Thad Hollis Guisbert

Thad Hollis Guisbert of Phoenix, Arizona, passed unexpectedly of a heart attack the evening of Wednesday July 29, 2020. He had a very dear friend by his side assuring him comfort in his time of need. Thad was a father, brother and friend that will be missed by many. Born to Irene Elizabeth (Haupt) Guisbert and Dr. Lynn Hume Guisbert, August 30, 1962 in Stambaugh, Michigan.

Survived by his daughters, Jessica Lynne Guisbert and Samantha Marie Guisbert. His grandchildren, who lit up his life, Elizabeth Marie Herren, Harper Lynn Felo, Savannah Marie Herren, Ellie Minerva Felo, Mickel Hollis Herren and Michiah Scott Felo. As well as siblings, Stephanie Ann Bemis, Roxanne Marie Cannonie, Andrea Louise Carter, Christopher Hugh Guisbert and Marie Barbara Ryczynow. Thad was an honest caring person who took pride in his work and prioritized God and family. He had a passion for the outdoors and family shared by those dear to him.

Do not let your hearts be troubled. You believe in God; believe also in me. My fathers house has many rooms; if that were not so, would I have told you that I am going there to prepare a place for you? And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back and take you to be with me that you also may be where I am. John 14: 1-3

Old Baldy Fire

Fire detected on August 1, 2020

Cause: Lightning

Current Size: 129 acres

Total Personnel: 86

Containment: 0%

Fuels: subalpine fir and lodgepole pine

Location: Approximately eight (8) miles East of Twin Bridges, MT in the Tobacco Root Mountains; Approximately six (6) miles Northeast of Sheridan, MT

The fire burned in the interior of the existing perimeter with no increase in fire size due to favorable weather conditions. Hot shot crews continue to work to construct a contingency line along the western edge of the fire where many dead trees make it difficult to engage the fire directly.

Closure: An area closure has been issued as all Forest access roads within the area are one way in and out in a popular recreation area.

Yesterday was the warmest day of the week, with low relative humidity.

Fishing restrictions enacted for several rivers due to warm temps

Several rivers in southwest Montana will close to fishing during the afternoon each day due to a seasonal rise in water temperatures.

"Hoot-owl" restrictions prohibit fishing during the hottest times of the day. A hoot-owl restriction prohibiting fishing from 2 p.m. to midnight each day will go into effect on Aug. 6 for the following waterbodies:

The lower Gallatin River from the Highway 84 bridge near Four Corners to the Missouri River.

The lower Ruby River from Duncan District Road to the Beaverhead River.

The Big Hole River from the North Fork of the Big Hole River to Dickie Bridge west of Wise River, and from Maidenrock Fishing Access Site to the Beaverhead River, in accordance with the Big Hole Watershed Committee Drought Plan.

The lower Beaverhead River from Anderson Lane to the Jefferson River.

The entire Jefferson River, in accordance with the Jefferson River Drought Plan.

Each of these areas have met their respective established requirements for hoot-owl restrictions, which include water temperatures exceeding 73 degrees for at least three consecutive days.

Restrictions of this nature are designed to protect fish such as Arctic grayling and trout, which all become more susceptible to disease and mortality when conditions such as high temperatures combine with additional stressors.

The restrictions for each river will be lifted when peak water temperatures stay below 70 degrees for three consecutive days, but no later than Sept. 15.

A permanent yearly hoot-owl restriction also went into effect this year for the lower Madison River from the Warm Springs Boat Launch to the Jefferson River. That restriction will be in effect every year from July 15 through Aug. 15.

MOONED

By
"Swede" Troedsson (MSO-'59)

On May 22nd, 2020, on the morning TV news on KXL (Butte), a photo was displayed of three pelicans tipped forward and looking underwater for food. Their hind ends were facing the camera. The photo was titled "Pelican moon". This reminded me of when I was "mooned".

In 1976, Bill Werhane (MSO-'66) requested that I present an hour lecture on back country rescue to returning smokejumpers. The presentation was in the Conference Room in the Missoula Smokejumper Base dormitory.

Behind the Conference Room was a small coffee room. The door to the coffee room was open. As I was delivering my lecture in front of the group, Jim Scofield (MSO-'66), the Regional Helicopter Specialist, entered the coffee room behind the class. He'd been out running, and was still in his sweat suit. After giving me a big evil grin, he turned, dropped his sweat pants, and mooned me. The group, their backs to him, was unaware of what was going on. I smiled, and continued my lecture.

Later that day I was relating this incident to Nels Jensen (MSO-'62), the Regional Aviation Officer. Nels laughed, and related the following mooning story to me:

On final approach to the Silver City Airport, NM, he was piloting a Beech Baron, having returned from a lead plane mission. As he was taxiing to the smokejumper parachute loft, a Southwest Airlines Boeing 737 passenger jet was taxiing to the terminal. At the same time, a DC-3 jump plane was roaring down the runway on its way to a fire. As it passed by the loft, a "pair of hams" was pressed against each window facing the loft. In front of the loft a group of jumpers mooned back at them. Boys will be boys!

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

My first knowledge of the War in the Pacific probably came from then-new episodes of "McHale's Navy" and the 20-year-old "Made in Occupied Japan" dishware that my mother collected.

Seemingly overnight, I find myself struggling to do justice to the topic of the 75th (!) anniversary of V-J (Victory over Japan) Day.

(Japan declared total surrender to the Allies on August 15, 1945. Many nations do use the 15th for V-J Day remembrances, but President Truman delayed the official U.S. commemoration until September 2, when the formal surrender document was signed aboard the battleship USS Missouri in Tokyo Bay. I guess, like the coroner of "Oz," Truman wanted to ensure that imperial Japan was "not only merely dead, but really most sincerely dead.")

World War II veterans (from both the European Theater and Pacific Theater) were all around me when I was growing up. They were neighbors, churchgoers, shopkeepers, government officials, coaches and more. I never thought they were a dime a dozen, but I did take it for granted they were... immortal.

Again, seemingly overnight, most of those veterans are now deceased or in failing mental/physical health. Ditto their spouses, their older children (who aided the war effort by planting Victory Gardens and collecting scrap metal) and an alarming number of their younger children (my generation – the postwar Baby Boomers).

This 75th anniversary is a sobering milestone. 76th or 80th or 90th anniversaries just aren't as catchy, and by the time the 100th anniversary of V-J Day arrives, only a handful of centenarians with adult memories of World War II will be around for interviews. (Undoubtedly, they will credit a diet of lard-dipped Marlboros.)

As time marches on, "Today In History" articles will mention 75th anniversaries of Churchill's "iron curtain" speech, the rise of Red China, the beginning of the Korean conflict, etc.; but details of World War II will be even more "irrelevant" than they are now. (This will delight some people. I just read of a young man in Great Britain who demands that schools skip teaching about the war because the Holocaust and warfare are too "intense" for modern sensibilities.)

So, regrettably, this is sort of a "last hurrah" for the Greatest Generation.

That's why we should all make the most of the occasion. Fly your flag proudly. Dig out a dusty family scrapbook. Ponder how Gen. Douglas MacArthur's magnanimous treatment of postwar Japan led to friendly ties today. Pray that world leaders may go another 75 years without using an atomic bomb in combat. Do something thoughtful for a veteran, whether they served as sniper or mail clerk.

Contemplate how V-E Day and V-J Day impact your everyday life. We tend to focus on the totalitarian nightmare we would face in 2020 if the Axis Powers had won; but even if the Allies had eventually triumphed, every additional day of combat would have increased casualties. One of my college professors confided that – until Japan's surrender – he was scheduled to be in the first wave of Marines to serve as cannon fodder on the beaches. Many of us would never have been born if not for the efforts that brought the war to a close in summer 1945. Did I just feel someone walking on my grave?

Finally, mark your calendars to make every Veterans Day and Memorial Day more special than the last.

5-6 PM Mon-Fri

The Fishing Outfitters Association of Montana (FOAM) and the George Grant Chapter of Trout Unlimited (GGTU) along with the Anaconda Sportsmen Association (ASA) will present their petitions directly to the commission. Both petitions are requesting rulemaking to address recreation on the Madison River. Following the presentation of the petitions, FWP staff will answer questions but will not represent any support or opposition to the petitions.

Pursuant to 2-4-315, Montana Code Annotated, the commission must either deny the petition or initiate rulemaking on the petition. If the commission chooses to propose rule language other than what is contained in the petition, the commission must deny the petition and then propose rule language. If the commission chooses portions of the petitions to adopt or deny, it must be clearly indicated on the record.

FWP recommends the commission propose rule language regarding management of recreational use on the Madison River for public comment, whether based on these petitions or not.

Shortly after the canceled June Commission meeting on this topic two petitions were received and the decision was made to dedicate the August 13 meeting to just the required petition process, rather than FWP staff presenting an EA. If the Commission moves forward with any proposed rulemaking, an appropriately focused EA would accompany that process. This would include ample opportunity for the diverse public interests and perspectives to review and weigh in, ultimately helping to assemble an effective and enduring solution.

Both petitions are available on the commission page of the FWP website, fwp.mt.gov.

The meeting will be held using the video conferencing platform Zoom. Details on how to access the meeting will be posted on fwp.mt.gov closer to the meeting date. The meeting will also be audio streamed online at fwp.mt.gov. The meeting begins at 8:30 a.m. The full agenda is available on the FWP website.
