community along with her daughter who takes a day or so out of their busy schedules to weed-eat both sides of the path. So, if you see these two wonderful pillars of our community give Jessica and Emily Brevig as big thank you! Thanks for the hard work from all of us, the path looks great.

U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service biologist injured by grizzly bear in Centennial Valley

A biologist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) was attacked by a grizzly bear in the Centennial Valley Wednesday morning. The individual suffered serious bite wounds but is expected to recover fully.

The USFWS employee was working on a sage grouse monitoring project on Red Rock Lakes National Wildlife Refuge about a mile west of Elk Lake. The biologist heard a noise in the sagebrush and turned to see two grizzly bears in a close-encounter situation, approximately 80 to 100 yards away.

One bear stood up, and the other charged the biologist. The biologist deployed bear spray at the charging bear and throughout the attack until the attacking bear ran away with the other bear.

The biologist began leaving the site while reporting the incident to other USFWS staff, who came and helped the individual get medical attention. The biologist was transported to Rexburg, Idaho, for medical treatment and was released later Wednesday afternoon.

The biologist's report indicates the bears may have been young siblings around three years old. Idaho Fish & Game assisted Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks (FWP) in the early stages of the investigation, which is still ongoing.

Seven people have been injured this year by bears in the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem, including two recreationists in Montana. Grizzly bear populations continue to become denser and more widespread in Montana, increasing the likelihood that residents and recreationists will encounter them in new places. Being prepared for such encounters is more important than ever to keep people and property safe and to cultivate natural bear behavior.

Recreationists and people who work outdoors should always be prepared to handle a bear encounter. Most bear attacks on humans happen in surprise close encounters. Activities that are deliberately quiet or fast moving, such as hunting, mountain biking or trail running, put people at greater risk for surprising a bear. When you're outside, keep these precautions in mind:

- Be aware of your surroundings and look for bear sign.
- Read signs at trailheads and stay on trails. Be especially careful around creeks and in areas with dense brush.
- Carry bear spray. Know how to use it and be prepared to deploy

- it at a second's notice.
- Travel in groups whenever possible and make casual noise, which can help alert bears to your presence.
- Stay away from animal carcasses, which often attract bears.
- Follow U.S. Forest Service (USFS) food storage orders, which have been in effect for public lands in Montana since March 1.
- If you encounter a bear, never approach it. Back away slowly and leave the area.

Grizzly bears in the lower 48 states are currently listed as threatened under the Endangered Species Act. Management authority for grizzlies rests with the USFWS, working closely in Montana with FWP, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Wildlife Services, the USFS and Tribal lands. This collaboration happens through the Interagency Grizzly Bear Committee.
