UPDATE: Log Gulch, Departure Point campgrounds on Holter Lake closed

Log Gulch Campground on Holter Lake is currently closed as engineers from the Bureau of Land Management's Butte Field Office complete a resurfacing project.

Just up the road, the BLM's Departure Point Campground is also closed while the work is taking place.

Both campgrounds will be closed through Aug. 14. Those hoping to use the campgrounds as a jumping-off place for their Holter Lake adventures should plan accordingly.

In addition, visitors traveling on Beartooth Road on the eastern side of the lake should expect delays as a resurfacing project will also take place on the county road that runs between Log Gulch and Departure Point at this time.

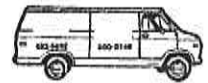

For more information, call the Butte Field Office at (406) 533-7600.

Letter to the Editor

Sirs and Ladies:

Mrs. Bonnie Ferris is spot-on regarding the useless, autocratic orders by the Governor for Montana re mandatory face mask use and physical separation.

After the demands were handed down, I checked the URLs for CDC, US Public Health service, and the National Library of Medicine. None of these sites had any published papers in support of these demands.

If memory serves, about 50 years ago the matter of usual face mask use was studied and found wanting.

Sincerely yours,
Daniel H Eudaily

Special Hours for August and September at Lewis & Clark Caverns

Montana State Parks (stateparks.mt.gov) announces adjusted hours of operation and cavern tours at Lewis & Clark Caverns State Park, beginning Aug. 20, as the season begins to wind down.

As of Aug. 20, the visitor centers will be open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day, with Paradise Tours every hour from 9:15 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Tours will continue to be limited and offered by reservation only. To make a reservation, contact the park by phone at 406-287-3541. Tours are often fully booked a week in advance. Visitors can reserve spots up to two weeks in advance of their desired tour dates.

For the weekends of Aug. 22 and 23, Aug. 29 and 30, and Sept. 5 and 6, advance reservations will also be available for additional tours at 5:15 p.m. and 6:15 p.m. daily to help accommodate more visitors on the weekends. After Sept. 6, tours will be offered daily, every hour from 9:15 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. until Sept. 30.

We're glad to continue serving the public and sharing this spectacular resource," said Park Manager Rhea Armstrong. "The passion our guides feel for the Caverns comes across on every tour. Though we have had modified operations this year, our standard of service and safety has not changed."

The Paradise Tour is about a mile of walking and 1.5 hours. It features the largest and most decorated room in the cave system. Masks are required, and staff cleans the handrails with bleach during each tour.

For more information about these or other events at Lewis & Clark Caverns State Park, call (406) 287-3541.

RATS

By "Swede" Troedsson

During 1954 - 1955 I was stationed in Korea with the First Marine Division. Part of my duties was manning outposts along the DMZ (38th parallel). We pulled rotating 30 day shifts, living in bunkers and tents, and serving as an early detection system should the North Koreans decide to "jump the line".

The area was heavily populated with rats. Lots of rats. BIG RATS! (Dan Pence, who served with the Army in Korea, recalls the rats being "as big as cats") With the numerous rice paddies, and decomposing bodies, they had a plentiful food base.

Some of these rats carried a hemorrhagic fever virus. This virus would damage the walls of tiny blood vessels. In fatal cases, the victim would internally hemorrhage to death. The sclera (whites of the eyes) would turn flaming red just prior to death. Capt. Black, our Company Commander, survived this infection.

I had a pet dog and taught her to sleep on the foot of my cot so as to keep the rats off me. At night, prior to turning out the light, leftovers from food packages from home would be stored in .50 cal. ammo cans so rats would not demolish the food.

One of the men in our bunker was a "White Russian" named Issador Riggalo. One night I awoke to Issador shouting and cursing. When I shined my flashlight on Issador, he was sitting upright on his cot. Blood was trickling down the bridge of his nose. Issador explained that he awoke to something warm lying on his forehead. When he reached up to grab it, a rat bit him.

Another night, in our bunker, I awoke to a snuffling and scrabbling noise next to my cot. I shined my flashlight on the source of the noise. The noise came from a large rat caught by its nose in a rat trap. I pounded it to death with the butt end of my M-1 rifle.

One night I was returning to my company area from a patrol. On my way back to my tent, I passed by the communications bunker, which was manned 24/7. Lantern light shown through the entry way. I heard pistol shots from inside the bunker. When I peeked into the bunker, I could see the shadow of a large rat running across one of the bunker beams. The duty radioman, out of pure boredom, would track the rat with his .45 pistol, shoot, and usually miss. Sand would trickle out of the bullet hole in the sandbag.

Oh, well, at least the rats were providing entertainment for a bored radioman!

Summer Activities at Tendoy Fine Art

Despite our current pandemic, Tendoy Fine Art has continued to find ways to keep a small-town gallery operational and follow necessary protocols. New work by area artists is being represented, special exhibits have been on display and art classes continue at a brisk pace. A Plein Aire painting event with limited enrollment was offered by Colleen Howe Cheney last week and Jean James did an art journaling workshop in June. Cheney has expanded her art instruction opportunities to include a watercolor class on Friday mornings from 10:00 to 12:15 and a beginning oil class on Wednesdays from 1:00 to 3:15. These classes, along with her landscape painting oil class Wednesday mornings from 10 to 12:15, are ongoing classes and available by the month or by the class.

For the month of August, Tendoy Fine Art will be featuring three works by well-known artist and educator, Jim Corr. Corr, who passed away in 2017, was a man of many talents that included coaching basketball, football, track and golf; but for many, his art instruction introduced students to a lifelong career making art and/or teaching art to young people. The three works being presented at Tendoy Fine Art were a donation to the gallery and proceeds from sales will go to help gallery operations. This is an opportunity to own a treasured painting by Jim Corr.

To assist members of Tendoy Fine Art, the managing members set up a photo booth in the basement of the gallery. The booth is designed to be an environment that will assist artists in photographing their work in a professional way. Reaching out to the community, Tendoy Fine Art is opening the use of the photo booth to area artists who are not current members. In keeping with the organization's mission statement which includes, "to encourage greater awareness of Southwestern Montana as a valuable resource for artistic inspiration," the gallery hopes to assist with presentation challenges for any artist who needs this kind of help.

The Rise and Restore Small Business Summit is in response to COVID-19.

Join us to hear how industry experts and other business owners have been maintaining their business, stabilizing their profit, and protecting their team in response to COVID-19.

Headwaters RC&D, Small Business Development Center (SBDC) in conjunction with the Department of Transportation Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE) Program is hosting a business plan competition throughout a seven-county region in Southwestern Montana consisting of Beaverhead, Butte-Silver Bow, Deer Lodge, Granite, Jefferson Madison, and Powell. The goal of this event is to attract new entrepreneurs and support existing businesses in Southwestern Montana by uniting communities in a common goal of economic development. HW and the MT DBE have donated $10,000 which will be awarded in two prize packages of $5,000; one to a startup business and one to an existing business.

Headwaters RC&D will be holding business plan development classes via Zoom. Entrepreneurs planning to compete in the Minnow Tank Business Plan competition are encouraged to attend a class. Class topics include Business Plan Basics, Marketing, and Small Business Financials. Check the schedule below to register for a business plan development class. If you are unable to attend a class please call Headwaters RC&D to schedule an appointment with Julie Jaksha at (406) 533-6780 or SBDC Advisor Taylor Lovell at (406) 533-6783.

Minnow Tank business plan submissions are due to Headwaters by 5:00 PM on September 30th. Submissions can be mailed to Headwaters RC&D at 65 E Broadway St- 5th Floor, Butte MT 59701 or sent via e-mail to jjaksha@headwatersrcd.org or tlovell@headwatersrcd.org
