Richard Bee Turner
1940 - 2020

On June 25, 2020, Richard Bee Turner, 80, died peacefully in his sleep at his home in Dillon, Montana, surrounded by family. A lifelong teacher and activist, Richard was loved and appreciated by many, especially in the social justice and LGBTQ community.

Richard was born in San Bruno, California and travelled extensively throughout his life. He lived and worked in Linfen, Shanxi Province, China, and Utqiagvik, Alaska, but he made his home in Dillon, Montana. Aside from his work as a college professor, Richard was active in politics and strove to help marginalized communities. His legacy as a progressive activist will continue to inspire those who knew him.

He is survived by his loving wife Marian of 50 years, extraordinary daughter Kate (Chaya & Marcelo), artistic son Luke, step-children Jenny, Laura Kat, Julianne, and Chris, as well as his lovely grandchildren Sebastian and Sylvia.

Per Richard's request, no services will be held. Donations may be made in Richard's name to the ACLU at aclu.org or the National Bail Fund at bailproject.org.

Brundage Funeral Home: funeral services and visitations

As we prepare for funeral services and visitations, Brundage Funeral Home would like to remind the public of the social distancing requirements. If we are expecting a larger gathering it may be most appropriate for the community to participate in either the visitation or the funeral but not both during this time of health concern. It is much easier for social distancing during the visitation therefore if you have any health concerns but feel it necessary to participate the visitation would be a much better option. For larger services we will have chairs available outside the funeral home. There are speakers on the exterior of the building on the front and north side of the building under the awning. As always if you are ill or in compromised health do not attend. I will also keep the register book on a table outside of the funeral home on the north side of the building prior to services in the event that you would like to stop by the funeral home to show your support by signing the register book and I am not in the office for some reason. Cards and letters can be mailed or dropped off to the funeral and I can forward them along if you do not have an address. It is suggested for larger gatherings that people wear a mask. There are masks available at the register book. There is also hand sanitizer available at the register book. Please help to keep our grieving families in the community safe during their time of mourning.

Our Veterans

Bryce Angell

I've listened to my father talk 'bout days of World War II. And how he proudly served with pride. He wore the Navy Blue.

He waited danged near thirty years to speak about the war. Some visions still unspeakable of sights he'd seen on shore.

But, he shows respect and proves it when he stands up for the flag. He says he stands for men who came back just a lone dog tag.

He said he can't forget when they were sailing back to shore. The sailors saw the Golden Gate, knew they were home for sure.

Old Glory was then lowered. Sailors walked down off the ship. He watched the roughest sea men covering up a quivering lip.

Last year my wife and I flew back to Washington DC. We viewed the War Memorials. A sight for all to see.

Each structure is a tribute to the ones who served and died. The Vietnam Memorial is where we stood and cried.

I wonder how my father feels when athletes take a knee. Especially when he risked his life, so they'd have liberty.

I heard an older veteran say, "It darned near makes me gag when a spoiled and overpaid athlete can disrespect our flag!"

My grandson asked me how I feel when athletes take a knee. I said, "It shows audacity. For that I disagree."

Tonight, when kneeling at my bed, I'll thank the Lord up there for those who served our country fending off the evil snare.

And when I pull the covers down, jump in and hit the sack, I know we'll all be safe cuz sure enough they had our back.

So, to every veteran, young and old, we'd like to say to you. "We country boys respect you. It's a thank you overdue."

By "Swede" Troedsson

A few years ago I drove my Toyota Tacoma to the Butte Toyota Dealership to get some warranty work done. I walked into the dealership (a big FANCY place) with my dog Harry on a leash. There were two service managers, each behind his own pulpit (for want of a better term). I approached one of them, and dropped Harry's leash so I could sign the paper work. After signing the paper work, I turned around to pick up Harry's leash. Harry had his nose stuck in the cabinet behind the other service manager. Harry's tail was wagging as he was eating the man's lunch! The man was not very happy, to say the least. I apologized and offered to pay for the lunch, but he turned me down.

I went into the lounge to wait out the service. There I was, eating free pop corn and cookies, drinking free coffee, and watching TV. There was a little old lady shuffling around tending to the coffee bar and other maintenance needs. She came over to my chair and said "Oh, oh! Harry had urped up the service manager's lunch! I was terribly embarrassed, and apologized. She was so sweet about the situation, and cleaned it up "like it never even happened".

I went to the service manager and told him he packed a lousy lunch. My dog "urped" it up. The service manager grumbled that my dog probably got into the hot sauce.

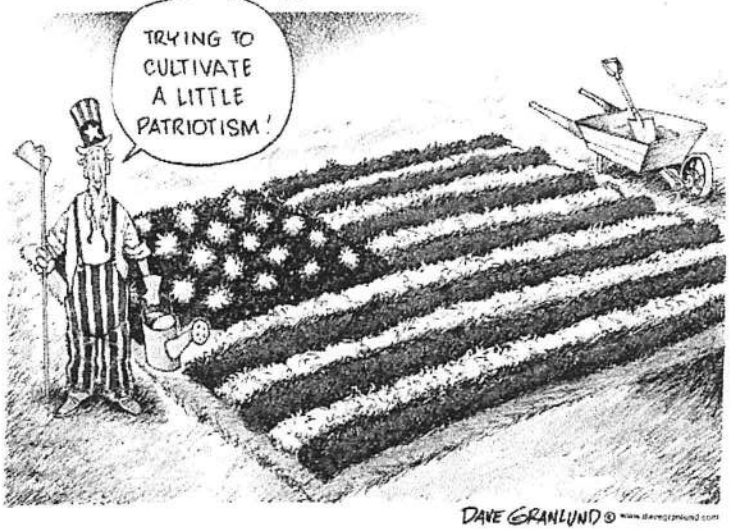
WHERE DOES YOUR STATE RANK ON THE PATRIOTISM SCALE?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

The personal finance website WalletHub recently released its ranking of the "patriotism" of all 50 states.

In an era of toppled statues, kneeling athletes, microaggressions, border wall controversies and globalist agendas, trying to define and quantify patriotism resembles voluntarily crisscrossing a minefield.



We've settled for a society where the "melting pot" is less important than "TAXING pot"; but once upon a time, patriotism was easier to recognize. Good Americans knew that true patriots kept a watchful eye on the oddball who planted a tree on Arbor Day. ("Mark my words: he's planting that poplar just so a communist can lurk behind it someday!")

Nowadays, greed seems to outweigh civic responsibility. If composer John Philip Sousa were alive today, his FIRST march would be down to the offices of Spotify and Pandora. ("Now, how much will you pay to stream the catalog of songs I've been holding out? You're kidding. I think you know where you can put these 76 trombones…")

Yes, throngs of townspeople used to be able to belt out the uplifting lyrics "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue" on Independence Day. In 2020 the song would have to be rendered suitable for the colorblind, the deaf, the hoarse and the mathematically challenged. ("After the neutered fireworks display, instead of a singalong, we have a multiracial, non-binary mime attempting to escape from an invisible box we like to call Western Civilization.")

Luckily, WalletHub had a panel of experts to help it hash out its criteria. (Patriotism experts? Is that even a thing? Do people graduate summa cum laude in watching the Old North Church, with minors in tight lips and remembering the Alamo? Do experts say things like "I'd love to go to the party, but I must scan the skies in case Commissioner Gordon sends up the Patriotism Question Signal"?)

One of the tasks WalletHub charged the experts with was naming the characteristics of a good patriot. But it would be more fun to enumerate the characteristics of a BAD patriot. (Does bad impressions of Christopher Walken insisting, "Needs more Liberty Bell." Finds a shortcut to Tipperary. Gives until it hurts…his feelings. Rips up his pocket copy of the Constitution while frantically seeking the words "Freedom's just another word for nothing left to lose…")

Some of the criteria for ranking states' patriotism are uncontroversial: highest average number of military enlistees, percentage of veterans per capita, most Peace Corps volunteers per capita, etc. But "highest volunteer rate" sticks in my craw. Not all volunteer work in this great land comes through organized charities. Much of it arrives in spur-of-the-moment gestures, even if they ARE more "showing off" than altruistic. ("You say your boy has a ruptured appendix, Bubba? Let me tie a string to my monster truck. Naw, it ain't no trouble…")

I'm also embarrassed that my home state (Tennessee) ranked 48th in the category of "highest percentage of adults who voted in the 2016 presidential election." In our defense, the pollsters were all saying, "Every minute in the voting booth is a minute away from SEC football." Pollsters, Jack Daniel…potato, potahto…

Anyway, if WalletHub publishes the listing again next year, maybe some of the lower-ranking states will be spurred to improve their score. And maybe old man Jones will finally repurpose that poplar tree as a SCHOOL DESK, to ward off commie nukes.
