Montana Sees Major Increase in Online Child Exploitation Tips

Internet crimes against children cyber tips increased nearly 70% over 2019; rise linked to pandemic

The Montana Department of Justice announced today that in the first six months of 2020, the state's cyber tips related to internet crimes against children rose by nearly 70% compared to the same period last year.

From January through June of 2019, 244 cyber tips were reported for Montana. This year, 412 cyber tips were reported in the first six months. The cyber tips are software-detected images and videos of child explicit material with known IP addresses.

Internet service providers are required by law to report this information to the National Center of Missing and Exploited Children. Next, the cyber tips are assigned to the appropriate state Internet Crimes against Children (ICAC) Task Force for follow up. The Montana Department of Justice's Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI) manages the Montana ICAC Task Force, which consists of one DCI agent, two DCI forensic examiners, and several members from Montana police and Sheriff's departments, the Montana Department of Corrections, the Federal Bureau of Investigations, and Homeland Security Investigations. ICAC investigators are trained to investigate reports of children being victimized through computers or other online technology, and work with state and federal prosecutors to prosecute offenders in state and federal courts.

As of today, Montana stands at fewer than 50 tips away from the total received for all of 2019. Attorney General Tim Fox said, "We attribute this alarming increase to children being at home more since the pandemic began. As a result, they're more active on social networking and gaming sites, where predators contact them to obtain nude photos." Fox advised, "Pay close attention to which apps your children have on their phones and with whom they're engaging online. Parental involvement is the first step to reducing the harm cyber criminals can do to your children."

Montana's recent ICAC cyber tips data:

	2019	January - June 2020
Traveling for the purpose of sex with a minor	10	7
Enticing/soliciting a minor for sex	59	48
Obscenity toward a minor	61	17
Manufacturing child pornography	136	76

DCI Crime Information Bureau Chief/Montana ICAC Task Force Commander Gary Seder offered a number of ways parents can prevent their children from getting victimized online. "First, set rules for your children's internet usage and look through their social media accounts periodically. Check to see if they've installed messaging apps like Discord, Kik, or Snapchat, and if they're communicating in those apps via group settings or by individual chats. Predators will often 'meet' children in group chats, then groom them through private messages to gain their trust and ask or demand the child send increasingly intimate photos," Seder said.

Seder also recommends parents maintain a good rapport with their children so they'll disclose anything unsettling they encounter online. "In the event something does happen, don't blame your child, and don't delete the photos or chats that were sent. Above all, don't try to communicate with the predator yourself. The best thing to do is secure your child's device, so law enforcement will have needed evidence to build and charge a case," Seder advised.

For more information about online safety, visit NetSmartz. Due to the pandemic, in-person educational outreach to schools or groups is available on a limited basis. Montana ICAC Task Force members are working to develop a variety of age-appropriate virtual presentations.

Last year, the Montana ICAC Task Force members gave 239 school presentations across Montana, reaching more than 13,700 students.

UMW Recognized for Early Childhood Education Degree Programs

Study.com and Learn.org recently ranked the University of Montana Western's Early Childhood Education degree programs as some of the best in the nation.

Learn.org recognized UMW for its online Early Childhood Education program, ranking it #9 on a national list of 35 universities. To determine the top schools with online early childhood education programs, learn.org considered the kind of degrees offered, program cost, flexibility and completion time. Montana Western was the only Montana university to be featured. To view the entire list, visit learn.org.

Since 2003, Learn.org has been dedicated to helping millions of students and working professionals research potential schools, degrees and careers by providing reliable and practical answers to their most critical questions.

Study.com's list featured the "Best Early Childhood Education Programs for 2020," whether it be traditional on-campus degrees or online degrees. The Study.com team looked at information like programs offered, extracurricular activities available and data from the U.S. Department of Education. Study.com's rankings are unique in that they emphasize accessibility, affordability and quality of education, which they considered the most important attributes in the ranking lists. Montana Western was ranked #13 nationwide out of 50 universities and was the only Montana university listed in the ranking. Visit study.com to view the entire list.

To learn more about Montana Western's in-person and fully online degrees in Early Childhood Education, call 877-683-7331.

The fields of academic study at Montana Western include Biology, Business and Technology, Environmental Sciences, Education, English, Equine Studies, Health and Human Performance, Fine Arts, Mathematics and History, Philosophy and Social Sciences.

Students at the University of Montana Western enjoy a tight-knit community atmosphere and small class sizes where they work closely with peers and professors alike. Montana Western focuses on serving students, achieving academic excellence, and promoting experiential education. The 20-acre campus is an excellent choice for students to take advantage of the immersive learning opportunities offered by the nation's only Experience One program, where they can build on critical and creative thinking skills to prepare for real-world job and graduate school opportunities. With Experience One, students at Montana Western take one course at a time for 18 days, take a short break and then move on to their next course. By utilizing block scheduling combined with immersive learning, UMW is the only public four-year university in the country to employ this model that is focused on student success.

FWP joins coalition that promotes responsible recreation

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks has joined the Recreate Responsibly Coalition. This national coalition is a working group made up of land managers, nonprofits and outdoor businesses developing and sharing best practices to promote common sense guidance about getting outside during the COVID-19 pandemic.

FWP's participation in the coalition coincides with the launch of Montana Aware, the state's safe travel initiative being led by the Montana Department of Commerce in partnership with 17 Convention and Visitors Bureaus and six tourism regions. The campaign promotes safe and responsible behavior among those traveling in the state. The two efforts focus on educating travelers and recreationists on the best way to safely enjoy Montana and help slow the spread of COVID-19.

"We are all finding respite and rejuvenation outdoors this summer, but some of our most treasured spots are seeing an unprecedented amount of use," said Martha Williams, director Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks. "This high level of use can impact resources, experiences, and neighbors' tolerance. Recreating responsibly means being able to ensure we protect these treasures, opportunities, and relationships for others to enjoy as well. The outside is in us all and we want to keep it that way."

The Recreate Responsibly Coalition guidelines are:

- Know Before You Go—Check the status of the place you want to visit. If it is closed, don't go. If it's crowded, have a backup plan.
- Plan Ahead—Prepare for facilities to be closed, pack lunch

- Explore Locally—Limit long-distance travel and make use of local parks, trails and public spaces. Be mindful of your impact on the communities you visit.
- Practice Physical Distancing—Keep your group size small. Be prepared to cover your nose and mouth and give others space. If you are sick, stay home.
- Play It Safe—Slow down and choose lower-risk activities to reduce your risk of injury. Search and rescue operations and health care resources are both strained.
- Leave No Trace—Respect public lands and waters, native and local communities, and private property. Take all your garbage with you.
- Build an Inclusive Outdoors—Be an active part of making the outdoors safe and welcoming for all identities and abilities.

Letter to the Editor

Last night my son-in-law's mother, Denise O'Dea (67), died of COVID 19. It is heartbreaking that she not only lost her life but like many others she died in the hospital without her family. They had to grieve from a distance, being unable to be by her bedside.

To date nearly 150,000 people in the United States have died from COVID. To put this in perspective, if we combine the number of American soldiers killed in the Afghanistan, Iraq, Vietnam, and Korean Wars with the number of Americans killed in 9/11 it is 104,647.

There are things each of us can do to reduce the number of COVID deaths. One is to wear a mask when we are in public places or when we are with others who are not part of our family. In Montana as in other states, we have come to accept several laws designed to protect our health and safety. These include requiring students in higher education to receive immunizations before they can attend college, requiring smokers to refrain from smoking in public places, and making it a crime to drive while impaired. These laws are designed to protect the individual and also society. Wearing a mask is one way that we can protect ourselves and others from COVID 19. I've heard people argue that they should have the freedom to choose whether to wear a mask. But like in the other examples, you do have a choice. You can choose to stay home and not expose others to an unsafe situation. But if you do choose to be around others, please obey Governor Bullock's mandate. Wearing a mask is a minor inconvenience and a minor infringement on our freedom in comparison to our own or another's life.

Julie Bullard

The Grasshopper Valley Volunteer Fire Department ATV Fun Ride Postpone

Due to the worsening COVID-19 risk, we have decided it is best to postpone the Grasshopper Valley Volunteer Fire Department ATV Fun Ride until August 2021. We were looking forward to seeing everyone and appreciate your support in the past. GVVFD asks that you be careful, stay healthy and we will see you next year.

"Best of Bannack"

Join us for an unforgettable night of music and dancing to the sounds of "Best of Bannack". The group of talented musicians have been performing at the park for more than 25 years. So, dust off your hats and boots and dance the night away to classic Country & Western tunes in the pavilion at Bannack State Park. We hope to see you on the dance floor. Plenty of space for social distancing.

For information, call the park office at (406) 834-3413. Annual Barn Dance, featuring music from "Best of Bannack",
