MENTAL HEALTH ADVOCACY PANEL

OCTOBER 9TH – NOON to 2 P.M. on ZOOM https://zoom.us/j/99201976688

Details and insights on how to be an effective mental health advocate is the focus of "SPEAK UP" a statewide panel of Montana experts on Friday, October 9th between Noon to 2 p.m. on a ZOOM conference call (https://zoom.us/j/99201976688). It is open to the public and hosted by the Beaverhead County Mental Health Local Advisory Council

Panel members include: DPHHS Addictive and Mental Disorders Division Administrator Zoe Barnard, Montana Chapter National Association of Mental Illness (NAMI) Executive Director Matt Kuntz, Montana Budget and Policy Council Co-Director Heather O'Laughlin, MT Behavioral Health Alliance Director Mary Windecker, and local Dillon Assistant Police Chief Jeremy Alvarez.

Each panelist will discuss their area of expertise on the status of the state's current mental health programs, strengths and gaps in service, the impact of slashed mental health services in 2018-19 on some of the state's most vulnerable citizens in rural areas, i.e. Beaverhead County, and offer insights into how effective advocacy and mental health programs' support is needed in the upcoming 2021 state Legislative Session.

Beaverhead County was particularly hard hit in late 2018/early 2019 when state budget cuts eliminated a number of local agencies in Dillon, including the mental health center and its' residential facility, offices of DPHHS Public Assistance, Department of Labor Job Service, Chemical Dependency, and other human and public service agencies, according to Katherine Buckley-Patton. "Many families and individuals with mental health challenges were left on their own with only a fractured support system remaining," she said. "We knew we had to do something in response."

The county's Mental Health Local Advisory Council led an ultimately successful effort to partially restore some intermittent face to face services in Dillon through the development of a Resource Assistance Center. In a unique collaboration between county and state officials, the RAC is open each Wednesday and different state agencies use it as a 'home base' to make in person visits.

Friday's advocacy panel will provide important baseline information about the current and future status of critical mental health services in our state, Buckley-Patton said. "There's nothing more effective than someone who lives with mental illness sharing their story. We want to give them the tools to do that. The Mental Health Panel is another step in our LAC's commitment to educate our community on mental health, reduce the stigma, and fight for changes in our state's behavioral health system."

Advocacy starts with honest and open dialogue, she said. "Our goal is to bring individuals, families, friends, and neighbors together so they can get people organized, clearly define critical needs, and move legislation along in order to change policies."

Big Hole River fishing closure lifted

A full fishing closure that has been in place for a portion of the Big Hole River has been lifted.

Flows in this part of the Big Hole recently met the criteria for lifting the closure, remaining above 40 cubic feet per second (CFS) on average for seven consecutive days.

The closure was initiated last month after flows had dropped below the 20-CFS average threshold for a full angling closure, as directed by the Big Hole Watershed Committee Drought Plan. The closure extended from the Saginaw Bridge on Skinner Meadows Road upstream to the North Fork of the Big Hole River.

Restrictions of this nature are designed to protect fish, such as Arctic grayling and trout, which become more susceptible to disease and mortality when conditions such as low flows and high temperatures combine with additional stressors.

Some waterbodies, such as the Big Hole River, can see seasonal hoot-owl restrictions and closures due to rises in water temperatures and low flows. Updates to fishing restrictions, closures and reopenings can be found at fwp.mt.gov/news/restrictions/waterClosure.html.

Anglers can help reduce stress for fish by following these practices when catching and releasing fish:

- Land the fish quickly.
- Wet your hands before handling the fish.
- Keep the fish in water as much as possible.
- Remove the hook gently. Using artificial lures with single and barbless hooks can make hook removal faster and easier. If the fish is hooked deeply, you may have to snip the line at the fish's mouth or consider keeping it, if regulations allow.
- Let the fish recover before releasing it.

To City Ward 4 Constituents and City Citizens

As a Ward 4 Councilman I need your help. There is a dust up at the City over how Zoom is to be used and and who can use it. An Amendment to Council Rules of Procedure is due to be passed tonight at the 7PM Council Meeting which will give the Mayor super powers in these regards as to both Council and Committee Meetings. It is item E.3.b.i. on the Agenda. A copy is available through the City website or by going to City Hall. To date, several Councilmembers and City staff have used Zoom to attend meetings. The Library Board uses Zoom. Nevertheless, the passage is aimed at me in particular to first make it so that I can not vote as a Councilman by Zoom, and second to then vote me off the Island once I am logged in sufficiently as not voting/not attending Council and Committee Meetings. I have filed multiple ADA claims with the City for my continued use of Zoom as an ADA Reasonable Accommodation which remain unanswered. Local governments can not overrule Federal law. This Amendment will also affect the public's ability to Zoom. So my request for help is simply this. If you disagree with the Amendment and/or you do not want the City involved in the expense of lengthy legal or administrative proceedings and/or you don't want to see another chapter of what has become a pattern of musical chairs turnover for short termed Ward 4 Councilman, then please Zoom attend the Council Meeting. If using the Zoom app., the entry ID is: 770-316-6528. By computer, the URL is https://zoom.us/j/7703166528 according to the City.

The genesis of this dust up begins with disagreement over the virus pandemic with, principally, the Mayor and Councilman Graham. They are virus minimizers. I am not. I believe in using the options currently open to us - masks and social distancing - to control the community spread of the virus. Every medical professional in this community that I have spoken to is in agreement with me and is trying their level best to keep us healthy. The City Council physical meeting area has not been designed to be safe from the virus, either for Council or Committee Meetings. Members meet unmasked behind the dais elbow to elbow. The small virus notice posted on the front door is totally unenforced. People must break social distancing to enter from the North hallway. These are only some of the reasons why City leaders should stop only doing minimum measures to stop virus spread. We are currently setting records both for the state and Beaverhead County for community acquired cases of virus. Those cases cause multiple cases of contact quarantine through Public Health. They are now overloaded with several hundreds of contact tracing quarantine cases. Yet several instances of close community gatherings have taken place which have contributed to this overload. County Public Health and our community health providers also need your help.

The disagreement over the virus morphed into disagreement over the Mayor's lack of effectiveness in installing and using Zoom. That morphed into the proposed Zoom Amendment.

I am having a lengthy medical procedure in Missoula tomorrow, so I will probably be unable to Zoom attend the Council Meeting. However, I will return home Thursday afternoon if anyone wishes to reach out to me then. Best wishes to you all.

- Rich Wassall, Ward 4 Councilman

FWP encourages hunters to keep tags, licenses in plastic baggies

To prevent paper licenses and carcass tags from getting wet and unreadable, Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks recommends hunters keep these documents in a sealable plastic bag, such as Ziploc. Hunters are encouraged to keep their licenses and carcass tags in plastic bags both before and after validating and attaching to a harvested animal.

Earlier this year, FWP switched from using thermal paper to regular paper. Customers can also keep a digital version of their non-carcass licenses on their phone.

The ability to print certain licenses from home also eliminates the need for customers to visit FWP offices, where COVID-19 safety protocols are in place and occupancy is limited.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Fellow Citizens of Beaverhead County,

A plea on behalf of your grandchildren, great grandchildren, and ours - that we heed the warnings of scientists around our small, interconnected planet:

Climate Change is real and affecting all of us every day consider the smoke umbrella from the West coast fires. A rural area such as ours utilizes scientific advances to operate and support livelihoods. All these qualified scientists can't be lying to us. Much of Montana is already in moderate drought stage. Our forests are dry and vulnerable. Lack of sufficient water will affect crops.

We can either support the emerging efforts to develop alternative energy sources that have wide-ranging benefits, or we can stand in the way. We can either work with Clenera, offer negotiation, or research other companies that have already established solar farms around the country to see if their prices are more attractive. Let's open our minds to being part of a proposed solution and not limit our thinking to the boundaries of our good county.

Most sincerely, Val Neeley
