THE LONGER WE'RE ISOLATED, THE LESS PRODUCTIVE WE GET

by Tom Purcell

COVID-19 is getting old – particularly for employees who've been working from home for months.

That's the finding of a Wall Street Journal article, "Companies Start to Think Remote Work Isn't So Great After All."

Early on, when millions stopped commuting and started working from home, many companies saw good results. Work was getting done. Most employees enjoyed it. Companies saw an opportunity to reduce future office overhead costs by making remote work part of their long-term strategy.

But that was before cracks began to emerge in the work-from-home model.

According to The Journal, initiatives now take longer. Hiring and integrating new staff is harder. Employees aren't bonding or growing with each other. Efforts to collaborate online are going flat.

One CEO puts his finger on the problem: It's "vital to have individuals in a room and see physique language and skim indicators that don't come by means of a display screen."

He's exactly correct. Humans are social animals. We're at our best when we collaborate face to face. Communication theorist Nick Morgan explains why in Forbes:

"(W)e share mirror neurons that allow us to match each other's emotions unconsciously and immediately. We leak emotions to each other. We anticipate and mirror each other's movements when we're in sympathy or agreement with one another – when we're on the same side. And we can mirror each other's brain activity when we're engaged in storytelling and listening – both halves of the communication conundrum."

As a freelance writer, working from home for years, I find myself climbing the walls many days. Too much home-office isolation makes getting things done harder.

Though online meetings are helpful, I long for face-to-face interaction. The best ideas come from in-person brainstorming – as one person jots ideas on a whiteboard and others shout out concepts. You just can't do that well in online meetings.

Furthermore, I've worked for clients I never met in person. Such relationships are never as rich as those in which I'm able to meet and work with clients in their offices over time.

In any event, as companies rediscover human nature's limitations – that employees isolated at home aren't as productive or as engaged with colleagues – they shed light on a growing problem in our society: Increasingly isolated inside our homes, particularly due to the virus, more people

Cases of COVID-19 confirmed in Beaverhead County

As of 12:00pm on 8/10/2020 Beaverhead County Public Health reports 64 total cases in Beaverhead County since the beginning of the Coronavirus Pandemic. There are currently 8 active cases. There is one current hospitalization (included in the active case count).

As with every case if you are not contacted by public health, you are not considered a close contact. A close contact is considered someone who is within 6 feet for at least 15 minutes with a positive case.

As we've seen our cases more than double in the last two weeks, we implore residents to follow social distancing guidelines, wear face coverings in indoor public places or at outdoor events where social distancing isn't easily performed, perform frequent hand washing, and remain home when you are not feeling well.

We are now experiencing community spread in Beaverhead County, meaning that not all cases have identified origins. Our community has begun to experience the fallout of quarantines, meaning many individuals have been unable to go to work or attend social functions because of quarantine restrictions. You can greatly reduce your risk of having to quarantine by following social distancing measures and avoiding gathering with groups of people that don't live in your household. If you are identified as a close contact of a COVID-19 positive patient you will be REQUIRED to quarantine for 14 days from your last date of contact. We must stress that this isn't suggested or optional, it is an enforceable order.

Be safe, stay vigilant. These measures help yourself, your family, your friends, and the businesses in this community that you support.

ROTARY CLUB SPEAKER

Sandy Carlson, District Governor for Rotary, will speak to Rotarians and guests at noon Wednesday, August 12, 2020. She will provide an update for our rotary district and current year rotary objectives for the district and Rotary International. Visitors are welcome.

Anyone interested in learning more about Rotary should come at noon to be a guest for lunch. The Club meets in the Guild Hall of St. James Episcopal Church, 203 East Glendale St. For more information, email Mike Blando at mikeblando0717@gmail.com or Tina Giem at tgiem@barretthospital.org.

Montana Department of Justice Warns of New Twist on Old Lottery Scam

Officials at the Montana Department of Justice announced that Montanans, especially senior citizens, should be aware of a new tactic being used in the old lottery scam.

The new twist works like this: A scammer calls you, claiming to be from the Montana State Gaming Commission. The scammer says if you pay $600, you'll have a chance to win $1 million.

Legitimate lotteries never require people to send money to claim a prize or to have a chance at winning, Attorney General Tim Fox said. Because older persons are especially vulnerable due to physical and mental decline, social isolation, and their tendency to trust others, the most effective thing we can do to combat this scam is public education. Remind your parents, grandparents, and elderly friends about the importance of staying vigilant for lottery scams and other rip-offs that can happen if they engage with these caller Fox added.

Another red flag? The Montana State Gaming Commission doesn't exist. The Gambling Control Division at the Montana Department of Justice is responsible for state gaming regulation. Angela Nunn, Gambling Control Division Administrator, said, Real lotteries never contact the winner, or other players, because they don't know who these people are. So, keep in mind two things: If you receive a call claiming to be from the Montana State Gaming Commission, it's a scam; if you're asked to send money in relation to lotteries, it's a scam.

Nunn also advised Montanans questioning the validity of a contact from the Gambling Control Division to call her office at (406) 444-1971 or email gcd@mt.gov to confirm.

For more information on lottery scams, visit the Montana Lottery's website, or Montana Department of Justice's Office of Consumer Protection's (OCP) information here. If you or a family member are the victim of a scam, contact local law enforcement. You may also report scams to OCP by calling 1-800-481-6896 (toll-free) or (406) 444-4500, or by emailing contactocp@mt.gov.

For updates on this and other issues, follow DOJ's Gambling Control Division and OCP on Facebook.

5 Things to Think About Within 5 Years of Retirement

- 1) Estimate the monthly income you will need. It may be less than you need now, as your monthly expenses may decline. You may need to adjust or reallocate your portfolio and take another look at both income-producing and growth investments. You'll also want to factor in the amount you will receive from Social Security as well as Required Minimum Distributions.
- 2) Determine whether you will stay in your existing home or move. Retiring to another state may mean tax savings. Many retirees decide to downsize to a smaller dwelling to lower their living expenses. Also consider whether you wish to move closer to your immediate family members and grandchildren. Traveling can get more difficult as we age, and there are many advantages to having your family in close proximity.
- 3) Debt and Taxes. It's possible that you will retire to a lower income tax bracket than what you are currently. If you can stand the one-time tax hit, converting a traditional IRA to a Roth IRA could someday give you a source of tax-free retirement income. However, before making this change, talk with a qualified tax professional to make sure this is the right decision for your unique scenario. Converted amounts are usually taxed as income, and age and income restrictions may apply.
- 4) Healthcare Costs. Will you be eligible for Medicare? Will Medicare provide enough coverage? Remember that many retirees will eventually need long-term care at some point during retirement, which can quickly drain your savings.
- 5) Imagine what your ideal retirement looks like. How do you plan to fill your days during retirement? Do you plan on traveling the world, or staying home and building your dream garden? Is there a hobby that you want to explore, but simply never had the time to try it previously? Make sure that your finances can support your retirement goals, whatever those may be.

Let's plan a smooth retirement transition. Call or email me with your questions to design a strategy that works for you.
