Learn about Subterranean Science and Super Symbiosis at the Caverns

-Friday, July 24, and Saturday, July 25, at 8 p.m.-

Montana State Parks (stateparks.mt.gov) and Lewis & Clark Caverns State Park will host two free programs this week. Join us in the campground amphitheater for "On Hollowed Grounds - A Dive into the Subterranean World of Caves, Sinkholes and Springs" with James Berglund and a talk about "Super Symbiosis" with Ranger Julia.

On Friday, July 24, at 8 p.m., join James Berglund as he escorts you through his extensive knowledge on the landscapes we know as "karst." Berglund will present on the natural beauty and societal importance of these regions characterized by their abundant caves, sinkholes and springs. Learn about these unique formations and how they (quite literally) shape the world around them.

This is the 10th presentation in Lewis & Clark Caverns State Park's annual Friday Summer Speaker Series, which will continue each Friday at 8 p.m. throughout the summer at L&CC's amphitheater.

Berglund has recently joined the Montana Bureau of Mines and Geology/Montana Tech as an assistant research hydrogeologist after finishing his Ph.D. in geoscience at Temple University in Philadelphia. Berglund has had the pleasure of studying and working in many karst landscapes throughout Minnesota, Missouri and Pennsylvania, and now uses his geologic and hydrologic expertise to study the hydrogeology of Montana for the MBMG's Ground Water Investigation Program.

What: "On Hollowed Grounds - A Dive into the Subterranean World of Caves, Sinkholes and Springs" with James Berglund

When: Friday, July 24, from 8 to 9 p.m.

Where: Campground Amphitheater

On Saturday, July 25, at 8 p.m., join Park Ranger Julia Smit for a talk about "Super Symbiosis." What happens when the natural world works together? Symbiosis! Learn about some of the most supportive relationships in nature in this ranger talk.

What: Ranger Talk: Super Symbiosis

When: Saturday, July 25, from 8 to 9 p.m.

Where: Campground Amphitheater

COVID-19: Visitors to these events must keep in mind Gov. Steve Bullock's directives on face coverings and social distancing. Face coverings are always encouraged, and if proper social distancing of at least six feet is not possible or not

Changes to surplus license process for 2020

To give residents and nonresidents a more equitable opportunity for surplus licenses, Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks has developed a new system for issuing surplus licenses.

Resident and nonresident hunters will be able to sign up for the new Surplus License List, with some sign-ups starting next week. Surplus licenses are leftover licenses from the special license and permit drawings FWP conducts each year.

To sign up for the Surplus License List, resident and nonresident hunters can sign up through the MyFWP portal: <https://myfwp.mt.gov/fwpExtPortal/login/login.jsp>. As licenses become available, the list will be randomized. Hunters at the top of the list will be contacted via email with instructions to finalize their purchase. Hunters must keep their email address current in their ALS record. Payment of the license fee is not required to sign up on the Surplus License List. Obtaining a license from this list has no effect on your existing preference points.

Hunters must finalize the purchase of the license/permit within the timeframe specified in the email, otherwise, your opportunity will be offered to the next hunter on the randomized list. FWP may offer opportunities that have not sold out through the Surplus License List to over-the-counter customers at our internal and external license sale providers.

License numbers:

The total number of Deer B licenses/permits a hunter may hold each year (through a combination of licenses acquired through drawings, purchased over the counter and through surplus sales is a total seven). Hunters electing Deer B license/permit opportunities will have the option to purchase two through the Surplus List.

For Elk and Elk B licenses a hunter may hold a maximum of three each year. Only one of the three can be a general elk license, and two could be Elk B licenses through various sources such as the original drawing, game damage, or surplus. If you do not hold a general Elk license, you could obtain up to three Elk B licenses. Hunters electing Elk B license opportunities through the Surplus License List may only purchase one. However, additional opportunities up to your maximum of three may be made available through over the counter or damage hunt sales.

For antelope licenses, a hunter may hold up to three in a year, of which, one can be either sex. Hunters electing Antelope license

Attorney General Fox Applauds FERC Dismissal of Petition to End State Net Metering Programs

Attorney General Tim Fox issued the following statement after the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) unanimously dismissed a petition by the New England Ratepayers Association that sought to end state net metering programs:

"I am pleased FERC unanimously dismissed a petition by a New England dark money group that sought to end state net metering programs. This is a significant win for the clean energy economy, as well as American consumers, including Montanans, who generate their own clean electricity to lower their energy bills."

On June 15, Fox joined a coalition of 16 attorneys general, the California Energy Commission, and the California Public Utilities Commission in calling on FERC to reaffirm the authority of states to regulate net metering programs. The states' protest is available here.

RMEF Supports Recommendations for Conservation Priorities

The Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation supports a list of priorities authored by the American Wildlife Conservation Partners (AWCP) to benefit and improve wildlife, habitat, public access and wildlife-associated recreation. The AWCP, a consortium of 50 conservation and hunting organizations including RMEF, spelled out the recommendations for the next White House administration and next two Congresses in Wildlife for the 21st Century: Volume VI.

"These recommendations represent a general agreement of the partners; we urge your consideration and adoption of these recommendations and look forward to working with you to create or reaffirm these federal administrative policies," said Jennifer Mock Schaeffer, 2019 ACWP Steering Committee chair.

"Adoption of these recommendations will improve federal agencies' stewardship of our nation's fish, wildlife, and habitats and enhance access to federal lands and waters for outdoor and wildlife-associated recreation," said Blake Henning, RMEF chief conservation officer and 2020 ACWP Steering Committee chair. "In addition to our wildlife and wild places, these collaborative actions between federal and state agencies will contribute significantly to the quality of life and economic well-being of citizens and future generations."

Here are AWCP's recommendations:

- Secure permanent and dedicated funding from public and private sources
- Enhance access for hunters and outdoor recreationists
- Require collaboration on big game migration corridors and habitats
- Integrate industry, state and federal wildlife goals early in energy planning
- Incentivize private landowners to conserve wildlife and habitat, and provide access for hunting
- Increase active management of federal lands and reduce litigation through collaboration
- Achieve greater results from an improved Endangered Species Act program

- Support and assist states in addressing chronic wasting disease and wild sheep pneumonia
 - Focus climate change policy on habitat conservation and restoration
 - Require collaboration for wildlife conservation, hunting and recreational shooting on federal lands
- Funding conservation work continues to fall heavily on the shoulders of hunters and anglers. Since 1937, state fish and wildlife agencies received more than $65.1 billion, or 60 percent of their funding, from sportsmen and women via excise taxes on their firearms, ammunition, fishing and boating-related purchases as well as from hunting and fishing licenses.

"RMEF appreciates and values the role hunters and anglers play in supporting conservation. We look forward to working with federal agencies over the next four years to help implement these conservation priorities," added Henning.

About the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation:

Founded more than 36 years ago, fueled by hunters and a membership of nearly 235,000 strong, RMEF has conserved more than 7.9 million acres for elk and other wildlife. RMEF also works to open and improve public access, fund and advocate for science-based resource management, and ensure the future of America's hunting heritage. Discover why "Hunting Is Conservation™" at rmeff.org or 800-CALL ELK.
