Drafts of Madison River recreation rules, environmental assessment released

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks released a draft version of the Madison River recreation administrative rules as well as the environmental assessment (EA) for public comment Friday.

The documents can be found online at fwp.mt.gov. The comment period will be open until Oct. 30.

The draft administrative rule is derived from two rule-making petitions sent to the Fish and Wildlife Commission, one from the Fishing Outfitters Association of Montana (FOAM) and another from a collaborative of the George Grant Chapter of Trout Unlimited, the Skyline Sportsmen Association and the Anaconda Sportsmen Association. The petitions were heard by the commission at their August meeting and were approved to move into the rule-making and EA process.

Under state statute, the rule-making process starts with draft rule language and is followed by public hearings and a public comment period. The public hearing for the draft rule will be Oct. 20 at 6 p.m. via the Zoom meeting platform, due to social distancing restrictions given the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. In addition, written or emailed comments will be accepted for the duration of the comment period.

The EA analyzes three alternatives – each of the petitions, along with a no-action alternative that would maintain the status-quo. The analysis looks at each alternative for effects on recreation, natural and physical resources, heritage, and economics of the Madison River. Additionally, the EA predicts the potential of the alternatives to effectively meet the desired recreation goals for the Madison River: 1) ensure long-term health and sustainability of the fisheries; 2) diversify angling opportunity while reducing conflicts; and 3) sustain the ecological and economic benefits of the river to Montanans and our guests.

"With these draft documents, we now have something very tangible for the public to comment on," said FWP Director Martha Williams. "Managing recreation on the Madison River has a long and contentious history. We're anxious to hear from the public about the draft rules and EA."

The public will be able to watch the public meeting streamed on the FWP YouTube channel and will have a dedicated phone line to call in and provide public comment. Details on how to participate will be on the FWP website. The commission will make reasonable accommodations for persons with disabilities who wish to participate in this rule-making process or need an alternative accessible format of this notice. If you require an accommodation, contact the department no later than Oct. 9 to advise FWP of the nature of the accommodation that you need. For questions about the hearing, please contact Jessica Snyder at FWP, P.O. Box 200701, Helena, Montana, 59620-0701; telephone 406-444-9785; or e-mail jesssnyder@mt.gov.

Gentlemen,

On behalf of Mark & Sandi Sloan, Chuck Henline, myself and the team at the Bar Double T Ranch, we would like to express our sincere appreciation for the incredible effort put forth by the Bureau of Land Management, the U. S. Forest Service and the Beaverhead County Sheriff's Department during the Bear Creek fire. Needless to say, it was a difficult and scary time for our ranch.

The professionalism, commitment, dedication, and execution by each organization involved was truly amazing. Your communications with, and respect for, the ranch and our team are deeply appreciated. We fully realize that we could have lost our entire ranch we will forever be grateful to you.

Please share our appreciation with your entire team.
Sincerely,

O. Temple Sloan Jr.

Donate a hunting license to disabled veterans armed forces members

Montana law allows residents and nonresidents to donate their hunting license and or special permit to a disabled military veteran or disabled active duty service member. This year, there is a higher interest among veterans to take advantage of this program, and Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is asking for more hunters to donate licenses.

The disabled veteran or active armed forces member must be working with an organization that uses hunting as part of the rehabilitation process.

While one cannot choose the organization to receive a donated license, the disabled veteran or armed forces member who receives the license must be a Purple Heart recipient and have a 70 percent or greater disability rating.

Each license must be donated or surrendered before the beginning of the general hunting season. The deadline to donate your license is Oct. 23 at a FWP office or postmarked by Oct. 23. After donating the license, a hunter cannot repurchase the same license again during the license year.

For more information on the program, visit FWP's website at fwp.mt.gov. Click Disabled Veterans Hunt License Donation or call Licensing at 406-444-2950.

Town Pump's 19th Annual "Be A Friend In Deed, Helping Those In Need" food bank campaign

MCH and UMW to Host Packing & Outfitting Mini-Symposium

The Montana Center for Horsemanship, an international equine education and event center to advance horse-human education and natural horsemanship, headquartered in Dillon, Montana, with co-host, the University of Montana Western, present a one day Packing & Outfitting mini-symposium on Saturday, October 3.

The fall program features presenters from the US Forest Service and the renowned Nine-mile Pack String, Backcountry Horsemen, an emergency medicine equine veterinarian and a presentation on bear safety with stock in backcountry, along with Natural Horsemanship educators, trainers, and students.

Presentations and demonstrations with horses and mules will focus on the rich history, skills, practice and hands-on experiential learning and training that have made packing and outfitting in America's backcountry and wilderness possible, for recreation and for the professional industry. A tentative featured speaker is Montana's renowned outfitter and recipient of numerous awards, Smoke Elser. Elser, who is in his 80s and still active with horses and mules, has worked the backcountry for more than 50 years. He has trained and guided thousands of individuals and groups including the U.S. military, Special Forces, corporate CEOs, and worked with hundreds of mules and horses in the most remote, wild areas of the American West.

The event will follow all current health guidelines and regulations including mask wearing, practicing social distancing and limiting the number of attendees. Coordinator Janet Rose says the mission of the Center is to advance horse-human education through natural horsemanship and thinks of these new programs as representing the true "Icons of the American West. The way natural horsemanship is taught at MCH, is the foundation of everything that we do with the horse. We are developing programs and events to advance that vision." Rose adds that the newly expanded Center, which is currently under development, is an education center to support hands-on learning, research, and training. The Center will host future events including conferences, workshops, and other symposiums, enabling people to advance their knowledge of horse-human interaction and well-being. Rose says this first event of the season will have tables, booths and welcomes new sponsors. The University of Montana Western is co-host of this symposium. Triple Crown Feed, the historic Andrus Hotel, Horse Haven Montana, Gallagher electric fencing, the USFS and Backcountry Horsemen are among the event's sponsors.

William Kriegel, President of the MCH board and founder says, "It's a Center that facilitates learning with the horse, through our relationship with the horse. We are building a Center to promote and advance education and research. It's unique in the U.S. In France, we established Haras de la Cense, Europe's leading equine education center and we hope MCH fills a similar, education niche in the U.S."

The Montana Center for Horsemanship is also home to the nation's first and only Bachelor of Science Degree in Natural Horsemanship, in partnership with the University of Montana Western.

The one day Packing & Outfitting mini-symposium on Saturday, October 3, begins at 9:30 a.m. and runs until 4:30 p.m. To learn more, register or sponsor, contact MCH at 406.925.3270 or signup online at <http://www.montanacenterforhorsemanship.org/get-involved/ways-donate>

Registration is $20 in advance or $25 at MCH but advance registration is advised; and again, masks are required. To learn more, visit www.montanacenterforhorsemanship.org

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT ON SPOOFING

Barrett Hospital & HealthCare notifies the public that scammers are using a technique called spoofing to gain phone access to local residents. Recently, residents have been receiving phone calls and or text messages that appear to be from Barrett Memorial Hospital or Barrett Hospital & HealthCare. Scammers can make a call appear to be from any number on the caller ID. Be assured that Barrett Hospital & HealthCare is not giving away a vacation, cruise, selling medical bracelets or calling to people to update their personal information such as social security number etc. or to discuss their credit activity or history.

To read more about spoofing, visit the Federal Communications Commission website at <https://www.fcc.gov/consumers/guides/spoofing-and-caller-id>
