AG Fox Urges Continued FDA Support for Drug Accessibility, Affordability Through Its Orange Book

Attorney General Tim Fox today joined a bipartisan coalition of 23 state and territory attorneys general in signing a bipartisan letter urging the Food and Drug Administration to prohibit use of the FDA Orange Book to block competition.

The Orange Book enables the branded drug manufacturer to obtain an automatic thirty-month suspension of the FDA's approval of any potential generic competitor claiming a listed patent, Attorney General Tim Fox said. "This is why Orange Book eligibility requirements for patents are extremely important and ripe for abuse by drug delivery device patents. Our coalition is concerned that expansive reading of the Orange Book blocks generics for insulin and other drugs that are vital to so many Americans," Fox added.

In the letter, a response to a call for public comment by the FDA, the attorneys general express their concern with the affordability of drugs and devices, calling on the FDA to prohibit companies from listing device and component patents in the FDA's Orange Book. This request is consistent with the recent First Circuit decision in In re Lantus, which addressed component patents, and in the spirit of the Hatch-Waxman Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act, which established a balanced framework to benefit drug development and accessibility.

The comments describe insulin delivery devices as an example of how this practice can contribute to oligopoly prices and limited options, and the detrimental impact that has on our society. Despite having been discovered almost a century ago, there are few generic insulin products in part because insulin manufacturers listed drug delivery device patents improperly in the Orange Book. Current research indicates that one in four Americans with diabetes has reported cost-related skimping or skipping on an insulin dose due to a near tripling of costs over the past decade for the four most common insulin formulations.

State Creek Fire burning on Butte Ranger District

Fire officials from the Butte Ranger District of the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest responded to a new fire start near State Creek over this past weekend. The fire was caused by a lightning strike on August 25th and went undetected until Saturday, August 29th.

The fire is currently at three acres in an area that is difficult for firefighters to access due to a rough terrain, numerous snags, and a significant amount of dead and down trees. Firefighters were initially on-site, but had to disengage due to safety concerns after several burning snags fell. Currently fire managers are using helicopters to keep the fire in check while crews have started creating fuel breaks along roads and private inholdings. The fuel breaks are in preparation for any possible fire spread as the weather conditions warm up in the coming days.

According to Jan Bowey, Acting District Ranger, "The State Creek Fire may be with us until we have a season-ending event. We are hopeful that our aerial attack will hold it in check as it is much too dangerous to send our Firefighters into that area."

Cooler temperatures with rain and snow at higher elevations Sunday and Monday reduced fire activity. Since weather predictions show that the area will return to warmer, and drier conditions, Tuesday and Wednesday fire activity is expected to increase. Smoke will be visible from Whitehall.

Southwest Montana Veterans
BY Mike Lawson

I mentioned a Veteran's project taking place at Stodden Park. As you drive into this Park on the north entrance, off Dewey Blvd., you will come to the new "round-about" and on the south side of that, is the Veterans Corner of Stodden Park. In 1984-85 I was part of a Viet Nam Veteran group call "Trip Wire". We did fundraising, purchased the material, got one of our member's Engineer brother to draw the plans and once approved by the County, built the Amphitheater that is presently there.

Over the years, through the Veteran's organizations and the United Veterans Council, Monuments honoring Veterans from WWI, WWII and the Korean War have been moved from other locations around town to this location.

The Korean War Memorial is newer and was built at Stodden Park. Grant money donated by the Denny and Phyllis Washington Foundation, has benefited all portions of Stodden Park. This Veteran's part of Stodden Park was included and is getting a much needed renovation. An 80 ft flagpole, new cement sidewalks, cement pad in front of the Amphitheater Stage, Handicap ramp/stairs unto the stage, new metal roof, wiring, lighting and sound system capabilities are all part of this. All this is starting to happen with a great portion of it happening next week and through September. Once completed it will be a great place for the community to have special events happen there.

We the Veterans are very grateful to the Washington Foundation, Anthony Laslovich, Project Manager/Engineer, Water & Environmental Technologies and SBC Parks & Recreation Director JP Gallagher for coming and talking to us at our United Veterans Council Meetings, for our input. They then followed up with those recommendations, with the result of the Veteran's part of Stodden Park being a great section to this "Showcase Park".

I would encourage any of you to check things out in the weeks ahead at Stodden Park.

Elk Country Protected, Accessible in Oregon

The Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation permanently protected 158 acres of prime elk habitat in the heart of Oregon's Willowa Mountains. The transaction also improves access for hunters and others to approximately 520 acres of adjacent public land.

"We appreciate our partners at the U.S. Forest Service and Oregon Department of State Lands for working with us to make this happen," said Kyle Weaver, RMEF president and CEO.

The Bear Creek property was an inholding of the Willowa-Whitman National Forest but is now in public hands and under the forest's management.

"This is a relatively small but extremely important parcel to conserve because it's on the edge of elk winter range and also serves as both transitional and summer range in an area with more than 2,000 elk," said Blake Henning, RMEF chief conservation officer. "Additionally, it provides habitat for mule and whitetail deer, black bears, mountain lions and a variety of small mammal and bird species."

The property is located in the northeast part of Oregon just east of the 360,000-acre Eagle Cap Wilderness, a popular destination for hunting, fishing, hiking, horseback riding and other forms of recreation.

It is also about 30 miles from two other RMEF projects that permanently protect more than 1,100 acres of wildlife habitat. One of the projects, completed in 2017, improved public access to more than 23,000 acres of adjacent public land.
