VOLUNTEER

Dillon's Adopted citizen William Bingman was in Dillon recently visiting friends. William volunteered on all of the build days for the playground at Jaycee Park. William is seated at the new picnic tables he helped assemble. Thank you to generous citizens of Dillon who purchased a picnic table. Your continued support is amazing. There is no greater good than to help someone else

Thank you, Friends of Jaycee Park

Beaverhead County Public Health Reports First COVID-Related Death

Sue Hansen, Beaverhead County Public Health Director, reported the county's first COVID-19 related death.

On Tuesday, August 25th, a woman in her 60s passed away in a Yellowstone County hospital. The woman contracted COVID-19 while recuperating in a rehab center. "We are saddened that this disease contributed to the death of one of our own residents," Hansen stated. Public Health offers their condolences to her family, friends, and the Dillon community.

To protect the privacy of the deceased and her family, Beaverhead County Public Health will not release further information about the death.

As of August 27, 2020, 70 Beaverhead County residents have been infected with COVID-19 and now 1 death. Currently, there is 1 active case.

Beaverhead County Pass Update
Lemhi pass road is now open for public use.

Hoot-owl fishing restrictions lifted

Afternoon fishing restrictions on several southwest Montana waters have been lifted Thursday.

"Hoot-owl" restrictions were put in place on Aug. 6, prohibiting fishing each day from 2 p.m. to midnight on the following waters:

- The lower Gallatin River from the Highway 84 bridge near Four Corners to the Missouri River.
- The lower Ruby River from Duncan District Road to the Beaverhead River.
- The Big Hole River from the North Fork of the Big Hole River to Dickie Bridge west of Wise River, and from Maidenrock Fishing Access Site to the Beaverhead River.
- The lower Beaverhead River from Anderson Lane to the Jefferson River.
- The entire Jefferson River.

These restrictions have been lifted Thursday, Aug. 27. Water temperatures in each area have stayed below 70 degrees for the required timeframe, and temperatures are expected to continue to cool over the coming days.

Hoot-owl restrictions are designed to protect fish such as Arctic grayling and trout, which all become more susceptible to disease and mortality when conditions such as high temperatures, low flows and low water pressure combine with additional stressors.

State 'stabilization' grants try to plug the holes in federal relief efforts by Eric Dietrich 08.25.2020 montanafreepress

Business owners say the state-administered grants are welcome aid, even as critics complain that Gov. Steve Bullock hasn't written checks fast enough.

Scott Buchholz, who runs a one-person sawmill operation outside of Dillon, is one of tens of thousands of small business owners in Montana who've felt the pandemic pinch their livelihoods this year.

Local ranchers are typically his largest customers, he said in an interview. This spring, though, they weren't placing their usual orders for fence posts and other supplies, leaving him scraping by on small-dollar orders for home improvement projects. On top of that, his wife, who works at the local hospital, had her hours cut enough that the couple lost their health insurance.

Buchholz said he looked into the Paycheck Protection Program, the banner federal stimulus program that has provided more than 22,000 Montana businesses with forgivable loans. However, he said, a PPP loan would have come with strings attached, and the program was designed more for larger businesses with employees on payroll.

"The money was there, but it was issued through the local bank. And they didn't even understand how it worked," he said.

In combination with his ongoing struggle to stay stocked with millable timber, Buchholz said, the situation was enough to have him wondering whether it was time to shut down.

Instead, though, he found relief in a $4,125 grant, issued not by the federal government but by Montana's Business Stabilization Grant program, a state-administered relief effort designed to help small businesses make ends meet through the crisis.

The grant, Buchholz said, helped him "fill in the blanks" in his business budget, buying wood and equipment like blades for his mill. When a chainsaw failed on him, it meant he could buy a new one instead of scrounging for a used machine or trying to cobble together a fix with spare parts.

Along with a public health care plan and his wife's unemployment benefits, the grant means his family is in OK shape.

"It came at the right time to keep my business going," he said.

BEAR CREEK FIRE

August 29, 2020 8:00 p.m.
CURRENT SIZE: 11,728 acres
CONTAINMENT: 80%
LOCATION: Lemhi Pass area

PERSONNEL AND RESOURCES ON THE FIRE: Resources officially assigned to the fire include two helicopters, one Type 2 IA crew, and 71 total personnel. Demobilization of resources no longer needed will continue as the organization is downsized. Those resources will travel to home units or be available for reassignment to other fires. Northern Rockies Team 5 will officially transfer command of the fire back to the local Forest on Monday, August 31st at 6:00 a.m.

ACTIVITY: Crews focused efforts on mopping-up and securing the line on the northwest corner of the fire, where the fire was somewhat active under the Red Flag conditions. Gusty winds resulted in short crown runs and active backing fire on the surface of the ground. Nearly all activity was interior to the constructed firelines; however, crews located one spot outside the line but were successful in suppressing it with assistance from a helicopter. On the northern, southern, and eastern flanks, crews and heavy equipment completed suppression repair and rehabilitation, pulling back berms and smoothing out the constructed firelines and back-hauling equipment and supplies no longer needed.

PLANNED ACTIVITY: All remaining resources will mop-up hot spots, patrol the line, and complete suppression repair and rehabilitation on the northwest corner of the fire. Two helicopters will be available to assist with bucket drops, if needed. Gusty winds could limit air operations.

SPECIAL CONCERNS & CLOSURES: Public and firefighter safety concerns are the top priority. Refer to the "Closures" and "Photos" tabs of the Inciweb site for narrative descriptions and maps of all agency closures. Hunters should check Inciweb and/or call for closure information and maps.

The Lemhi Pass Road is OPEN.

Area closures are still in effect; agencies will discuss any modifications and/or rescissions for the near future.
