Tim Myllymaki, 60

Timothy Lyle Myllymaki passed away on July 2, 2020 of a rare appendix cancer affecting only 1 in 2 million. He was 60 years old. Tim was born February 17, 1960 in Great Falls, MT to Patricia Knoepke Myllymaki and Lyle Myllymaki.

Tim was raised in Stanford, MT. Tim along with his older sister Deb and little sister Pam were raised by their sweet loving grandmother Esther Knoepke (Nana) after his parents were killed in a plane crash in 1973 when Tim was 13 years old. Tim graduated high school in Stanford MT in 1978. Following graduation Tim went to Devry Institute of Technology receiving a degree in electronic technology in 1980. Tim went to work for Western Geophysical in South America. His first job was in Bogota Colombia, then Venezuela and lastly Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. While there becoming fluent in Spanish and Portuguese, traveling extensively. Before returning to the states he brought Whitney to South America to see where all his ventures had taken him. His favorite place being Rio de Janeiro.

Tim returned in 1983 to be with the love of his life and wife of 35 years Whitney Myers Myllymaki. They married June 15, 1985 and both attended Montana State University where their son Brock Otis was born in 1989. Tim always said Brock is a true Bobcat. Tim loved his Bobcats. Tim graduated with an Electrical Engineering degree landing his first job at SSR Engineers in Billings, MT. In 1992 his beautiful daughter Katelyn Jordan joined the family. Tim always called her my baby girl and she called him Papa Bear. In April of 1995 Tim moved his family to Dillon, MT going to work for Vigilante Electric. He had 25 years with 'Vig' that is what he called it, and he loved his job. Moving to Dillon was a dream for Tim where he could hunt and fish to his heart's content. His most favorite pastime besides being a loving, fun and very proud Dad to his kids. Son, Brock Myllymaki (Bailey and baby girl Frankee Gray), Dillon. Daughter Katelyn Myllymaki Keller (Kris) Columbia Falls. Tim only had a few months with his granddaughter who he loved dearly. She looks like a Finlander and smiles like her grandpa Tim.

Tim loved his Finnish heritage and would tell you so every time there was a need to. The Finnish word "Sisu" was one Kori Mooney, a student at Montana Western from Kalispell, Mont., is majoring in Environmental Science with an emphasis in Geology and plans to graduate in the spring of 2022.

Mooney was scheduled to present her report, titled "Isolating In-situ Carbonate in Lake Sediment Cores to Improve Climate Interpretations: A Method Development Project," at the National Conference on Undergraduate Research (NCUR) this spring before it was cancelled due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Mooney's goal in her project was to isolate authigenic (in-situ) carbonate found in lake sediment from detrital carbonate to be able to reconstruct past climate trends. To accomplish this, Mooney had to bleach and sieve the sediment that came from Lake Morrison in the Medicine Lodge area.

Mooney gained assistance from Montana Western professor Dr. Spruce Schoenemann who helped her apply for the Award for Research in Engineering and Science (ARES) grant from the Montana Space Grant Consortium (MSGC) in December of 2018. Along with the grant, Dr. Schoenemann assisted Mooney with the method development as well as involving her in several other climate modeling projects.

"Following data from the lab to final figures is so fascinating. All of those hours in the lab prepping, drying, bleaching, and sieving the dirt comes back with an amazing story," Mooney said.

Not all parts of the process went according to plan. Mooney explained, "The wet sediment did not take the bleach treatment as well as the dry sediment, so we had to go through again with a totally new approach."

As a transfer student from the University of Montana, Mooney credits Montana Western's unique Experience One (X1) program for allowing her to gain real world experience in her field of study. This opportunity, along with her background in mapping charcoal deposits and a fascination with climate, all came together for her project.

"Experience One has allowed me to fully immerse myself into my courses," said Mooney.

The University of Montana Western is the only public four-year university in the country to offer Experience One, where students take one course at a time for 18 days, take a short break and then move on to their next course. Experiential learning opportunities, including conferences, internships, and research projects, provide students at Montana Western with real world experiences and professional connections in their fields of study.

For more information about the University of Montana Western and Experience One, visit umwestern.edu or call 877-683-7331.

Letter to the Editor

The Dillon Parks Committee would like to give a big Thank You to RoofTop Solutions from Rigby, Idaho. Last week the company re-roofed the log cabin at Children's Park on Center Street as a complementary gift to the children of Dillon. They removed what was left of the old shingles, applied new moisture barrier, high end composite shakes and a custom edge system. If the City had paid for this project it would have cost approximately five thousand dollars, $5000, because of the high end 50 year shakes. The project was completed by three executives from RoofTop Solutions, Lane Mortimer, General Manager; Braydon Graf, Project Manager and Travis Baker, Sales Manager. Travis Baker said "it was a fun community project and when we learned about the little boy, Robert Monaco in whose memory the cabin was built, well, we were just all in on the project." This cabin will continue to provide fun and delight for decades in the future. Thank you RoofTop Solutions!

BLM's Dillon Field Office welcomes new field manager

The Bureau of Land Management's Dillon Field Office greeted its new manager during an outdoor swearing-in ceremony under sunny, blue skies June 24.

Socially-distanced field office employees watched as Amanda James was sworn in by Montana/Dakotas BLM State Director John Melhoff.

James, a 20-year veteran of federal land management, replaces Cornie Hudson who retired in September 2019.

"I'm very grateful for the opportunity to help manage such a special place in southwestern Montana," James said after the ceremony. "I particularly love the collaboration process and look forward to working with the community on important public land management issues."

A Montana native, James returns to her home state after a four-year stint as the Ukiah Field Office Manager in the BLM's Central California District.

"Amanda has a strong background in and understanding of our rangeland management and forestry programs, as well as experience managing special and sensitive public lands highly valued by the American public," said Western Montana BLM District Manager Katie Stevens. "She has a real aptitude for collaborative, partnership-focused public lands management. For all these reasons, she's a great fit as the next Dillon Field Manager."

James has worked for the BLM for more than two decades, previously serving as the manager of the BLM's Agua Fria National Monument near Phoenix, Ariz. Among her other positions in the Bureau, she has worked as a natural resource specialist in Montana for the Missoula and Miles City field offices, where she began her federal career. She earned her bachelor's degree in Resource Conservation from the University of Montana in 2000.

The Dillon Field Office manages more than 900,000 acres of public lands and 1.3 million acres of mineral estate within Madison and Beaverhead counties.
